STATE LABOR FEDERATION TO RE-ELECT HEADS

Speeches Heard at Convention Include Plan to Override Supreme Court.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 4.—Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco received applause yesterday when he addressed the delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the California State Federation of Labor in advocacy of the passage of the Water and Power Act.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, sent the convention a telegram urging that all possible be done to obtain the impeachment of Attorney-General Daugherty and Federal Judge Wilkerson because of the action in the injunction against striking railway shopmen.

Charles H. Randall, former Congressman, who is seeking re-election from the Ninth district, and Walter H. Lineberger, incumbent, who is also seeking re-election, addressed the delegates.

Lineberger declared he had "great faith and confidence" in Attorney-General Daugherty. Randall declared he had "none."

WOULD CURB COURT.

Both agreed, however, that the present powers of the United States Supreme Court should be "curbed in some way."

Lineberger suggested that the curbing be done by a law making it possible to overrule the tribunal's decisions by a two-thirds vote of congress. He also said he was in favor of direct nomination and election of presidents.

Randall, discussing Daugherty and the Republican party in general, said, "Political fiddlers of today make Nero look like thirty cents," and referred to the present tariff committee as "the Millionaire's club."

LAND, WAGE QUESTIONS.

Others who addressed the convention included Mrs. Minnie M. Armstrong, who discussed the minimum wage question, and Dr. Elwood Mead, who spoke on the California state land settlement.

Nomination of officers will be the chief business at today's sessions. Predictions were made that President Seth R. Brown, Los Angeles, and Secretary-treasurer Paul Scharrenberg, San Francisco, would be elected.

Stockton and Santa Barbara have begun campaigns to obtain the 1923 convention.

PRESIDENT TELLS UNIQUE PLACE OF MILLS COLLEGE

Institution Only One of Kind in West, Points Out Dr. Reinhardt.

In connection with an editorial appeal, published in the San Francisco Chronicle, calling for financial support of the University of California and Stanford University, Mrs. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, president of Mills College has written the following letter. The communication, published in today's Chronicle, calls attention to the fact that Mills College is the only women's college in the West. The letter reads, in part:

I wish you might extend the mantle of your protection to a third institution which has a unique purpose in Western education, a history of genuine usefulness, and an undeniable place among the institutions of the State. At Berkeley is our great State university with its vast undergraduate group, its professional schools, its graduate division, and a variety of educational opportunities that makes a great State university basic in our American system of education. At Palo Alto is the splendid coeducational university which Senator and Mrs. Stanford endowed and which is giving to some 2500 students the best of advantages in the humanities and certain of the professional and technical branches.

In addition, in Oakland is Mills college, the only college for women in the western part of our continent which is recognized as standard in all particulars by the national organization which judges and rates higher institutions of learning—the Association of American Universities. Mills college has now an enrollment of more women than are permitted to enter at Stanford by the limitations of its constitution. It has a limited number of graduate students. Mills has well-organized departments in arts and sciences, the humanities and technical courses of interest to women as well as professional courses for teachers—an addition made at the request of the State of California.

Since the Association of American Universities considers that the degrees granted by Mills and the work offered by the college is of equal value to like degrees and like work offered by the universities, can you not make of the two institutions, which you present for the consideration of the public a trio of worthy institutions?

If Harvard and Yale, Amherst and Williams have meant much in the history of education for American manhood; if Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Smith and Wellesley have made important contributions in the education of American womanhood, is it not thinkable that such an institution as Mills College has a definite work to do throughout our great West? Should we discourage a woman's college from striving to create an ideal environment and an ideal organization for the education of women?

It may interest you to know that the Rockefeller Foundation has given to Mills College $350,000 as a third of the first million dollars endowment to create a fund for teachers' salaries. They have promised a like amount for the second million, which the friends of the college should be glad to complete so that more adequate buildings may be added to the equipment at present in use.

Leland Stanford said: "The children of California shall be my children." Mills College says: "The daughters of California shall be my daughters."

And you, Mr. de Young, if you can not be a godfather to Mills College, will you not be a friend who believes in the work and ideals of the institution here brought to your attention? Yours very earnestly,

AURELIA HENRY REINHARDT.

Japanese Begins Period for Shot At Countryman

Kodani Sent to San Quentin for Attempted Murder of San Jose Oriental.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 4.—Sajiro Kodina, who, according to court decree, will spend the next few years in the state's prison at San Quentin or in some Japanese convict colony across the Pacific, was today taken to San Quentin to begin the prison term which will soon culminate in a hearing on deportation. Kodani is accused of having shot with intent to commit murder, K. Hiyama, secretary of the local Japanese society and one of the best known of the city's Orientals.

Court attaches are telling of the strange scene that took place yesterday in the court room of Judge J. R. Welch following the pronouncing of Kodani's sentence. As the Japanese, who had made a bitter fight for freedom, was leaving the court room two of his countrymen who had remained in the background came forward and shook the convicted man's hand warmly. They were the man he had tried to kill and the woman who would have been left a widow.

According to the police Kodani leaped overboard in San Francisco harbor and swam ashore without proper papers, thus smuggling himself into the country. Hiyama knew of this and when the fugitive showed up in San Jose Hiyama advised him to give himself up.

Kodani refused to do so and a few nights later shot the man who knew his secret.

Yet when Hiyama shook Kodani's hand yesterday he pressed a $5 bill into it—for little luxuries. Truly, for "ways that are dark" the heathen Chinese has nothing on his slant-eyed cousin.

BROWN ROT TO BE FOUGHT BY SOIL TREATMENT

HAYWARD, Oct. 4.—Attacking brown rot, a pest causing serious loss in apricot orchards, by means of soil treatment, is the novel plan of the Alameda County Farm Bureau, according to Russell T. Robinson, county agricultural agent. Two ten acre orchard plots have been obtained in the Mount Eden section as experiment plots on which a soil survey will be made, and methods of soil treatment for the control of brown as well as spray and dust control will be attempted.

Work on the soil survey will start at once. Test holes will be drilled every hundred feet in order to ascertain soil conditions and needs, and trenches will be dug between rows in order to establish root conditions and further soil needs. This is the first attempt of Alameda county, so far as is known, anywhere, to control brown rot by means of soil treatment.

The soil survey will not be limited to brown rot control, however. By means of it needs for fertilization, irrigation and cover crops will be ascertained and regulated. The introduction of a sub-soil system of irrigation may result from the experiments. A check of costs and profits will be kept, in an endeavor to prove application of these methods profitable. This project is being carried out by the Alameda county farm bureau independently of the experiments planned for this section by E. A. Rudolph, horticultural expert of the extension division of the University of California. Rudolph will specialize on brown rot control by spray and dusting methods.

OAKLAND DESTINY SEEN AS BIGGEST PORT ON PACIFIC

Rabbi Urges Building With Future in Mind and Asks for Harmony.

With the prophecy that Oakland will be the greatest Pacific port of the future, Rabbi Rudolph Coffee pleaded for unity of the people of this city while building with that idea in mind, in an address before the business development division of the Merchants' Exchange at the Hotel Oakland yesterday.

Rabbi Coffee said:

"During the war fear was expressed that German submarines would destroy Boston.

"Submarines or no other agency could destroy Boston, because Boston is an atmosphere or spirit and no so many buildings. True, it would be possible to destroy all of the buildings in Boston, but Boston, the entity, would st" remain.

"My advice to you business men is that you look ahead and build to create such an atmosphere or spirit for Oakland.

"Oakland is destined to be the greatest city of the Pacific Coast. It is geographically situated closer to the Golden Gate than is San Francisco harbor. For instance, the foot of Sixteenth street, Berkeley, is just seven miles from the entrance of the Golden Gate, while San Francisco harbor is eight miles from the bay entrance.

"And what we need in Oakland to develop this atmosphere is a closer fellowship between business men and church people.

"There is too much hatred between business men and church people. The Catholics damn the Protestants because they are Protestants. The Protestants damn the Jews because they are Jews, and so it goes.

"Can we not forget theological lines and business lines and remember that we are all sons of God?

"At our municipal election next year we should not be much concerned with individuals except as they represent the best business and cultural minds of the city. Oakland is a big business corporation, and we should elect men to office capable of handling such a business. We should see to it that the men we elect are surrounded with worthy colleagues. These things are necessary if we are to have the best minds to plan the future of our city.

"And we should not content ourselves with looking ahead one or two years We should look ahead fifty or a hundred years and build for the day when Oakland will be the greatest city on the coast—when people will come to Oakland in airplanes from a radius of 200 or 300 miles around to do their shopping."

RHINE TROOPS HEAVY USERS OF GERMAN WINES

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—(By the Associated Press)—The troops occupying the Rhineland consumed 118,777,684 marks worth of German wine during the fiscal year of 1921. In addition, they used 124,733 bottles of German champagne.

The figures above do not include foreign drinks imported into the region which entered free of taxes and customs.

It is estimated that the wine consumption alone represents a loss of 20,000,000 marks to Germany in taxes. The loss of taxes on German beer consumed by the troops amounted to 90,000 marks and on German cigarettes smoked by the troops 2,000,000 marks.

1 DEAD, 4 HURT IN AUTO PLUNGE TO RIVER'S BED

Farmer Dies, Prisoner Suffers Broken Back; Officer Slightly Hurt.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

FRESNO, Oct. 4.—One man was killed, a second probably fatally injured and three others hurt when their automobile crashed through the railing of the Chowchilla bridge, near Minturn, late yesterday afternoon, plunging 12 feet to the river bed below. The men were pinned under the overturned car.

E. G. Sellers, Lemoore rancher, driver of the automobile, was killed; Oscar Oleson, San Francisco cement contractor and prisoner, is in a Merced hospital with a broken back. Sheriff J hn J. Walker of Hanford, and H. R. Gray and P. O. Miller of San Francisco, two other prisoners, were slightly hurt.

Deputy Walker and Sellers were returning from San Francisco to Hanford with three prisoners.

As Sellers neared the Chowchilla bridge the sun broke through clouds and a tree standing near the highway threw a shadow. Sellers is said to have mistaken the shadow for another machine and to have thrown the emergency brake. The car skidded through the bridge railing.

ARMY HELD BEST PEACE INSURANCE

By HARRY L. ROGERS,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — Comparing the American army to a giant insurance company, Major General James G. Harbord, deputy chief of staff, today charged a widespread conspiracy exists to displace the "old line insurance" with a much advertised substitute called disarmament, presented as a panacea for every national ailment from callouses to cosumption." This "fake substitute" is being pushed "in the interest of firms who are rivals of our across distant seas and especially in the Oriental trade," the general told the convention of reserve officers.

BANKERS FROM EAST ARE SHOWN STATE RESOURCES

Marvels of Water Power and Irrigation Are Viewed by Investment Men.

By H. S. SCOTT.

FRESNO, Oct. 4.—The marvels accomplished by water and power in the San Joaquin valley, especially in the Fresno region, were visualized by the members of the Investment Bankers' Association today. Under the guidance of A. G. Wishon of the San Joaquin Light & Power Company, the visitors were driven on a route covering almost 150 miles, a winding avenue for the greater part of the distance of almost every kind of temperate and sub-tropical fruits.

Where ten years ago there was nothing visible but sagebrush and sand, today the Eastern bankers saw the largest fig garden in the world stretching itself along the San Joaquin river banks for over 14 miles. The transformation of the so-called "west side" in the last few years was pictured by drives through vineyards that are famous the world over, although many of them scarcely 10 years old.

WATER IS MAGICIAN.

"Water," said Wishon, "is the magician that has made Fresno. It has given us the one thing that Nature failed to provide in abundance, and now that the wonders of what irrigation has accomplished is being emphasized on Eastern visitors there ought to be a tenfold amplification of the present development and prosperity during the next few years."

The Eastern bankers are getting their first real view of some of the resources of the State, and Fresno is seeing to it that they are duly impressed.

A busy day of entertainment had been arranged for the visitors. They were officially welcomed at 8:30 o'clock today by a Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by A. G. Wishon, Wylie M. Giffen and H. E. Patterson. In 100 automobiles they started a tour of the county, winding up at the Kerchoff dam at noon, for they were luncheon guests of the San Joaquin Light & Power Company.

A visit to the Sunmaid Raisin Growers' Plant No. 4 will conclude the day's entertainment. To accommodate the visitors arrangements have been made to run the packing plant from 6 to 10 tonight, in addition to the hours of 1 to 5 p m.

At the Kerchoff power house they saw the large scale hydro-electric development by which the Sierra streams are harnessed and which convert otherwise wasted energy into controlled power for agricultural industrial, and domestic purposes.

WELCOMED AT CAPITAL.

The 750 delegates got together last night in Sacramento for the first time since they left their homes in the East. It was not the fault of the Committee of Arrangements that the party got scattered on the way west and was not able to enjoy in full the elaborate program the people in Sacramento had prepared for them.

The schedule of arrangements called for the arrival of the various trains of special cars at the State Capitol abopt noon yesterday. It was then on the card that Governod Stephens would extend a formal welcome to the visitors at the State House, and that four or five hours remaining of the day be devoted to an automobile ride through the rich agricultural region about the city.

To this end the Chamber of Commerce and the Sacramento bankers had provided over 150 cars and organized themselves for showing a genuine California hospitality to the eastern men and women. As the day wore on the trains failed to put in appearance although the advance guard of thirteen coaches with California reception committee's special car in front, drew into the Union depot at Sacramento at 3 o'clock.

PROGRAM CHANGED.

Flowers and fruit were distributed to everybody by a special ladies' entertainment committee. But because two-thirds of the party were still up in the Sierras and did not arrive until 8 o'clock in the evening, it was necessary to change the pre-arranged program of welcome. The investment bankers on the first train saw a great deal of the Sacramento region in a three-hour drive up and down the reclaimed river region and through the wonderful orchards, both east and west of Sacramento. The belated trains were greeted as hospitably as their late arrival permitted.

The ride to Fresno began at 10 o'clock, and today twelve hours of active automobile sightseeing, including a trip to the new power plant of the San Joaquin Light & Power Company and the sights of Huntington Lake.

Horse Race "Fan" Too Busy "Timing"

BUCYRUS, Ohio, Oct. 7.—A race horse fan attended a boxing bout. It was his first visit to the squared ring. No sooner did the gong sound than R. H. F. took out his stop watch. Not until the bell rang, ending the round, did he take his eyes off his watch. As he did so he exclaimed: "Just eight seconds over three minutes."

Although he looked at the ring at intervals he did not seem able to overcome the habit of "clocking 'em" while the fight was on.

One local citizen who sa alongside him insisted that the race horse fan "didn't see two rounds out of the twenty-four in four matches.

Capacity Audiences at Premier Presentation of 'Manslaughter'

LEATRICE JOY, who has leading feminine role in "Manslaughter," is a charming type of Southern beauty. New screen sweetheart has had sensational rise to luminary place in filmdom.

DeMille Production Now at American Theatre Gives Star Splendid Role.

Almost every section of the United States boasts its typical screen beauty but now comes the particular representative of the South, with shining black hair, brown sparkling eyes and the charming ways that so characterize the women from below the Mason and Dixon line.

She is Miss Leatrice Joy, late of New Orleans, one of the newest of the new screen sweethearts, who is the feminine star of "Manslaughter," the Paramount masterpiece which opened to capacity audiences at the American theatre yesterday.

Although Miss Joy entered films only a few years ago her rise has been sensational and the reasons are evident from the remarkable acting she gives as Lydia Thorne, the pampered society pet, in "Manslaughter." She plays opposite Thomas Meighan who has the leading male role of Dan O'Bannon, the district attorney.

"Manslaughter" has been pronounced everywhere as one of the most powerful and polished screen dramas of the year.—Advertisement.

Surgery Sought to Cure Roy Gardner

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 4.—Mrs. Dollie Gardner, wife of Roy Gardner, notorious bandit, is today anxiously awaiting word from Washington as to whether the government will permit an operation on her husband, who is confined in the federal prison here. Attorney-General Daugherty, it is indicated, may announce some time today whether an operation on the brain will be permitted to relieve a supposed pressure which is said to cause Gardner's criminal tendencies.

Mrs. Gardner arrived yesterday from California to be present at the operation and was disappointed when she learned that the permit had not arrived. She was allowed to visit her husband.

KLX TO BEGIN BEDTIME STORIES SERIES TONIGHT

Ethel Rose Taylor, Note l Story Teller, Will Radio Narrative.

The children who live in radio equipped homes are in for a treat tonight, when The TRIBUNE from its radio broadcasting station, KLX, will begin a series of bedtime tales.

From 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock, Miss Ethel Rose Taylor, famous children's story teller, president of the Berkeley Story Tellers' league, and at present employed in this work by the Berkeley public library, will entertain the children with "Little Jack Rollaround," a free adaption of a story by Theodor Storm.

On two nights each week, Wednesday and Thursday, from 7:15 to 7:30, Miss Taylor will talk over the radio for the express benefit of the children. Tomorrow night she will tell two short stories, "The Princess and the Pea," a fairy tale from Hans Christian Andersen and a French fold tale, "The Mouse and the Sausage."

Miss Taylor is a bedtime story teller of national reputation, and her work in many of the largest cities of the country has brought more than favorable comment by recognized critics. She has what is known as a "radio voice," when a series of tests has shown will carry well.

Big Hit Scored By Boy Pianist

IRVING KRICK, the 15-year-old boy pianist, who broadcast a recital from KLX last night from 7:30 to 7:45 o'clock, made a big hit. Many favorable comments were received following the concert, and today from radio fans in the bay region. Krick played a portion of the program which he will play in the future at the Greek theater, Berkeley. The remainder of the program was used for dance music, by special request, and a distance test.

Fifteen Minutes of Radio Daily

by Edward M. Davis

REMEMBER THAT

Detector tubes vary, even those of the same make in the values of place potential necessary for good operation and it is often necessary to adjust the grid leak to fit the particular detector tube in use.

The loose coupler gives best tuning when the secondary turns in use are just outside and not directly under the turns of the primary. For this reason primary and secondary windings on the same tube put spaced about one-quarter of an inch apart give very satisfactory results.

Before building up a receiving set in a cabinet or completing the soldered connections, always lay out the various instruments on an experimental table and try out the circuit. This may eliminate the necessity for tearing the set apart and rebuilding after once assembled.

Despite the fact that the filament of the tube lights up there may be a defective contact in either the plate or grid contacts of the socket which make contact with the corresponding prongs on the base of the tube.

If satisfactory regeneration is not obtained with the receiving set you have built it may be necessary to reverse the connections to the tickler coil.

Amplifying transformers which have defective primary windings need not be scrapped. The amplifier may often be connected, employing the secondaries of the transformers only thus making the amplifier choke coil or impedance coupled.

Filament adjustment of the circuits of a regenerative receiver is often best accomplished with the filament rheostat of the detector tube. For this reason it should be possible to secure very fine adjustment with this device and a slight movement of the contact arm should not represent too great a change in resistance.

When connecting up a choke coil or imped nce coupled amplifier always insert a grid condenser in the grid circuit of each tube in order to keep the voltage of the plate battery off the grid.

The use of excessive voltage on the plate circuit of audio frequency amplifiers may be the cause of the transformers burning out. The makers usually specify the maximum safe voltage to be employed and this value can not be safely ignored.

Tapped coils are never as free from losses as untrapped coils shunted with variable condensers, since there are always "dead ends" losses in the former type of windings. This condition may be greatly reduced by means of special switches which entirely disconnect the portions of the windings not actually in circuit.

Exposure to damp weather tends to shorten the useful life of any form of dry coil including plate batteries which should therefore be protected as much as possible.

LONG JAIL TERM IS DEMANDED FOR CUBAN FINANCIER

Nine Charges of Embezzlement Are Already Filed Against H. Upmann.

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—Attention has been called again to an interesting report first ciruulated last May when the German-Cuban banking house of H. Upmann & Co. closed its doors, by the provisional conclusions formulated by Fausto Alfonso, prosecuting attorney, against H. Upmann for alleged fraudulent failure.

The state's attorney says Mrs. Maria Teresa Bances de Marti is not included in the list of those clients of the bank to whom reparation should be made, since she received, before the bank went under control of the federal bank liquidation commission, $130,000 in jewels and money.

It was reported in May that Mrs. Bances, when first she heard that the Upmann bank was in trouble, went to the Upmann home and by some means or other—the stories vary in this particular—secured virtually all the famous diamonds of the banker's wife to guarantee her account. Both are members of two of Cuba's most noted families.

Another feature of the public prosecutor's findings is the heavy sentence asked for H. Upmann, totalling 26½ years of correctional imprisonment on nine charges of embezzlement, and the payment of an indemnity of $1,547,262.50 to those he is alleged to have defrauded. No date for the Upmann trial yet has been set.

Private Duck Hunt Brings Game Dinner

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 4.—N. C. Jorgensen, his family and friends are today enjoying wild duck repasts as the result of a successful hunt in his private pond at Newark. Jorgensen was accompanied on the duck hunt by Arthur Petersen of Hayward and Arthur Pollard of Oakland. Each of the three men secured the limit. The birds are unusually heavy this season, said Jorgensen.

Enforcement of Dog Law Begins

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 4.—With the present week beginning the enforcement of a new ordinance restricting the stray dogs of the city, and ordering the adoption of licenses, the city marshal's office has been besieged by dog owners desiring the necessary tags.

Truck Owner Fined For Overweight Load

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 4.—Fred Schmidt, proprietor of a coal yard in this city, was fined $40 for driving an overweight truck by Judge W. J. Gannon yesterday. Due to the numerous violations of that portion of the motor vehicle law, local police have been told to keep a sharp lookout for such occurrences.

WOMAN SENATOR, 87, OPTIMISTIC OF NATION'S FUTURE

Clean, Wholesome Lives Begun at Mother's Knee Are Better Than Laws.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Oct. 4 (By the Associated Press).—"A woman who has lived to be 87 and still retains her optimism over the outlook for human control in America cannot help but realize that it is not so much a question of laws to govern men and women as it is a question of enforcement."

This was the statement of Mrs. W. H. Felton, who has become the first woman United States Senator, as she declared at her home here today that she is succeeding the late Senator Thomas E. Watson without exciting herself over such question as the tariff, the bonus and the "fast disappearing" flapper type of girl.

"Good laws and good lawmakers," she continued, "we already have. I shall not strive to win glory in statesmanship. If only I can aid in making men and women live cleaner, sweeter and more wholesome lives, I shall be well satisfied."

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER.

Mrs Felton remains one of the old-fashioned mother portrayed on the American stage of today. Her hair is as white as snow, and her face wrinkled, but despite her age she is very active. She possesses a magnetic personality.

"I am not interested in the fast-disappearing flapper type of girl," she said, as she removed her gold-rimmed glasses. "but I am interested in the modern young woman. The light of a new day is growing brighter for women in America and with their advancement we shall see a generally advanced type of citizens.

"A strong nation is dependent upon its women, and the manner in which the women of this country grasp their opportunity will decide most of the great issues of the future. Women's entry into political affairs is the most romantic development in this country's history. It comes about because our great problems today are economic, and this is work in which women are needed.

THANKFUL FOR GOOD LAWS.

"I am thankful for the good laws that we have now, but even more important are the greater laws that society must observe if we are to have a strong citizenry.

"We must have more thought of the simple, sweet virtues of life, men and women must be good because they want to be good. No amount of legislation can make them good," she asserted, "though the f ture of our nation and of our race depends largely upon it."

Senator Felton declared that the legislation this country most needs today is that gained "at the knees of the mothers of America—laws that are greater than laws."

"I see a better citizenry coming to America only through efforts to improve our living standards. The working man must have a living wage. He must not be forced too much in competition with unskilled labor from abroad. There must be every encouragement."

Oakland's Part in Auto Industry's Future to Be Told

CHESTER N. WEAVER, Studebaker distributor, who will speak on Oakland's future as automobile industrial center at Rotary Club luncheon tomorrow.

Chester N. Weaver to Give Address at Rotary Club Luncheon.

"Oakland's Part in the Future of the Automotive Industry" is the subject of an address that will be delivered by Chester N. Weaver, Studebaker distributor, at a meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club at the Hotel Oakland at noon tomorrow.

Weaver, it is understood, will tell Oakland Rotarians something of what Oakland's future may be as an assembling and manufacturing center for automobiles and automotive accessories for the Pacific Coast.

Weaver is one of the most prominent automobile men in the United States. He is a speaker of ability and is an authority on the subject of the automotive industry.

Dances at W. O. W. Hall Are Popular

RICHMOND, Oct. 4.—The social dances recently instituted at W. O. W. Hall on Saturday nights are steadily growing in favor. Last Saturday the hall was crowded. The dance-loving public of Richmond which has heretofore visited Berkeley or Oakland for good music and excellent floor, are now finding every requirement satisfied at the W. O. W. Hall assemblies every Saturday.

ANOTHER CHANGE IN BERKELEY AUTO PARKING URGED

Angle of 45 Degrees Is Now Favored by Councilmen; Action Delayed.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4.—Automobiles in Berkeley's congested business district will be parked at an angle of 45 degrees if Councilman Carl Bartlett has his way.

At present machines are parked at right angles. Two weeks ago they had to be parked parallel to the curb. Merchants objected to the latter plan and also to a 40-minute time limit because business was "interfered" with and the council ordered away the newly painted signs instructing motorists in the rules.

Now comes Councilman Bartlett asking that right-angle parking be done away with and an angle of 45 degrees be substituted on the west side of Shattuck avenue in the congested business district. He presented a motion asking that Chief of Police August Vollmer be instructed suitably to mark the street and order the new parking rules into effect. Councilman George Schmidt agreed with him.

Mayor Louis Bartlett and Councilman E. T. Harms presented dazed looks.

The mayor suggested that no action be taken until further conference is held with the chief of police. Councilman Charles T. Heywood, commissioner of public health and safety, was not present at the meeting. Heywood stands firmly for parallel parking and in this is supported by Chief Vollmer.

What the outcome of the matter will be depends on the decision of the new conference to be called within the next few days.

Creation of "safety zones" in congested business areas where pedestrians might wait without danger for street cars as suggested by Councilman Schmidt also will be considered at the conference.

LECTURES UNITE WITH MUSIC AT BIG HOME SHOW

Gas and Electric Chief Gives Pointers; Talk on Interior Decoration Tomorrw.

A talk to home builders and to men in the building industry was given this afternoon at the California complete Home Exposition, Lakeshore Highlands, by L F. Galbraith, superintendent of the new business department, Pacific Gas and Electric company, in connection with Electrical Day observance at the popular exhibition of the ten model homes, completely equipped. In addition there was a song program given by Miss Muriel Butler, the popular Oakland soprano. Galbraith also spoke on co-operation between the electrical and the building industries.

Special demonstrations also were held this afternoon in the Electric Bungalow, over which Mrs Robert Landgrebe presides as hostess. The electrical home has proven an electric magnet to draw crowds at the exposition, for there are on display and demonstration there more than thirty different electrical appliances for lightening housework.

The Oakland Electric club is to have its regular weekly luncheon at the Complete Homes Exposition next Monday. The luncheon will be served in the Garden auditorium, picnic style, and will be followed by a song recital by Miss Butler in the electrical home. The program of talks on home financing, which was to have been given yesterday, has been postponed until Tuesday of next week.

Thrifty housewives who desire to make the most of their homes on a small outlay will welcome the opportunity to hear the free lecture at the exposition tomorrow by Bernard C. Jakway, University of California lecturer, on interior decoration. Professor Jakway will speak on "Getting the Most for Your Money in Fitting Up the Home." He will make suggestions on how spending a limited amount of money may be done most judiciously so as to insure the maximum of enduring satisfaction in beauty, comfort, distinction and serviceableness. The lecture will be illustrated with reference to the furnishings of the model homes at the exposition. The fourth Jakway lecture will be given Saturday afternoon in the Garden auditorium.

Friday afternoon, a special musical program will be given by Miss Muriel Butler, soprano, with selections from special piano interpretations on the Steinway duo arts piano, under the direction of Sherman and Clay.

Many Features On Benefit Show Bill

Many features are announced for the vaudeville show which the Agoga club will stage at the Auditorium theater on Saturday night, October 14, to raise funds for the club to send its athletic teams south.

There will be a feature play, "Manikan and Minikin," given by University of California dramatic students. The University Glee club quartet and jazz band that recently toured the Orient will render selections, Erma Gage's kiddies will entertain and several other acts of merit will be on the program, it is announced.

Dr. Legge to Talk to Alameda Mothers

ALAMEDA, Oct. 4. — Dr. Robert T. Legge, University of California, will be the principal speaker at the reciprocity luncheon which the Alameda Federation of Mothers and the Parent-Teachers' Association will give tomorrow at noon in the social hall of the First Methodist church, Oak street and Central avenue. Dr. Legge has chosen for the subject of his discourse "Child Hygiene and Malnutrition."

Mrs. E. O. Schetter, president of the Alameda Federation, will preside. City officials, educators of the city and heads of various organizations interested in child welfare work will be in attendanace

Wife Loved Another, She Wrote to Man

A letter written by his wife, Mina Christensen, in which she confesses that she loves another, was introduced in evidence yesterday by E. J. Christensen, 1437 Ninth street, in his suit for divorce. He was granted a decree by Superior Judge St. Sure.

"I would not come back to live with you under any circumstances," Mrs Christensen wrote. "I feel as though there is another man in my life, whom I think more of, and I could not live with you and treat you as I should."

The Christensens were married in May, 1919, and separated last July.

Lions of Richmond to Have Hallowe'en

RICHMOND, Oct. 4.—Richmond Den of Lions developed plans for the annual Hallowe'en party at yesterday's weekly luncheon. The affair will be held at East Shore Park. Zeb Knott is general chairman of all committees in charge. Invitations are being sent out to the presidents of all Lions Clubs in the state.

President Claude Clark and Secretary A. C. Faris, together with several other members, will attend the meeting of the San Rafael club tomorrow noon. Rev John Snape of Oakland will be the speaker of the day.

Woolwine to Pay Richmond a Visit

RICHMOND, Oct. 4.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democratic nominee for governor, will spend several hours in Richmond next Monday in the interests of his campaign for the governorship. He will hobnob with leading Democrats of the city and possibly will speak on the street briefly. On Monday evening he is slated for a speech in Berkeley.

State's Landmarks Topic Before Club

RICHMOND, Oct. 4.—Club Mendelssohn will discuss "California Landmarks," at tomorrow afternoon's session to be held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Huston, 609 Sixth street. Mrs. Huston and Mrs. J. H. Rumrill will act as hostesses of the day. Mrs. H. T. Turley will be in charge of the program. Interesting discussions are promised on the subject of the state's landmarks.

ADVERTISING IS GOOD INVESTMENT FOR RAIL LINES

President of Suburban Electric Company Tells of Publicity Advantages

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Advertising day after day, week after week, month after month, as the best method by which public utilities may overcome public prejudice, was strongly urged by W. H. Sawyer, president of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway company, speaking here today before the American Electric Railway association convention.

"Few really going, progressive concerns in any other business spend less than 1 per cent of their gross on advertising, many spend 5 per cent," he declared. "The average street railway company can, to good advantage, as a business proposition conducive to the welfare not only of the company but of the community served, spend 1 per cent of its gross earnings on paid advertising.

"I believe in consistent advertising, not defensie advertising brought about by necessity, but advertising calculated to prevent the need of a stonewall defense. I want our customers to know the condition of their street railway company. I want them to know it all the time so that when any question arises they are fully informed.

"Advertising is not the solution of all our troubles. We may still be unfairly and unduly attacked, but advertising is a duty which we owe to our public, our customers, and it is good business.

"I am using paid newspaper space to give the public the facts. I use a considerable amount of it and I doubt if I a musing enough."

Sawyer's address was part of a public relations advertising symposium. Others who talked included M. C. Brush, Philadelphia; H. B. Flowers, Baltimore; Britton I. Budd, Chicago; Baron G. Collier, New York city; J. P. Barnes, Louisville, and P. S. Arkwright, Atlanta.

Insurance Agents Urged to Have Code

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 4.—If insurance men set up their own standard of qualifications and conduct and carry them through, the ned of legislation will be forgotten, E. B. Dunning of Duluth, Minn., regional vice-president of the National Association of Insurance Agents, told delegates to the convention of that organization here today.

"I believe it is no more practical to legislate a qualification code into the American agency system than it has been to enforce Volstead prohibition upon the American public. If higher standards are bred within us, they will be a natural development. I advocate the plan of requiring one year apprenticeship in an established agency before a license is granted."

RUSSIA LOOMING UP AS MENACING FIGURE TO PEACE

Kemal Pasha Now Expected to Abrogate Treaty of March 16 With Soviet.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 4—(By The Associated Press.)—Russia loomed on the horizon today for the first time as likely to prove an important figure in the settlement of the Turkish problem.

Should Mustapha Kemal Pasha succeed in obtaining from the Allies pledges for evental fulfillment of the so-called national pact, including control of the straits and modification or annulment of the capitulations, it is said he will attempt to abrogate the treaty made with the soviet foreign minister, M. Tchitcherin, in Moscow on March 16, 1921, which permits the Soviet and the Black Sea countries to share in the control of the straits.

Many of Kemal's advisors feel that it is time to repudiate an agreement which has ceased to be useful to the Kemalists. The Kemalists for some time have been nervous about their Caucasion frontier and cancellation of the treaty therefore is regarded by many of the nationalists as a sound national policy.

The newest amateur photographer in the Eastbay district may have as good a chance as the most experienced camera user of winning any one of the four valuable prizes offered in The TRIBUNE'S photograph contest.

Not technical excellence, but subject-interest, will be the big point on which the winning photographs will be selected by the committee of judges. That means that any one who can point a camera and snap it can compete with the experts—provided he finds an interesting subject to snap.

It's the human interest in the picture that counts—the quality that makes you want to take the picture in the first place. Next to that comes clearness and sharpness of the photograph; but the human element comes first, in the eyes of the judges in The TRIBUNE contest.

The Prizes

FIRST PRIZE—$50 cash given by Oakland Tribune.

SECOND PRIZE—One No. 3A Folding Autographic Kodak (size 3¼x5½), fitted with a kodak anastigmat lens, speed F 7.7 and kodak ball-bearing shutter and black leather carrying case. Retail price $32.00. From Bowman Drug Co.

THIRD PRIZE—One No. 2C Autographic Junior Kodak (size 2⅞ x4⅞), fitted with kodak anastigmat lens, speed F 7.7 and kodak ball-bearing shutter. Retail price $23.00. From Bowman Drug Co.

FOURTH PRIZE — One Vest Pocket Autographic Kodak Special (size 1⅝x2½), focusing model, fitted with F 6.9 lens and kodak ball-bearing shutter. Retail price $18.00. From Bowman Drug Co.

WIFE ASHAMED OF HIS YOUTH, SAYS HUSBAND

Because she was fifty years old while he was but thirty-five, his wife, Henrietta Duffus, refused to walk down the street with him, according to testimony given by Charles T. Duffus, 933 Loomis Court, in his suit for divorce. At such times she was wont to say, "You are such a kid I feel ashamed to be seen with you," according to Duffus.

The testimony in the case, which was taken before Court Commissioner Clarence Crowell, Judge Harris signing the decree, was to the effect that Mrs. Duffus was a member of an East Oakland card club and was evicted from the club for cheating at cards.

Duffus also charged that his wife stole his underwear and gave it to her grown son by a former marriage.

The couple were married May 18, 1910, and the wife left his home on Christmas day, 1917.

Rancher Says Wife Often Swore At Him

Frank S. Dutra, wealthy San Leandro rancher, today filed an answer and cross complaint to the divorce suit of Mary Dutra. In his complaint the husband alleges that his wife swore at him on many occasions and accused him falsely of infidelity. He denies that he has large sums of money secreted in various banks, as the wife charged in her complaint, and also denied that he is worth $60,000, as she alleged.

OFF TO PRISON FOR BAD CHECKS

Robert H. Bradford, known to the police as the "million-dollar swindler" because of the large amounts for which he is alleged to have made out fictitious checks, was taken to San Quentin prison today to begin a sentence of from one to fifteen years following his appearance before Superior Judge Church.

Bradford was arrested March 18 of this year, after he had passed a check for $1000 on a Broadway jewelry firm. He gave the check in payment for a diamond, which he ordered mounted in a scarf pin. At the time he had only $7 in the bank, it was ascertained by the jeweler, who accepted the check, summoned the police, and delivered the diamond. Bradford was immediately placed uner arrest.

On the same day Bradford is said to have given a check for $7250 to C. J. Pfrang in payment for a house, for which he was to have given an additional $10,000 a week later. Bradford is wanted in Los Angeles and Seattle for bad checks, the police state.

NIPPON INTEREST RATES ARE HIGH

TOKYO, Oct. 4.—"It is generally admitted that the money market in this country is witnessing a rather peculiar phenomenon in that the supply of capital in the first-class banks is supposed to be plentiful but a very high rate of interest prevails," says the financial paper Diamond. "The extraordinary high rate of interest that is charged for loans raised by various concerns is interpreted by many of an unmistakable indication of the contraction of credit and the tightness of money despite the reported abundance of funds in the hands of the bankers.

"Notwithstanding, the raising of loans is continuing and causing a greater stringency of the money market. The issue of debentures by public companies began a few years ago and in 1919 and 1920 approximately 140,000,000 yen in loans were raised each year. The climax was reached in 1921 when the total raised amounted to 207,000,000 yen. During the first six months of this year 57,000,000 yen loans were raised and adding to this 24,000,000 yen loans raised in July, the total does not exceed 81,000,000 yen. When a comparison is made as to the rate of interest paid between the 1921 and 1922 loans the exorbitant rate of interest charged this year for loans of shorter periods than thoseof last year is shown."

Pinched By Husband, Wife Gets Divorce

Once while out automobile riding with her husband, Robert F. Sackett, his hat blew off. He became so enraged that, during the remainder of the ride he pinched her arm until it was black and blue, according to testimony given today by Mrs. Christine Sackett, 2354 Fourteenth avenue, who was granted a divorce by Superior Judge Harris.

When asked if her husband ever swore at her, Mrs. Sackett replied, "If you would talk to him for a few moments you would find that he was very familiar with the cursing language."

The couple were married in March, 1914, and separated July 31, 1921.

MOTHER'S DEATH CAUSES HER SON TO TRY SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Walter Tietz, 17, was an old fashioned boy who cared for no companionship except that of his mother and his dog. TEXT BOOKS ARE FREE OF TAINT

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 4.—American history text books in use in the high schools and junior colleges of California are given a clean bill and declared to be free from disloyal or unpatriotic teachings, in a special report filed at the state board of education today by a committee appointed several months ago to investigate charges that certain texts were "saturated" with propaganda.

The report says "all the authors may be credited wits a desire to assist in inculcating a loyal and patriotic Americanism."

The committee, which was appointed by A. C. Olney, state commissioner of high schools, was composed of E. D. Adams, professor of American history, Stanford university, chairman; E. I. McCormac, professor of American history, University of California; A. Newell, head of history department, Fresno Teachers' college; W. W. Mather, head of history department.

Try This if You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get, about four ounces of plain ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

Corns Go

Just say

Blue-jay

to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. The action is the same.

Mr. Floyd W. Parsons says, in the Saturday Evening Post---

"The Coal situation today is very critical---The production is far below the demand---Therefore High Prices are bound to continue---"

Mr. Man!

Does your basement look like this?

A Coal Furnace naturally makes a dirty basement. The dust from the coal settles over everything—it seeps up through the registers, ruining the drapes, and is tracked into the house scratching the polished floors and soiling the rugs.
Then, too—think of the back-breaking work your wife has to do lifting heavy shovels of coal to keep the fire going.
Think of the number of trips up and down stairs to regulate.
Then you have the ashes—this is a disagreeable task that must be done regularly.
Imagine the expense operating a Coal Furnace this winter with advancing fuel costs.
All these tasks are annoying and can be eliminated with a—

Gleewood Gas Furnace

Contrast this picture with the one above and imagine the convenience, the cleanliness and the comfort you can get by using Gas.

Make your home more comfortable this winter without inflicting hardships on your family.

The Gleewood Gas Furnace gives you all the heat you desire quickly, where you want it without the least possible exertion.

All dust, dirt and accompanying muss of other forms of fuel are eliminated with a Gleewood.

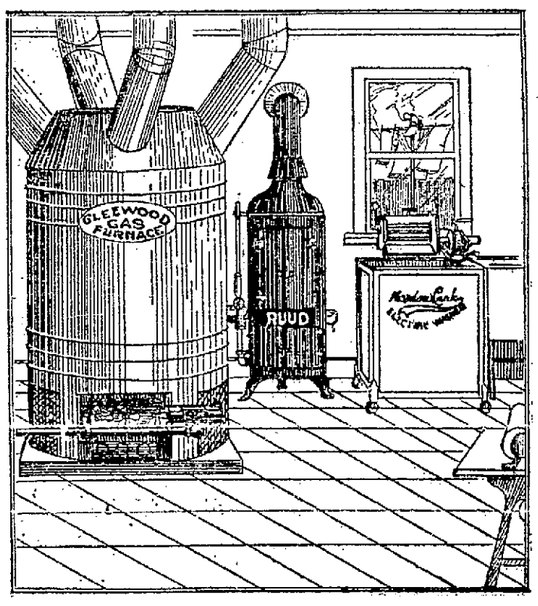
Either Electric or Direct Controls

The controls are located in the hall or living room where they are convenient. You can start and regulate the heat with these controls without running up and down stairs.

Absolutely no fumes can come in contact with the rooms, as the products of combustion are carried out the flue the same as smoke in a coal furnace.



We will be pleased to submit a large list of users that have found comfort and satisfaction in the Gleewood Gas Furnace —If you have a friend among them ask them what they think of this wonderful furnace.

Install That Furnace Now! Do not wait until we are congested with back orders. Our Engineer will gladly call and give estimate without obligating you in the least. Telephone Oakland 1274.

Print Russian Cash; Take Brass in Pay

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 4.—A Swedish bank note company has received an order from the Soviet government to print notes aggregating a face value of 5,000,000,000 rubles, according to the Riga correspondent of the Svenska Dagbladet.

The Swedish company in question made the unique proposition that it would accept scrap copper and brass in lieu of cash payment, an offer which proved especially attractive to the Soviet authorities.

Divine Sarah Bernhardt Is at Work on New Play

By FRANK E. MASON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Immortal Sarah Bernhardt has returned from her summer home to Paris, where she is hard at work on a new play, "Adam and Eve," by Sacha Guitry. Lucien Guitry will appear as Adam.

"A country lacking in children is always overrun with cats," complains Le Petit Journal in an editorial regretting that the tens of thousands of Paris cats can testify to the necessity of an outlet for tenderness which should be given to children.

The Chamber of Deputies is the great sounding board of French political gossip, and the rumors which are so persistent in its hallways are not always to be taken too seriously. However, the sheer force of frequent repetition has made Poincarists uneasy, for it has declared that Poincare will not be able to survive the budget crisis next month. The politicians are busy drawing up slates of ministries to succeed Poincare.

Military circles are chuckling over Marshal Joffre's forgetting the anniversary of his great victory on the Marne. He completely forgot the date of the victory and made engagements which prevented him from attending the Marne Day ceremonies in his honor.

The man who claims to be the oldest living human being in the world was unfeelingly carted away to a hospital for the insane. In the village of Montreuil-sous-Bois a barefooted, bare-headed old man, clad only in a loose shirt and pair of trousers, frightened the women returning from church by approaching them and peering searchingly into their faces.

"What do you want?" the gendarmes asked threateningly.

"I am searching for Jeanne d'Arc, monsieur," feebly replied the old man.

"Jeanne d'Arc?"

"Oui, monsieur, oui, Jeanne d'Arc, whom I knew so long ago and who led me into battle."

Kindly, but firmly, Joan of Arc's last legionary was led to the nearby hospital.

European propagandists love to portray America as a country suffocating under a burden of gold. The project to melt our surplus gold bullion into a statue to be placed on a high column surrounded by high tension wires was enthusiastically received by the anti-American propagandists, who used it to prove that America is living in an orgy of luxury.

"She will make music wherever she goes"—for the fashionable Parisienne powders her nose to music. Newest powder receptacles are really little music boxes which begin to pour forth melodies as soon as the cover is removed. Some play classical airs and serious ones, but the seller in one of the large perfume shops where they are on sale says that every other woman asks for the "one with the jazz-band music."

Police are suspicious now of cafes that adorn their little tables with vases full of flowers. Recently a raid was made on such a cafe. A clumsy gendarme upset a flower vase, and out tumbled bits of folded paper. They proved to be written bets on horse races waiting to be collected by a bookmaker. Betting by bookmaking is illegal in France.

Military manoeuvers, the first serious ones since the war, are the order of the day in France. Daily the press reports progress of the "blues" against the "reds," and the advances, retreats, taking of hills, and surrendering of towns reminds one unpleasantly of war communiques. Two groups take these reports equally seriously. Those who realize the "play" war is preparation for real war, and those who have to get up at five o'clock in the morning to build trenches for sham attacks.

In the natural course of events a new class will be called to the colors in France on November 10. Protest is being made that this is the day before Armistice Day. "Let the boys have a holiday at home before their barracks life commences," write several persons to the newspapers. It is thought likely that the date will be moved up to November 12, cutting two days off a long year and a half.

New South Wales Has Women Pastors

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 4.—The prospect of women preachers occupying pulpits in many New South Wales churches has arisen as the result of a proposal, which is to come before the next Anglican Provincial synod, that women be permitted to conduct services under certain conditions.

The proposed ordinance suggests that the archbishop or bishop of a diocese may issue a license to a deaconess to perform any of the following duties: To prepare candidates for baptism and confirmation; in church, in the absence of the pastor, to read morning and evening prayer and the Litany, except such portions as are assigned to the priest only and to instruct and to exhort the congregation and to conduct services for women and children.

What this Progress will mean to Customers!

UPON THE COMPLETION of the new 18 story building adjoining THE OAKLAND BANK, the present quarters will be enlarged to 100 x 150 feet.

The present lobby space of 2400 square feet will be increased to about 5,500 square feet. Where there are now some 16 tellers' windows in the Commercial and Savings Departments, 26 or more will be available when construction work is finished.

In addition, numerous other improvements will be made for the benefit of customers. An alcove, where patrons may meet friends, telephone and write letters will be arranged on the main floor. A space on the mezzanine floor will be provided for women where they may rest. A ladies' rest room, a men's room and special conference rooms will be set aside for visitors near the Safe Deposit Department in the basement.

Iced water will be piped throughout the building and sanitary drinking fountains placed conveniently for public use.

The need for additional space and greater convenience is the result of the rapid growth of our Commercial Department. To make possible the rendering of a better service to the thousands of business men, as well as others, who patronize this bank, these improvements are made.

The officers and directors of this old, home institution are planning for a bank of which the citizens of Oakland can be proud. Tell your friends about it.

DECLARES MUSIC IS EXPRESSION OF LIFE ITSELF

Mrs. Eliabeth S. Brown Explains Lectures She Will Give for U. C. Extension

"Music is the expression of life itself; it is the utterance of a universal law and the spiritual torch by which men have climbed from the morass of ignorance to the firm heights of intelligence and freedom."

These are declarations of Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Brown, recently returned from Europe, who will give a course of lectures on composers as part of the University of California extension course.

"Music has not been developed as have other subjects," continued Mrs. Brown. "Light, heat, electricity, color—all express rhythm. They are thus akin to music. The Indians were not far wrong when they defined music as the voice of the Great Spirit."

ARTISTIC IN DESIGN.

Mrs. Brown explained that her lectures, accompanied by vocal and instrumental artists, are designed to present an artistic evening rather than as biographical lectures on the composers or a technical lecture on music.

The first lecture by Mrs. Brown will be given tomorrow evening in Ebell Hall at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be on Johann Sebastian Bach with song illustrations by Marie Millilette, soprano. Mozart will be the subject on October 12, Beethoven on October 19, and Schubert on October 26. Miss Millilette will be the artist with the exception of the last concert, when Marie Partridge Price, lyric soprano, will appear.

STUDIES IN EUROPE.

Mrs. Brown received a thorough education in Europe, studying theory with Dr. Gustav Schreck, present cantor of the famous Thomas School in Leipsig. Her piano instruction commenced in Leipsig, and was advanced with Professor Carl Smulders, of the Royal Conservatory of Liege, eminent Dutch composer, pianist, cantor and author.

Following a course of reading given by Sir Herbert Parry, head of the Royal College of Music, London, Mrs. Brown was a reader, by permit, in the British museum.

Bank Teller's Wife Gets More Alimony

Hazel K. Bolton, who a week ago told Superior Judge Quinn that she was not satisfied with an alimony settlement offered by her husband, Erwin Bolton, paying teller of a San Francisco bank, today was granted an increase in her allowance when the case was called before Judge Quinn.

Mrs. Bolton was granted a divorce and the alimony allowance as first presented provided for a payment of $25 a month for a period of one year as alimony and $50 a month for the support of her two children. Under questioning by Judge Quinn, she expressed her displeasure over the allowance. The case was continued and today a new settlement was granted providing for $75 a month for the children, until their majority, and $25 a month for her for a period of a year.

Ad Club Votes for Taboo On 'Northern' California

There is no such thing as "Northern California" unless it is that narow strip that lies above Mount Shasta.

This thesis occupied the attention of the Oakland Advertising club at the Hotel Oakland yesterday where it constituted itself a class in geography with Charles K. Field as the instructor.

Field, editor of the Sunset magazine and prominent for years in the furtherance of the interests of California, came as the representative of the San Francisco Advertising club to instruct the members in the proper divisions of the state.

"What's in a name?" was the title selected by Field for his address and he proceeded to show that a rose by any other name is not "just as sweet" because, he said, if it were called a cabbage it would automatically suggest something entirely different.

"California is the rose of the United States," Field told the members of the club. "We are all working, all sections, for the good of the state and yet because we have not consulted the map we are creating an erroneous impression.

SNOW LINE BASIS.

"When we say Northern California, we do not mean Northern California, for that section of this state lies in the district north of Mount Shasta where the snow falls. We do not have snow here. We do not have snow in the San Joaquin Valley. Naturally this is not Northern California.

"So persistent, so cumulative, so intelligent has been the advertising of Southern California that when we try to say Northern California it does not come naturally. We must first engage the mental process of thinking of the antithsis of Southern California.

"It is creditable that we should go through this mental effort to say Northern California, but it is useless effort if we do not mean to say Northern California at all. We all know, or at any rate we should know, that the section south of Mount Shasta and north of the Tehachapi is not Northern California.

"That is not true any more than Southern California extends to San Jose and takes in Fresno and the rich San Joaquin valley. When Southern California makes an unofficial claim to producing more than half of the grapes raised in the state we immediately know it to be an absurb statement. The census sets it at seven per cent.

INJUSTICE TO VALLEY.

"Furthermore, when we term this section of the state Northern California we are doing a rank injustice to the upper part of the great valley of California. The word north suggests something entirely different from the climatic conditions enjoyed in the great valley. And more than that, we know that Fresno it not north of here.

"Let us consider then for a moment just where Northern California lies. Look at a map of California and notice the three divisions made by nature. They are definite divisions and no word of ours can change these divisons.

"Northern California lies north of Mount Shasta. That is evident. Southern California lies south of the Tehachapi. There is no question saying this. We live in California, Central California if you will, but certainly not Northern and with equal certainty not Southern.

"The reason I am dwelling on this division of our state with such emphasis and insistence is because we are creating a wrong impression every time we say Northern California. We are doing an injustice to the rose.

"The proof of the pudding came a few weeks ago. A prominent resident of Southern California and one who has been active in advertising that section of the state came into the Greater California Committee headquarters for a conference.

FEARED WINTER SNOW.

"Now understand, that this man was perfectly honest and was not trying to kid us. We were talking over plans and asked his opinion of a railway excursion for tourists to Southern California from Monterey to the Santa Cruz mountains, believing that a trip to the big trees would be something these tourists would enjoy.

"I do not think it is a good scheme," he said. "The idea is this. The tourists who come to Southern California in the winter come with a definite idea of getting away from cold weather. We get our big influx in February and the snow wouldn't be gone by that time, would it?

"Now this man was not speaking in jest. He did not know. Because we know that we have no snow in the Santa Cruz mountains, we feel that everyone else knows the same thing. We must all get together to advertise" California and get the truth of the matter out.

"But first of all, before we take one step, before we start to spend the money we have for publicity and advertising, we must acquaint ourselves with the natural divisions in California. We must come to a realization of the fact that this great valley is California and not Northern California.

TO BRING "PORTOLA."

"We are planning to have Portola, the great discoverer of this great valley, come here soon and where are we going to take him?

"We will take him out to the top of Mount Diablo, where he can look over four hundred miles of rich valley, and we are going to light a signal fire on Mount Diablo.

"While he is there the answering signals will come from Mount Hamilton, from the mountain at Fresno and from the Tehachapi on the south; they will come from Mt. Helena and Mount Shasta on the north and Portola will know that all that territory between these points is the great valley of California."

Field interspersed his talk with the humor for which he is noted at home and abroad, and at the opening of his argument in favor of California he indulged in a witty verbal passage at arms with Joseph J. Rosborough, who introduced him as the Chauncey Depew of the West.

The editor referred to Rosborough's glowing introduction of him, which included the period from their college days to the present as a "Burton Holmes Travelogue." He decried the statement that he is a master of repartee contending that his mastership is at "departee" in that he thinks of brilliant retorts after the time for making them has passed.

CO-OPERATION VOTED.

At the conclusion of his address he asked the co-operation of the members of the advertising club in learning the geographical divisions of their state and urged them to cooperate to the fullest with the Greater California Campaign. A rising vote of co-operation was given.

Prior to the address by Field the club announced the appointment of George B. Furniss as chairman of the program committee for the balance of the year and Arthur Kinney as chairman of the Christmas fund committee. The coffers of this committee were enlarged today by a series of voluntary fines offered by the members.

Entertainment at the club meeting was provided by Miss Thelma Worley, offering vocal selections.

Wrestled Must Face Struggle For Decree

Edwin J. O'Malia, described by his wife as a "renowned wrestler," is defendant today in a divorce action brought by Mrs. Minnie O'Malia, in which she charges him with extreme cruelty. The case is being heard by Superor Judge Koford, wth O'Malia contesting the action.

Mrs. O'Malia alleges that her husband, who she says is worth $100,000, has $60,000 cash in bank, the family homs at 124 Apgar stereet, and other property in Oakland and Emeryville.

She charges extreme cruelty, alleging that her husband struck her so forcibly on one occasion that her teeth were all loosened. She also charges that he was intoxicated on numerous occasions.

Halley's Widow Is Heard in Contest

Mrs. Jane Halley, aged resident of Alameda, was the center of interest today when she testified in a suit brought against Frank W. Hally, realty operator, and his sister, Mrs. Jennie R. Parker, by Miss Kathryn Halley and Mrs. Lida Meyers, sisters of the defendants. The action is one in which the plaintiffs seek to have a deed set aside. The deed was signed by their father, the late John Hallcy, of Alameda, and conveyed to the sister and brother all of his property, valued at $12,000.

The plaintiffs charged that their father was of unsound mind, and was laboring under the undue influence of the two defendanis in the action.

Mrs. Halley testified that her husband was sound of mind, and that there was no undue influence. She further stated that her husband destroyed his will in her presence and that he did not make a new one.

Why some people sleep 'lightly'

THE PRINCIPAL REASON is irritated nerves, and the common cause of nerve-irritation is coffee and tea drinking. For each cup of coffee or tea contains from one and one-half to three grains of caffeine.

Caffeine has a tendency to agitate the nervous system, when the nerves, normally, should be relaxed. The result is that you fail to get the deep, restful sleep that restores health and vigor.

If you have any idea that coffee or tea is injurious to your health, drink delicious Postum, instead. Postum is the pure cereal beverage that helps the nervous system, by permitting you to get sound, revitalizing sleep.

Serve this fragrant, mealtime beverage. You and the family will be surprised and pleased with its delicious, coffee-like flavor. And better health is worth while.

Postum comes in two forms:—Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully twenty minutes.

Quality Electrical Merchandise
THE MARK THAT MEANS INSPECTED & CERTIFIED by PACIFIC STATES ELECTRIC COMPANY Chosen from the Markets of the World
T. M. REG. 1922

Your Share of Electrical Progress

For more than thirty years hundreds of thousands of men have been constantly at work to perfect electrical service and to reduce its cost to you. There are hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the electrical industry. In California alone the power investment is over $567,000,000.

Great manufacturers, such as the General Electric Company, and many others are producing electrical appliances and materials that, by providing convenience and comfort, have turned thousands of houses into homes.

This is electrical progress.

Every householder may share in this progress but only as much as the house wiring will permit. One electrical outlet in a room where four are needed, sub-standard materials and poor workmanship, do not permit a very large share, and cause endless dissatisfaction. Only the best service, only standard materials and appliances supplied by qualified and responsible electrical contractor dealers are worth buying.

A helpful guide in finding the "best" is the orange and blue "check" seal which the Pacific States Electric Company, the largest distributor of electrical merchandise on the Pacific Coast, uses to identify its complete line of standard electrical materials and appliances, chosen from the markets of the world, inspected, and certified as standard. These products are distributed by responsible contractors and dealers who employ good workmanship and who are qualified in every way to give you the kind of service you have a right to expect.

Look for the orange and blue "check" seal.

The electrical appliances shown on this page, together with other standard electrical products, certified by the "check" seal, are described in our new booklet, "The Electrical How for Householders". You will enjoy this booklet, with its many suggestions for the convenient and economical utilization of electricity in your home. It may be obtained free from any electrical contractor or dealer displaying this seal.

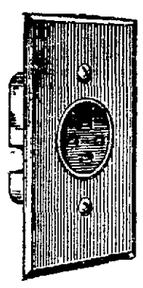
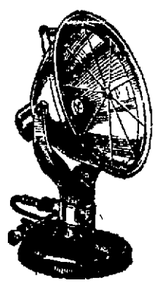
WAYNE ELECTRIC BELL RINGERS (TRANSFORMER)—The Wayne bell-ringing transformer, a General Electric product, eliminates dry batteries. It is connected with the household light circuit and adjusts the current to the requirements of electric bell systems. Once installed the transformer functions continuously at a negligible cost to the owner.

HOTPOINT VALVELESS PERCOLATOR—Made of nickeled copper in an artistic design. Equipped with the standard Hotpoint percolating apparatus and safety switch which cannot get out of order or be damaged if the percolator is allowed to boil dry. Starts percolating 30 seconds after the current is turned on.



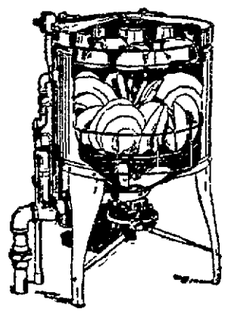
GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY CONVENIENCE OUTLETS—A complete line of standard outlets, distinguished for appearance, ruggedness and durability. Finished in brushed brass or special finishes to match wood work or color scheme of decorations. Will receive all standard plugs, thus furnishing connections for all types of appliances. Recognized as standard by underwriters and technicians.



HOTPOINT-HEDLITE GLOW HEATER—Provides clean and concentrated heat, when and where you want it. It is especially adapted for warming small rooms, bathrooms, etc., and for drying hair after a shampoo. Should the heater be accidentally upset, the automatic switch breaks the current and closes the circuit again when the heater is righted.

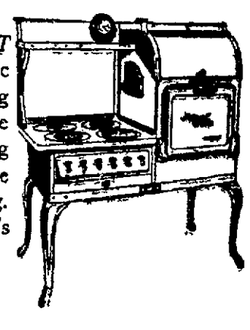
PREMIER VACUUM CLEANER—"First among cleaners." Half a million now in use. Cleans by powerful suction alone or by suction plus a rubber-fingered brush. This feature is of great advantage to the housewife. Attachments for cleaning mattresses, clothing, walls, moldings, upholstery, furniture, pianos, etc. It is easily connected to any convenience outlet. Equipped with G-E air cooled motor.

THOR ELECTRIC WASHING MACHINE—The Thor washes everything from fine laces to grimy overalls without any rubbing. It does the week's washing in half the time required by hand methods and eliminates all the hard work of hand rubbing and rinsing. The Thor is scientifically constructed. Over 750,000 now in use. Has G-E motor.



WALKER DISHWASHER—The one thoroughly practical dishwasher. On the market seven years and steadily growing in popularity. Thousands now in use. Directly connected with water supply and drain pipes. Practically eliminates the housewife's most disagreeable task and saves fully an hour a day in time. Current and soap powder cost about 10 cents per week. Equipped with G-E motor.

"SUPER" AUTOMATIC HOTPOINT HUGHES—This range has an automatic time and temperature control, eliminating the housewife's close confinement to the kitchen. Equipped with replaceable heating units, either open coil or sheath wire. The oven has two units for broiling and roasting. The Hotpoint-Hughes is electricity's answer to good and easy cooking.



C. C. EXCURSION GIVEN WELCOME BY VALLEY TOWNS

-oville, Marysville, Chico Among Centers Visited by Oaklanders.

By E. Van LIER RIBBINK,
Staff Correspondent The Oakland TRIBUNE.

ABOARD OAKLAND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SACRAMENTO VALLEY EXCURSION SPECIAL, Oct. 4. — "We are all one greater California! Our interests are one and indivisible. We must co-operate!"

Such was the keynote of the welcome given the 125 men from Oakland as they arrived last night in Chico with their message of civic good will and neighborliness.

As the train drew into the station, the Chico reception committee was on hand, headed by I. B Adams, president of the Chico Chamber of Commerce, and by Gene Bowles, managing director of the chamber, formerly publicity director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, and known as a brilliant newspaper writer in editorial offices from New York to the Pacific coast.

When the Oaklanders discovered that Gene Bowles was there to meet them, there was an instant rally of old friends. Someone led off, and three cheers and a tiger were given for Bowles, the band following suit with a fanfare and with "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot?"

Following which impromptu reunion, we once again formed in parade and marched through Chico with the swing and military bearing of a regiment-of-the-line, preceded by our ubiquitous band of the Technical high.

The absence of "Orrub," cherished donkey mascot, was unavoidable on this occasion, it having been ordained that too much parading may be prejudicial to the health of even a burro But tomorrow our quadruped friend will lead us once more to fame and glory.

At Elks hall the visitors from Oakland were welcomed at a smoker given under the auspices of the Chico Chamber of Commerce, and addresses were made by W. E Luman, I. B. Adams, Tom Kelly, A. G. Eames, W. G Hall and other leading Chico residents.

President Adams of the Chico Chamber of Commerce declared that all Greater California, including Chico and the bay region, are at last awakening to their opportunities and emulating the energetic example set by communities in the southern part of the State.

Tom Kelly, also representing the Chico Chamber of Commerce, raised a laugh by reading the following telegram, which, he alleged, had been received by him the previous day: "Severest storm in years in Oakland. Lightning, thunder and burning oil. Oakland Get-Acquainters en route to Chico."

The visitors from Oakland were deeply impressed with the facts communicated them regarding Chico's industries and prosperity. This thriving city of 10,000 inhabitants has the Diamond Match Company, the largest factory of its kind west of Chicago, and the region produces immense crops of rice, prunes, almonds, grain, barley, wheat and peaches. In the morning we will make an automobile tour of these fruitful lands.

After running through a thick curtain of rain on our way up to Oroville brilliant sunshine greeted us when we arrived at that beauty spot on the Feather river. In line with the brilliance of the weather, was the heartiness of the welcome given the Oaklanders by the people of Oroville as they marched in parade through the city streets, the band playing lively airs, and "Orrub," the donkey mascot of the party, stepping out gaily in front.

Following the official welcome at the Oroville Auditorium, the visitors were taken on a drive through the magnificent environs and the green orchards of oranges, figs and olives. Here was a wonderful opportunity to admire that tireless energy of the people of one of California's oldest mining towns, who did not limit themselves to mining solely, but who have created one of the finest agricultural and industrial areas the eye can behold, and the spirit rejoice in.

At the Oroville Auditorium, W. J. Sharkey, president of the Oroville Chamber of Commerce, said in welcoming the visitors: "We know the spirit in which you come and [illegible] the great development which is now taking place in Oakland.

WIDE DEVELOPMENT.

"We here in Greater California, and especially in and around Oroville, are also passing through a period of intensive development. Within the next two years our program calls for the cultivation of 40,000 additional acres of the best farm land in the state. We want to establish closer economic and social relations with Oakland, and we are proud to have you with us."

N. J. Whelan, chairman of the board of directors of the Coast Tire company, spoke in behalf of the visitors and expressed appreciation for the welcome extended by Oroville to Oakland.

INDUSTRIES DETAILED.

James C. Nisbet, secretary of the Oroville Chamber of Commerce, told the visitors some remarkable facts about Oroville. The city, he said, has a population of 6000, and has the following industries: Swayne Lumber Co, Hutchinson Lumber Co, Coast Rock and Gravel Co, Ehmann Olive Co, Mt. Ida Packing Co, Butte County Citrus Association, Sunnycal Packing Corporation, Natomas Consolidated, Oroville Steam Laundry, Pacific Gas and Electric Co. The city is served by three railroads—the Southern Pacific, Western Pacific, and Sacramento Northern. The industries represent an annual payroll of $1,745,000, and employ approximately 2000 persons

The welcome afforded the boosters from Oakland in Marysville, one of California's most historical spots, was as hearty and as spontaneous as that of Oroville. Ed Lewis, former assemblyman and at present postmaster, told the visitors that as far as Marysville and its people were concerned "the earth and the fulness thereof were theirs."

He emphasized the importance of close relations between the two cities, and communicated some startling facts regarding the products of Marysville and Yuba City, nor omitting to mention that the Marysville and Yuba canneries produce more than half of the canned cling peaches that form the world's supply of this fruit.

MANY GIVE WELCOME.

Among other residents of Marysville who were on hand to welcome the visitors were. Dr. J. L. Sullivan, Leo J Smith, formerly of Oakland, and now owner of a large jewelry store in Marysville; S. D Johnson, furniture man; Ed. Johnson of the P. G. and E; Charles Rednall, rancher; Frank Beven; Wiliam Connarn, secretary of the Marysville Chamber of Commerce; Willard Roberts, automobile man; W. T. Day and V. M. Cassidy of the Marysville Appeal, and many others.

Following a parade through the business section of the city, the Oaklanders were taken on an automobile trip through the peach orchard section and Yuba City. An opportunity was also given to view the plants of the California Packing Corporation, the Sunmaid Raisin Compay, where they pack raisins for the English and Continental markets as well as for American consumption; to the new $300,000 Virden packing plant, and other Marysville and Yuba City industries.

Officials of the Marysville Chamber of Commerce took pleasure in startling the visitors by the enumeration of such facts as that single trains of 85 cars, loaded with peaches, frequently pull out of Marysville during the canning season, and that sometimes 145 cars loaded to the brim with Marysville products leave within 24 hours for Oakland.

NEW HOTEL SITE.

The site where a new $400,000 hotel is to be built at Fifth and E streets was also pointed out to the visitors, with the information that this sum is subscribed by Marysville residents. A. H. Boulton is president of the new hotel company. Frank Aaron is vice-president, with R. W McCormick as secretary and H. B. P. Carden as treasurer.

An editorial printed today in the Marysville Appeal and addressed to the visitors from Oakland says in part: "We welcome you to our community and have but one regret—that you are not able to remain with us a greater length of time. We have a myriad of wonders to show you, and the showing would be even better than the telling. The agricultural activities of Yuba and Sutter counties will prove an eye-opener to you. It is a rightful boast that Yuba and Sutter counties hold the stage center when it comes to showing the world what intelligent farming can produce on the best land in California."

SPECIAL EDITIONS.

The Oroville newspapers also have issued special Welcome Oakland editions. Says the Oroville Register, under a heading "My City Oakland": "Oakland has become a wonderful city. They have learned that there is nothing impossible of achievement if the people of a city have the vision to see big things, the courage to undertake big things, and the ability to work together.

"We fear, however, that Oakland has been so busily occupied in keeping up with itself that its people may not know how fast the Oroville district has been moving ahead. We hope that today we may convert our guests to the gospel of Oroville Inasmuch as Oroville is a part of Oakland's back country, our visitors need not love Oakland the less if they learn to love Oroville a little more.

"They should learn of our industries and payrolls, they should know we are the gateway of the famous Feather River District, and that Oroville is the largest olive packing district and center in the world."

We found it difficult to leave these cities of Oroville and Marysville, where the old California spirit of friendliness and hospitality is so much in evidence Had it not been for our merciless schedule, which listens not to the voice of sentiment, we would have tarried longer by the banks of the Feather river.

One and all are very comfortable and happy. We have plenty of music with us—the Oakland Technical High band under Bandmaster Herman Trutner, pianolas, victrolas and what-not. The Southern Pacific is doing nobly by us, and there is a quintet among the colored waiters A. Bell, E. Watts, O. Brooks, J. Nicholas and Gus Jackson, that sings wonderfully well. I am making special mention of these singers, for they delight not only orally but also gastronomically!

The TRIBUNE'S unique stunt in printing and distributing picture postcards of the trip is the talk and delighted wonder of all aboard the special.

Charles Foy and Orton E. Lucas of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and L. Richardson and Geo. J. Blech and N. Kinell of the Southern Pacific are seeing to it that everybody is happy and satisfied.

It is now, "What Ho for the North!" where California begins

Storm Did Splendid Work With Sewers

As a result of the recent sudden heavy rain, the storm sewers, catch-basins and gutters of the city are now in splendid condition, according to City Engineer W. W. Harmon, as the rains gave them a thorough cleaning.

"I do not believe that sewers and catch-basins were ever cleaned so thoroughly in so short a time," said Harmon. "The storm was the best thing that could have happened, so far as the street department was concerned, for it showed the weak points in our sewer systems and gave us an opportunity to repair these weak points before the real rains begin."

Registration Of Voters Ends Saturday Night

Saturday at midnight, the time for registration for the coming general election expires, according to an announcement by George Gross, county clerk. Those who failed to register prior to the primary election must do so by that time in order to vote in November.

Jo. Wagner, registration officer in the county clerk's office, has started the work of preparing the mailing envelopes for the sample ballots on the general election and has a large corps of stenographers at work.

ONE ENDS LIFE, TWO TRY TO DIE TO ESCAPE WOES

Domestic Difficulties Cause Man's Suicide; Despondency Affects Others.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—One man committed suicide and a man and a young woman made unsuccessful attempts at self destruction here during the early morning hours today.

George Van Iderstine, 36 years old, swallowed poison in a downtown hotel as the result of domestic difficulties. He was removed to the Emergency hospital late last night and afterwards transferred to the San Francisco hospital, where he died soon after midnight. His wife resides at 61 Lloyd street.

Miss Henrietta Sweet, 30 years old, of 1301 Octavia street, in a state of despondency looked for a means for suicide early today and finding nothing labeled poison swallowed a quantity of ink. She was taken to the Central Emergency hospital little the worse for her experieoce.

George Crosby, 25 years old, after writing a note declaring that he had been deserted by his friends, swallowed poison in his room at 125 Sixth street today. He is in a serious condition at the Central Emergency hospital.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED?

Saturday is the last day upon which citizens may register for the state and congressional election in November.

Every person who has not registered as a voter since January 1, and every person who has changed his place of residence since last registering, must get his name upon the great register this week if he would have a voice in the selection of a governor, a senator, congressman and other officials and if he would express his views on the thirty amendments and proposals which are to be upon the ballot.

There were many who were disappointed when they found they could not vote in August. The figures on Saturday night will show how many have remedied the situation and will also reflect, for the rest of the state to read, the growth in population of Alameda county. It is desirable in every way the county present for the election its largest voting strength.

In the primaries Alameda county registered 155,558 voters, a gain of ten thousand over the primaries of two years ago, Presidential year. Those who are content with this gain should remember that between the primaries and the close of registration prior to the November election of 1920 close to 20,000 persons registered and the total was brought up to 161,679. To equal that figure it is necessary that 6,000 names be added by Saturday night to the totals for August, and to maintain the 10,000 lead there must be 16,000 new names.

AMENDMENTS SIX AND SEVEN.

Amendments Six and Seven on the November ballot are two that are attracting but little attention, even among the men most affected. The one would change the methods of classifying title insurance companies and the other would correct an existing injustice in the measures to exempt service men from taxation.

The present law requires title companies to deposit $100,000 to guarantee their certificates and the proposed measure would allow the legislature to classify them by population of the counties or cities, for the purpose of regulation. It is based on the argument that $100,000 guarantee is not enough in the large centers and may be too large a deposit for smaller ones and so far no strong opposition has been expressed. The danger which must be considered is that which might lead to as many different acts regulating the business as there are counties in the state, and with different rules in different counties, a general state of confusion. It is not probable injury would be done in case the amendment carries but the argument in favor does not offer advantages to offset the inconvenience which would be occasioned.

No one has been found to write an argument against Amendment Seven which, in brief, would include in the tax exemption privileges men who served in the war but who have not yet received their final discharges. They are the ones who enlisted for duty and who were assured they would be released from active service with the end of the war. This release has been granted but the discharge has been held for the expiration of the period of enlistment. The amendment would simply add the words "or who has been released from active duty under honorable conditions." It aims to treat all service men alike and should be supported.

FARMERS AND TARIFF.

There is no talk this year of the tariff hurting the farmer. Democratic spellbinders are having a difficult time of it, even, in assembling the voters in the rural sections to listen to attacks on the bill. The farmer is satisfied and he has reason.

In the first place, the farmer helped make the McCumber-Fordney bill. The "farm bloc" in Congress was a factor in the recorded decisions which fixed rates and it voted for the passage of the measure. Twenty-five of the largest farm organizations of the country have issued an open letter heralding those who supported the bill and endorsing it as "more nearly giving to the farmers a square deal than any tariff legislation enacted during the present generation and the first tariff measure ever written based upon the principle that the farmer is entitled to the same treatment in tariff legislation as the manufacturer."

"We resent," say the farmers, "the intimation frequently expressed upon the floor of the Senate that any person who owns a farm or other property is disqualified from representing his state in the Senate. We consider practical and successful producers better qualified to represent their state in Congress than men who have no knowledge, experience or intelligent sympathy with the economic problems of the nation."

Here is a protest carrying enough weight in signatures to silence many orators before they have started. It will not be popular to attack the tariff in the country this fall whether that country district be in Arkansas or Maine, New Mexico or Oregon. Among the signers of the letter are:

National Grange, National Dairy Union, National Wool Growers' Association, American Rice Growers' Association, Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, American Honey Producers' League, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, Southern Tariff Association, National Swine Growers' Association, United Peanut Association, Arizona Prima Cotton Growers, New Mexico Wool Growers, Arkansas Rice Growers, and many others.

NEGATIVE AND POSITIVE.

"First and foremost," says Senator Smoot, in speaking of the session of Congress but recently adjourned, "it has enacted no destructive, no sectional, no class legislation." This may be a negative virtue but there can be no denying the time had come for Congress to display, in the three fields mentioned by Senator Smoot, that wisdom which knows enough not to meddle.

The war time emergencies developed in the United States a new and accelerated system of drawing from Congress, or the President, laws, commissions, and decisions. Of necessity, it removed deliberation, forced prompt action, and sometimes, carried in its accomplishment a weight of injustice. There is no one who will deny the war days saw some destructive, sectional and class legislation put into effect. It was a time when the greatest good had to be considered and when minutes counted. Investigating bodies are still seeking to find out how some of the wrongs may be righted.

A summary of what Congress accomplished in this last session was read by Senator Smoot in the last minutes before adjournment and is to be found in the Congressional Record. This positive record follows:

To put more bus[illegible] in government, it enacted the Budget law, under which the economy program of this administration was made possible.

It reduced the public taxes $818,000,000 a year, the bulk of which is lifted from the family and individual of average income. That taxes might be still further reduced, it unsparingly cut public appropriations.

It found 5,000,000 men idle. To prevent further aggravation of the unemployment situation, it enacted the restrictive immigration law.

It found agriculture facing ruin. To relieve the situation it revived the War Finance Corporation and furnished it with a million-dollar revolving fund to loan the farmer in his emergency. It passed the farmers' emergency tariff, which stopped the flood of imports that was contributing to agricultural distress. It increased the funds of the Federal farm loan bank in the sum of $25,000,000.

The result was the revival of agriculture, which brought the farmer, who purchases 40 per cent of the manufactured products of the country, again into the market, thus giving employment to idle men.

It enacted a permanent tariff, which insures industry and agriculture alike protection from destructive foreign competition and the workingman steady employment at a good wage.

It enacted the Sweet law, which created the Veterans' Bureau, consolidating all Government agencies dealing with ex-service men and facilitating the work of relieving disabled war veterans. It appropriated for the use of that bureau more money than was appropriated for any other purpose except payment of the public debt and interest thereon.

It found the country officially in a state of war with Germany and Austro-Hungary, and by a joint resolution established peace with these two nations.

It enacted that great piece of humanitarian legislation asked by the women of the country, the maternity act to safeguard the welfare of infancy and maternity.

It created a refunding commission to place our foreign loans on a businesslike basis and formulate conditions for their payment.

It authorized the formation of cooperative-marketing associations, which will be of mutual benefit to the producer of food and to the consumer. It enacted the packers and stockyards act for the live-[illegible], and the grain futures act for the farmer.

To promote our foreign trade it amended the Edge Act to facilitate the organization of corporations engaging in export business.

It provided for the reorganization of the Philippine financial system and an extension of Philippine credit in order to save the islands from bankruptcy, which they were facing as a result of eight years of government under the Democratic regime.

It came to the relief of drouth-stricken areas in our own country, extended the time of payment due on irrigation and reclamation projects, granted liberal aid for public roads, extended relief to the starving millions of Russia, reorganized the Indian Bureau, strengthened the enforcement of the Federal prohibition amendment, provided for the creation of more Federal courts in order to relieve the congestion of business and expedite justice, and created a commission to investigate the coal industry.

In addition, the United States Senate in less than 30 days ratified seven treaties formulated at the Arms Conference, which moved the world toward peace and committed the nations to a reduction of naval armament and a consequent reduction in taxation.

Autumn Fields.

The milkweed stands in serried array,
Lowly, but staunch, from day to day;
Burst pods of its erstwhile sturdy bloom,
Cast silvery down from the plant's fulled loom.

The tarweed fancies its growth to
With tiny white bl[illegible]soms, round which the bees hover.
Who touches Sir Tarweed the day will rue,
For his exudations have the likeness of glue.

Both tar and milkweed stand knee-high,
While stubble in grain field is yellow and dry,
And the blended scent of fresh-gleaned fields
To heaven its lowly fragrance yields.

We have always marveled at the gentlemen who visited us for a day and went their ways writing books. Arthur Ruhl is not such a one. Of all the writers who reported on war fronts and in the disturbed countries before or after the war, he was the coolest, sanest and most accurate. So, then, one must listen with some attention when he writes of the campus of the University of California. His article, in Harper's Magazine, includes the following:

"The sun blazes on a white campanile, on the white faces of huge new buildings, on the mountainous, smooth brown hills that climb up behind the campus, and far out through the haze, on the blue of San Francisco bay. Instead of sober New England elms, are altitudinous, half-tropical eucalyptus, with rustling, gray-green leaves and aromatic scent that somehow reminds one of Australia or Kipling's India and saddle horses and slightly arrogant 'colonials' in riding clothes.

"The lawns are spotted with curious, low-spreading, Japanesey-looking trees, and under these trees students squat on the grass with their books—boys and girls from the California orchard and vineyard country, Filipinos, Russians, Japs and Chinese. The campanile bells chime, and out of the white buildings they pour in droves—there have been as many as fifteen thousand undergraduates at Berkeley—boys in corduroy trousers and class caps, girls in pink and sky-blue silk sweaters, in all sorts of costumes, from severe black with white collars to French heels and picture hats.

"In the pause between recitations you will see a great covey of these airy, fairy co-eds laughing at one end of a broad marble entrance, while a crowd of boys, with an earnestness and abandon impossible, at 11 o'clock in the morning in the more self-conscious East, are roaring 'close' harmony at the other. To any one accustomed to the stern monasticism of Cambridge or Princeton, it is like a scene from a musical comedy."

Serge Yessinin, detained for a brief spell at Ellis Island, while officials postured and submitted to interviews, has come into fame as the husband of Isadora Duncan. During the Ellis Island incident he was a sad-faced husband gazing disconsolate at the Statue of Liberty. For all of the picture and the opportunities for comment we cannot admit justification of R. Spinkeyvintz, who sends in the suggestion that Yessinin is Isadora's blue Serge.

NOTES and COMMENT

New York Evening Post: "President Hopkins, telling 1900 Dartmouth students that 'too many men are going to college' and that democracy needs 'an aristicracy of brains,' was issuing a warning to the idlers and incompetents. In two ways our colleges can deal drastically with the evil of too many men and too low an average proficiency: they can discipline the preparatory schools which send them dunderheads and can make the departure of the impenetrables swift and final. Since the war the tax on our university facilities from Columbia to Stanford has forced institutions to elevate their standards to cope with it, and this elevation is healthy."

New York Sun: "A telegram from Detroit reports that Mr. Henry Ford is about to reopen his shops, implying that he has found some coal which he can buy and not cheat himself. Word from Rome tells us that the Ford Motor Company is planning to build a plant at Antwerp, where parts made in Detroit will be assembled. For those who desire general rehabilitation of industry no better tidings could be heard than that Mr. Ford is thus concentrating his great abilities along the lines in which his idea has won him such unparalleled success."

Stockton Record: "Even the Indian peace pipe is likely to be filched from our histories some day. The Indian is said to have taken the final degree in his civilization and to be smoking cigarettes. He finds it difficult even in ceremonials, says a chief, to smoke the pipe properly. But let that not be counted against him. The stuff smoked in the peace pipe 'kinnikinick,' is said by the brave chief to bear the same relation to tobacco that 'white mule' bears to Scotch whisky. It is made of the bark of red willow mixed with plug cut."

New York World: "The Supreme Court of Ohio has orderded the Secretary of State to place on the November ballot a proposal, legally framed and presented, so to amend the State Constitution as to permit the manufacture and sale of light wine and beer. That such an amendment, if adopted, and followed by the appropriate legislation, might conflict with the Volstead Act is quite true. But it would not conflict with the Federal Eighteenth Amedment."

From the Pathfinder: "Soap, sugar and civilization go together, they say. This country produced 2,432,590,000 pounds of soap last year. This is about twenty-two pounds for every man, woman and child—which is a per capita increase of five pounds in the last twenty years. We use four times as much sugar as soap."

The late Senator Watson of Georgia was a stormy petrel, of the class of Tillman and Vardaman, but he was held in highest esteem by the fellow citizens of his state. He was an iconoclast, and that type seems to catch on in the South particularly, though we have LaFollette and Borah in the North. They are picturesque, and the United States Senate affords them an unusual setting to demonstrate their qualities.

wanted in the town,
And he talked of making money and a fortune's fair renown
But he never took his hat off when the Starry Flag went by,
And he'd hear his nation's anthem with a bored and weary sigh.

He voted—yes, he voted, but he did it with a sneer
And belittled men in office with the ship of state to steer;
He called them politicians, and the look upon his face
Seemed to tell the little fellow that his government was base.

We must teach them love of country; we must tell the little chaps
There is more within our borders than is printed on the maps,
If our nation is to prosper and our glory's not to die
We must teach the young to love it, and must tell the reason why.

ON EARTHQUAKES.

Editor, Oakland Tribune:

Last Saturday morning as I arrived at my place of employment I discovered a part of The TRIBUNE Magazine of June 18, 1922, in which I saw some data on earthquakes.

No wthere were some things in that article I did not believe, and I am here asking the privilege of making a reply.

I am wondering just what kind of dope this body of business men are looking for on this earthquake question. If they are looking for real dope they are a long ways from getting it.

In order to get an idea of the awful velocity of the earth in its wild chase (as Dr Campbell would put it) buy yourself a cake of artificial ice, place it out in a convenient place where you can see the city hall, set down on it and watch the hour hand on the town clock make one round. And that only constitutes one-half the time it takes dear old mother earth to turn one of her flip-flops.

Suppose you would reduce the earth (in theory), to the size of an electric generator, wouldn't it be going some? I don't know just what the rule is now but when I was in the electric business or rather doing electrical work, the Thompson Houston exciter ran at a velocity of 2400 revolutions per minute. Now this old mother of ours would sure cut up some at that rate, wouldn't she?

Now, Mr. Editor, I pray you for a little space and I will give you some real dope on this earthquake question. With all due respect to the scientific fraternity I think they are about as useful to the commonwealth as an umbrella would be to a nine-eyed eel.

About YOUR HEALTH

Why Being "Bored" Is Bad for Body as Well as Mind.

Don't you feel sorry for a person who is so disgusted with life that he looks bored every moment, and spends much of his time covering half-concealed yawns?

That blase, weary, sophisticated, drooping manner ill becomes any person, young or old, who assumes it.

Undoubtedly, it is a manner which, in most instances, is assumed. If it is not assumed, I am inclined to believe it is founded on physical or mental disability. It is impossible to conceive of any perfectly sane and normal individual becoming so bored with life as to wear a perpetual mask of disgust or indifference. It is not natural to be so unimpressed by the events of daily life.

There are some unfortunate persons who are bashful and retiring. Some of these attempt to hide their embarrassment by assuming various mannerisms — haughtiness, toughness or an air of being bored.

Don't act bored.

If you are human there is something of interest in every moment. Try to get the best out of life. Look for good and pleasing things. You can't be bored a single minute if you have any powers of observation and the capacity to appreciate what you see and hear.

If you want to be like a block of wood, or to assume to be as immobile as a stone statue, go ahead! Nobody will love you but your parents, and they just have to—they wouldn't if they could help it. A bored person is not fit company for man or beast.

It isn't good for your health to be bored. Your heart must have emotional stimulation in order to beat as it should.

You want to have a good complexion, to be bright-eyed and red-lipped, to have rosy cheeks and warm hands. You can't have these without a strong and forceful circulation.

You want a good appetite, perfect digestion and normal action of all the organs. You cannot have these without proper heart action.

Happiness, good nature exuberant spirits, mental alertness, human interest, enthusiasm, laughter—all these are heart stimulants. They are better than a jugful of medicine. Indeed, they are Nature's agents of good health.

Occasionally there is an individual who might admire the Sphinx. He might even seek the companionship—or rather should I say, company—of the Sphinx.

What we call "personality" is really the magnetism of a happy and winning nature. No bored person is possessed of magnetism.

Therefore, if you would be loved, and if you would be healthy, you will cultivate enthusiasm instead of indifference. You will be interested and not blase.

DIFFICULT MERCHANDISING.

A sheet of music is one of the most difficult kinds of merchandising proposition, because the intrinsic value of the paper and printing amounts to only a few cents, but the article must be so desirable that the customer will willingly pay thirty cents for it.

Until the time of the war vast quantities of popular sheet music, costing 6 or 7 cents a copy wholesale, were sold in the 10-cent stores. Production costs kept rising, however, until the whole plan of distribution had to be changed. The wholesale price is now from 18 to 22 cents a copy, the retail price from 25 to 30 cents, and the distribution is through the regular music houses.

The volume of sheet music sales is not so great as it was in the days of the 10-cent music, but the profits are larger. In the old days a song or a piece of music that sold a million and a half 10-cent copies was considered a hit. Nowadays the equivalent is in a sale of one-third that much at three times the price.—Philadelphia Ledger.

CITY FUNDS NOT FOR USE OF COUNTY

City Attorney Gray Objects to Oakland Paying for Bringing of Criminals Extradited From the East

The old-time question as to whether county or city should pay for extraditing criminals has come up again, according to City Attorney Leon E. Gray, who s advising the city officials to halt appropriations to send Oakland policemen eastward to bring prisoners to this county.

The city council recently appropriated a sum for Inspector Sternitzky to go to Kansas City for a prisoner. Now Inspector Kyle wants to go to Denver for a prisoner.

City Attorney Gray asserts that this matter is strictly a county function, and that the county should appropriate therefor. He holds that the city cannot divert its money for that purpose.

"Are we assuming to handle county functions?" asks Gray. "If so, we might as well go further and take charge of some other things. The extradition of prisoners is an inter-state affair. The cost is assessed against the county where the prisoner arrives.

"I believe that the police fund of the City of Oakland is expected to be used for policing the city."

"BUNGALOW COURTS" TO BE BARRED

City Council Bans Class of Buildings From the Single Family Residence Zone; Street Banners Prohibited

The city council this morning banned the "bungalow court" type of building from the single family residence zone, gave the market inspector greater power over the free markets around Sixth and Washington, and prohibited the future erection of all banners across the downtown streets.

The "bungalow court," according to Commissioner Colbourn, is springing up fast in the residential districts, though he asserts that this type of construction is not conducive to home life and should be discontinued. Several speakers appeared to back up his argument.

The council finally passed to

INERTIA IS HELD DANGER TO AMERICA

Examiner of School Children Warns Parent-Teachers of Lockwood Against the Complacency of Nation

A plea against civic complacency and against national inertia was voiced today before the Lakeview School Parent-Teachers' association by Dr. Virgil E. Dickson, head of the bureau of research and guidance and expert on the classification of mentalities, who for the past few years has examined all the school children of Oakland for mental standing.

Dr. Dickson's subject was: "Are We Safe?" His talk intimated that we are not.

"The average American is smug and complacent because he believes the Americans are the greatest people on earth," he said. "But is this attitude fitting us for the real fight for world standing? As the result of the world war our nation stands foremost, but will we hold that position by our own energy or will we merely say 'I am foremost' and lose everything?

"It is a question as to whether our level of intelligence is going to hold up. Unless we pay attention to present conditions, and as long as the American stock is being replenished from inferior races, we are not going to be leaders very long.

"The history of all smug, complacent nations is that they go down.

"In order to hold our high position; in order to uphold the traditions of our forefathers, we must see that our boys and girls are given proper education in home and school, and we must look to it that they understand the importance of work and preparation for the future.

"We will hold our great position only as long as we can hold it. It does not come without effort."

GIRL ACCUSER OF S. F. MERCHANT JAILED AS THIEF

Complainant in $100,000 Balm Suit Held With Sister in South.

Elaine Lit-tel, 19, plaintiff in a $100,000 heart balm suit against August Oliva, San Francisco commission merchant, and her sister, Marie Lit-tel, are under arrest in Los Angeles, according to advices received here today, on a charge of theft preferred by Chauncey D. Reynolds.

According to the complaint, Reynolds was the guest of the two young women, who claim to be the daughters of G. B. Lit-tel, a wealthy Porto Rico planter, and during the evening's entertainment was drugged and robbed of $50 and a gold watch.

Elaine Lit-tell achieved a place in the public eye here last month when she brought suit against Oliva alleging that he failed to keep his promise to marry her. Oliva's arrest on a felony warrant was also requested by the girl, but she did not appear on the issuance of the citation.

Oliva issued statements setting forth that Miss Lit-tel was an adventuress who had played on his heart-strings in an effort to extort [illegible] and asked for her arrest on a warrant charging extortion and blackmail.

The charges made by Miss Littel were that she had been deceived by the commission merchant and had been taken to hotels in Fresno and Sacramento, where she had been plied with liquor. She said that Oliva had prohibed her with an apartment in San Francisco.

In substantiation of her heart-balm claims she produced letters from Oliva in which he protested his love by offering her "oceans of love" and "worlds of love and kisses," and said in one, "Sweetheart, I love you better than all the banks, mints in the world," and tendered "a million hugs."

And the shank of the shoe flexes! With every step the shoe yields with the foot. The muscles have free play, they exercise and grow strong. Cantilevers correct and prevent flat foot because they strengthen the muscles that surround and uphold the small bones of the arch.

SMALL SUM WILL SAVE GIRL FROM BEING CRIPPLED

ALAMEDA, Oct. 4.—Elizabeth is a frail school girl in danger of being a cripple for life unless she can be helped with braces, for her slim legs which threaten to bow backward.

Recently physicians announced that braces were the only thing to save this child from life-long deformity. But her father is a semi-invalid and the frail mother is struggling to keep a large family of children together.

In despair, the mother appealed to Beulah Spunn, executive secretary of the Alameda Social Service Board, for assistance.

But the board is without funds because the month of September drained all the resources. So Mrs. Spunn decided to ask the aid of TRIBUNE readers. Those who see their own daughters growing in strength and womanhood, and whose hearts are touched by the plight of Elizabeth, may send contributions to Mrs. Spunn, which will receive the lasting gratitude of the child and her family.

MAYOR APPOINTS ARMISTICE FETE VETERANS' BODY

City Gives Annual Celebration Semi-Civic Feature by Approval

At the request of the mayor, the city council today formally appointed an Armistice Day committee, making the November 11 celebration a semi-official affair.

The growth of popularity of the Armistice Day celebration, says the mayor, has taken it out of the independent committee status and made it a civic affair. The committe, however, consists mainly of ex-service men who will have the celebration in charge.

The mayor's letter, naming the committee, is as follows:

It has been suggested by several of our ex-service men that a Municipal Armistice Day committee be appointed frem among the veteran organizations to plan for an appropriate observance of Armistice day again this year. In the past years arrangements have been made under the direct auspices of the veteran organizations, but with the growing significance which is attached to this anniversary, it is the thought of the veterans that its celebration should be a Municipal affair.

I am therefore appointing the following representatives of various veteran organizations in Oakland to plan for the observance of Armistice Day, November 11, 1922. The representatives are: Bestor Robinson, Deputy City Attorney, chairman; Earl Warren, Oakland Post No. 5, American Legion; Dr. R. I. Newell, Oakland Post, American Legion; S. B. Schertle, Department Commander, Veterans of Foreign Wars; W. H. Morchouse, Commander, Waterhouse post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; B. A. Forsterer, United Spanish War Veterans; E. P. Gallagher, United Spanish War Veterans; R. H. Chamberlain, Jr., Argone Post, American Legion, and G. R. Iangan, Grand Army Republic.

It is my thought that this committe can act as a gener. l committee and appoint from the various civic and fraternal organizations of Oakland, a large committee which can arrange for an appropriate celebration of Armistice Day. I am submitting herewith a resolution confirming the appointment of this committee naming it as an official committee to arrange for a celebration on Armistice Day.

Back Health Exposition, Urges C. of C. President

Urging Oakland business men and the public to rally behind the International Health and Safety Exposition, Joseph H. King, president of the Chamber of Commerce, today pointed out that this show has the official endorsement of the chamber, and that it is the biggest event of the kind ever held in California. It will be held in the Oakland Auditorium, November 17 to 26.

"Aside from all selfish individual interests, we must support this exposition generously that Oakland may be known as a place where such shows are possible," said King. "The Exposition was conceived by the Chamber of Commerce and is to be given under its active direction. Leaders in the chamber naturally feel that the good name of Oakland is at stake in this show, and that the success of the Exposition will do much toward advertising this city throughout California and in distant places.

SHOW NOT TECHNICAL.

"The Exposition is not a matter of doctors and hospitals, as many seem to have thought. Its first aim is prevention of disease and accident. It will deal with every phase of health and safety. Doctor and hospitals, as well as all manner of trained specialists, will naturally have a big part, but there will also be extensive commercial displays of every imaginable device, service and system designed to advance the good of the commonwealth. The space in the auditorium will be divided equally between commercial and non-commercial exhibits. Oakland business men interested in placing their product in the best possible light before the largest number of people must give the show their support by taking space."

COMMUNITY VENTURE.

King declared the Exposition would be the best advertising medium ever known here for health and safety products, as well as the finest educational plan ever devised to acquaint thousands of users with the bearing of countless articles on health and safety. He said that inasmuch as the show has received the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce, the Onward Oakland Club, the Civic League of Improvement Clubs, and many other organizations, it is a truly community venture which local interests are bound to support with every means at their command.

Co-operating in the educational phase of the work will be the Public Health Center and virtually every other public welfare agency in the bay cities. The State, the government of the United States and foreign countries will participate. It will be the largest health and safety show ever held in the world, according to announced plans.

Liked Seattle Home Better Than Husband

"If you don't come here to Seattle to live I guess you are minus a wife," wrote Myrtle Arnold, 146 North Eighty-third street, Seattle, to her husband, Benton G. Arnold, 1089 Fifty-fourth street, according to testimony given by him which won a divorce decree from Superior Judge Harris.

In the letter, which was introduced in evidence when the testimony was taken by Court Commissioner Clarence Crowell, the wife said that she liked it in Seattle and would not return to Oakland to reside.

Her husband, who is employed as a stage driver for a bus line company, testified that they were married in Seattle November 5, 1920, and separated March 24, 1921.

Writing to his wife to keep his clothes for him because "If I come back alive I will need them," Charles Levinson left home and has not been seen since, according to his wife, Sena Levinson, 1013 Linden street, who was granted a divorce today by Superior Judge Harris. She testified that her husband had left their home on many occasions, becoming angry without provocation. They were married in Chicago in July, 1917, and separated January 24, 1921.

CHILDREN FIGHT FATHER'S EFFORT TO REGAIN THEM

Sons Prefer to Remain With Grandparents After Writ Is Issued.

Kicking, screamin g and crying, Harry and John Waltz, sons of Harold L. Waltz of Stockton, were taken from their grandfather's arms yesterday afternoon by their father while a crowd of more than a hundred looked on. During the battle over the children the grandmother, Mrs. M. L. Davis of Hayward, fainted and lay on the steps of the courthouse.

The children were awarded to the father by Superior Judge L. S. Church following a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus. Waltz told the court that he secured a divorce from Mrs. Ida Waltz and that because of the nature of the testimony he was awarded custody of the two children, Harry, 8, and John, 6 years old. He said that he gave them into the keeping of the parents of his wife pending his establishment of a home. For five years the grandparents have had the children. Waltz also testified that when he called at the Davis home recently to see his children he was evicted from the premises.

Davis testified that Waltz had given him the children unconditionally and claimed that he had signed a document to this effect. He further claimed that Waltz was cruel to the children and that they had begged him not to allow their father to take them.

With the decision of the court the children threw themselves upon their grandfather and resisted the efforts of the father to take them away. The battle raged down the steps of the courthouse to the front lawn. There the father succeeded in getting one of the boys. He was placed in a machine and held there by friends of Waltz until the father succeeded in securing the second child.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth,—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calonite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Advertisement.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4.—On the ground that they have families to support and cannot afford to give the city $10 each, J. D. Ferrat and C. J. Close, stage drivers, took the alternative of one day in jail today for speeding along San Pablo avenue. Testimony showed that the men driving stages containing a party of Foresters were proceeding at a rate of forty miles an hour.

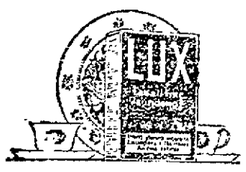
And now—relief from the three-times-a-day ruining of the hands

THREE times every day your hands are in the dish pan. Don't let dish washing be a hardship to them.

One tablespoonful of Lux—hot water—and your dish pan is full of rich bubbling lather pleasant to the most sensitive skin.

Lux is made to be easy on your hands. It won't hurt them, just as it won't hurt silks or woolens. In these pure flakes there is no ingredient that could possibly redden or roughen the skin.

Try Lux to-day. One package will last for 44 dish washings—more than two weeks. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.



Just a tablespoon to a pan. A single package does 44 dishwashings—all the dishes for more than two weeks.

LUX
FOR WASHING DISHES

Lux leaves your glassware sparkling without a trace of soapy film—your silver lustrous, your china spotlessly clean.

Retain the silken lustre of your hair

The crowning glory of womankind—beautiful well-groomed hair—should not and need not lose its youthful charm and attractiveness. Through proper care and treatment any woman can retain or regain the youthful beauty of her hair.

Proper Care Is Essential

Avoid harsh soaps and shampoos. The hair is delicate and tender, and grows beautiful only under the gentle urge and stimulus of natural methods. The free caustics and alkalies found in many soaps and shampoos devitalize the hair roots, eventually causing it to lose its life and health and become prematurely grey.

The Gentle Natural Method

Yuccatone is a natural vegetable shampoo, pressed from the desert-grown yucca plant. Its action is gentle, cleansing, nourishing and life-giving. The penetrating natural lather carrys nourishment to the hair roots, gives new life to the hair, and through gentle astringency, closes the hair follicle, keeping the hair from falling out.

After shampooing with Yuccatone, the hair is fresh-looking and fluffy, with a wonderful silky texture; wavy, easy to manage, and holds its arrangement well. A single application will show very remarkable results, and if used regularly, beautiful hair becomes more beautiful and faded hair is returned to its natural lustre.

Stops Falling Hair

After successfully treating 5,000 cases, an instance has yet to be found where Yuccatone has failed to stop falling hair. One or two applications are usually sufficient. Used regularly, it promotes a very noticeable growth of new hair in a remarkably short time.

My Marriage Problems

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of Revelations of a Wife

What Happened When They Reached Home.

Marion! Marion, dear!"

Lillian's clear voice, tender yet firm, urged her sleep-bound young daughter to wakefulness as we turned into the driveway of our farmhouse.

"Ye-es, mother, ye-es," her voice trailed off into sleepy silence again.

"Marion! You must help me with Junior at once."

"The never-failing slogan," I murmured, as I heard the child spring bolt upright, clattering her heels against the tonneau floor, and ask wildly:

"Where's Junior? What's the matter with him?"

"He's all right, sweetheart." I knew without turning my head that Lillian had drawn her beloved child soothingly down to her side again. "But he's fast asleep on the other side of me, and I don't want to waken him if I can help it. We must carry him straight up-stairs. And I couldn't very well get loose with eighty pounds of big daughter leaning against me, now could I?"

"Couldn't I carry him?" the child asked pleadingly.

"No, darling. Uncle Dicky will be here in a minute—he's right behind us—and he can do it better, because he's stronger. But you may run in and tell Grandma Graham we're here.

"Where's Richard Second?"

Marion tumbled out of the car, almost falling flat on her face in her zeal to be of aid. But her services were not needed, for from the side entrance where I had drawn up the car there appeared my mother-in law, her face a bewildering conflict of relief and wrath. Behind her Mrs. Tiger's placid, rosy face appeared above her ample tightly-corseted figure, and farther down the hill I saw children hovering.

"What under the sun!" Mother Graham began, changing to swift indignation. "Why didn't you let us know you'd be here tonight? From Richard's letter we didn't expect you until tomorrow night."

"Oh, mother! What does it matter?" I said wearily. "We're all so tired that if we can just get something to eat and a chance to lie down, nothing else matters."

"That's just the trouble," she snapped.

"We were going to change the beds around tomorrow, the last thing, and I don't know what there is in the house to eat. Well!" grudgingly, "it can't be helped now, and now you're here, we'll have to manage somehow. But if I don't give Richard a piece of my mind! Where's Richard Second?"

Her voice changed unbelievably, immeasurably softening, as it always does when she refers to her idolized grandson.

Katie Is Destressed.

"Asleep against Lillian," I answered. "I'm just waiting for Dicky to carry him in."

She came down the steps to the side of the car, opened the tonneau door and bent over the sleeping child.

"Danzie's pessus boy," she murmured fatuously, then spoke worriedly to Lillian. "I'm glad you're here with Margaret. You may be able to do something with that ape of a Katie."

"Where is Katie?" I asked apprehensively.

"Sick or sulking or scared to death in her room," she replied tartly, the intonation of her voice, the expression of her eyes plainly intimating that I was responsible for this state of affairs. "She hasn't been downstairs since the night Jim settled her hash about going out. We had to get Mrs. Tiger over to do the work. And Jim isn't worth his salt—he goes around as if he'd just buried his whole family. Here's Richard now!"

Dicky whirled into the yard, stopped the car within a few inches of us, leaped to the ground, and seized his mother in a bear hug.

"How's everything, mother?" he asked cheerily.

I gave her no chance to tell her lugubrious story over again, playing the trump card I always hold—my knowledge that her grandson's welfare comes before anything else in the world.

"Dicky, please carry Junior upstairs, right away," I requested. "Where shall we put him mother?"

"On my bed of course," his grandmother retorted. "Where else would you put him? He's going to sleep in my room tonight, bless his baby heart! Lift him carefully, Richard."

She was safely switched from Katie's shortcomings for a few minutes, I said to myself relievedly, and I turned to Lillian with hand outstretched to help her from the car.

It never reached her, however, for from the house came an eerie, high-pitched shriek which startled me, and then Katie with wan, tear-stained face, and tortured eyes, plunged down the steps and clung to me, sobbing wildly.

Cinema Closeups

Mary Thurman

Little Mary Trumann, her of the chestnut bobs, would give anything, or at least almost anything, if she had back the long tresses she used to comb so primly, but they were sacrificed to ambition and art, and since then she has never had the opportunity of growing them back again.

She used to have long chestnut curls that would reach down to her waist. When she became a school teacher she had to keep her curls constantly oiled to make them lie down snug to her head and give her the appearance of staidness which her youth and vivacity were constantly contradicting.

Then one summer she went to visit friends in Los Angeles and immediately joined in the municipal pastime of that city of trying to get into motion pictures. She haunted the studios and was more than successful in getting work as an extra. Then she became a Mack Sennett bathing beauty. She had the fever and finally when she got a small dramatic part she couldn't sleep at all the night before reporting for work.

Perhaps, after all, her long hair was her hoodoo, for it was the first day of the bobbed hair that she received her engagement with Fine Arts, which was also the first time she had a part important enough to have her name included in the cast. Since that time she has been so busy doing big things in the silent drama that she has never had time to let her hair grow again, for the appearance of an actress must be kept the same from the beginning of a picture to the end, except when special make-up is ordered. She talks, however, about the some time when she is going to take a long vacation and get her curls back again.

Mary Thurman's latest screen appearance is as leading lady for Richard Barthelmess in his new First National starring vehicle, "The Bondboy."

Producer Tries Jazz

Was jazz known in the early seventeenth century? If not, what effect might such music have had on the people of the day?

An orchestra was playing music of an ancient vintage on the set during the filming of "To Have and To Hold," a George Fitzmaurice Production for Paramount. But he wasn't satisfied with the action of the extras in the scene. They seemed dull, too lifeless and inexpressive.

Near the orchestra sat Betty Compson, who with Bert Lytell, is featured in the picture. While Director Fitzmaurice bemoaned the poor work of the extras, she requested a jazz number from the orchestra leader. The musicians responded with a syncopating fox-trot.

Immediately the extras livened up. Pep entered in person and the entire set seemed suddenly to come to life. Fitzmaurice's face lighted up with smiles. All was well.

The incident served to cause more than one present to wonder just what effect modern jazz music might have had on people of the early American days.

Hughes' Next Photoplay

Rupert Hughes, having just completed his latest superfeature for Goldwyn, "Gimme," in collaboration with his wife, is now getting ready for his next production.

It will be a screen version of his novel, "Souls for Sale," recently published in book form by Harpers after running serially in the Red Book. Hughes is himself preparing the continuity for the photoplay and it is likely that, in some instances, he may depart widely from the published story.

"Souls for Sale" is Hughes' net impression of life among the motion picture colony in Hollywood and its influence on the morals and manners of screen players. The book has already had a big sale and bids fair to rank among this author's most popular novels.

The heroine, Remember Sneddon, is an unusual literary creation and will afford a fine role for the leading woman who is selected to play it on the screen. If Hughes has made a choice for this part he has said nothing about it to Goldwyn's production staff.

New Method Introduced

While other directors may find the ever-ready megaphone an adequate agency for conveying their thoughts to screen players, Victor L. Schertzinger, just completing "The Lonely Road," in which Katherine MacDonald is starred, has a method that is proving far more effective.

For Schertzinger, who is as well known as a composer as screen director, tells it with the violin. Whenever a scene requires the "lifting up" that only music can supply he makes use of the violin that brought him fame as a soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. While directors on other stages are working with the aid of small orchestras, Schertzinger organizes himself into a one-man troupe and provides the music himself.

The violin method of directing has been particularly successful in this, his latest effort for B. P. Schulberg, a Preferred Picture that will be released through First National. The intensely emotional scenes show the effects of his efforts — so much so that Joseph Brotherton, the cameraman, insists that he has succeeded in "photographing the music" and making it a part of the picture.

Theater goers probably will recall Schertzinger for his many tuneful scores for successful comedies. "The Pretty Miss Smith," a Morosco production, is among the list of hits credited.

Doug to Develop Market

That American film producers are greatly interested in developing the foreign market is evidenced by the announcement today that Douglas Fairbanks is preparing to road show his new film version of Robin Hood in Europe as well as in this country.

Already Doug has sent Harry D. Buckley, of this city, to New York to establish headquarters there for the American road show company, and yesterday Pete Smith followed him to take charge of exploitation.

Witches' & Pirates' Story Den

GEORGE NICHOLSON,
Box 62, Soquel, Cal.
13 Years.

Pirates with baby sisters or brothers will appreciate this most—but, anyway, George has solved a question that has long bothered some of us:

WHY THE BABY SAYS "GOO."

Once there was a chief who was brave, good and kind, for he had driven all the ice giants back to the north and had drove the witches away from their cave. In the little Indian village lived a woman with a little Indian papoose.

One day the chief grew vain and said: "I can fight anyone!"

The woman smiled and said, "Come with me. I will show you something that will fight you."

The chief went with her and came to a little wigwam. Inside sat a baby. "Baby' come to me," said the chief.

The baby smiled and said 'Goo'!"

The chief did all the magic dances he could think of until he grew wet with sweat. Then he went out of the wigwam, angrily muttering to himself.

"Goo!" said the papoose.

So when the baby says "goo" he is happy, for he remembers the time he frightened the chief away from the wise woman's wigwam.

THE SEA DOG.

Once upon a time there was a ship out at sea. It was a pirate ship. The name of the ship was the "Sea Dog."

The captain and his crew were after pearls. It happened that after the men had got through and had their division a ship came in sight. The Sea Dog got ready for a fight.

When the other ship was close enough on its side they read the name, "The Sailor of the Sea."

After a hard fight the Sea Dog won. They captured the Sailor of the Sea and blew it up. They won many other battles after that. Hurrah!

MY AEROPLANE RIDE.

One day when my brother and I were playing, we saw an aeroplane lighting at the aviation grounds. I lived in Bakersfield, Cal., about a quarter of a mile from the aviation grounds.

"Earl, let's go over and see the aeroplane," I said.

"No! answered Earl, so I went by myself.

I ran all the way over there. When I reached the aeroplane I was out of breath.

"Want to go on a journey with me?" asked the aviator.

"Sure," I answered. I had no time to go ask mama.

We decided to go straight to Cuba, so we took a southeastern direction. In about 24 hours we reached our destination. Just as John, the aviator, was going to get out, he was shot with an arrow by a native. I immediately started off again, for I did not want the natives to shoot me. John lived long enough to show me how to run the aeroplane and gave me a note for his sweetheart, Frances Smith. When we were well out over the ocean I threw my dead comrade overboard.

I landed on another island, which I knew to be haiti from studying. Here I was taken captive by some Indians. The chief's son, Wawahta-see, had a beautiful white captive who he wanted to marry. When I came in camp he gave a loud war whoop, for he heeded one more scalp and then he would marry the girl.

They decided to scalp me in the morning. That night I succeeded in seeing the girl. We went walking with one of the natives. I told her I had a plan to escape. She told me her name was Frances Smith. When we reached the aeroplane I turned on the guard and stabbed him. We jumped in the aeroplane and started for good old California!

I found that Frances lived in Bakersfield. We were both glad when we reached home. The aeroplane and the girl were mine forever.

A REAL CHRISTMAS SURPRISE.

Once upon a time there was a poor little girl who lived with her mother. It was the night before Christmas, and because they were poor her mother had to work. There was no food in the house, so poor Betty went to bed.

After she was fast asleep, some fairies, not thinking anybody lived in such a house, went in to have some fun. But when they found that a little girl lived there that wasn't going to have any Christmas, they agreed to give her a real surprise.

Then they went away, and after a while came back with some more fairies. Then the queen of the fairies said, "You go bring me two dolls, you go bring me two jumping jacks, you go bring me two clowns and you go bring me some nuts, fruits, candy and a Christmas tree."

When they came back they fixed the house up and put the toys all around the house. When they were about to leave on of the dolls said, "I want to be a real person!" Then all the other dolls said the same.

The queen of the fairies then said, "I know—let us tell them to come alive and dance until morning." Then they were awakened.

When they had danced a while the two clowns saw the little girl. They then decided to wake her. When they were about to wake her the fairies made everybody get in their places, and then they ran away.

When the little girl woke up she was so happy! Soon her mother came home, and they lived happily ever after. "SMILES."

HOW THE MORNING GLORY GOT ITS STAR.

If you look closely at a morning glory you will find a five pointed star. Each point begins from the very heart of the flower, to the edge of the petal.

Long, long before there were any people on earth, there lived in the sky, in a most gorgeous cloud palace, a beautiful princess named Morning Glory.

Morning Glory was so named because she was as glorious as the morning. This princess loved a prince whose name was Half-Moon.

Not far from the palace of Morning Glory, was an ugly black cloud castle. In this castle there dwelt a wicked magician, named Storm. Storm was in love with Morning Glory, but she hated him.

One morning Storm went to visit Morning Glory. Storm came in and asked in a thundering voice, "Will you come to live with me—or not?"

"No! I won't."

"Well—we will see," said Storm. He threw his cloak over Morning Glory and said, "May you become a flower!" Then he transformed Half-Moon into a star and put him in the flower. Storm laughed and threw the flower down to earth. Ever since Morning Glory has been a flower, but she is with Half-Moon.

The Emigrant

Surrounded—
By queer bags and bundles—
The emigrant—
Stands on the deck of ocean palace—
And in the steerage all about him—
Excited tongues in every language—
Echo incoherently—
Reminding of the old-time story—
Of tower of Babel—
For after years of anxious dreaming—
The promised land of milk and honey—
Comes to view—
And so he gathers close his bundles—
That smell too plain of fetid quarters—
In steerage hold—
But transformation comes within him—
His eyes light up with freedom's glow—
And soul of him so long downtrodden—
Now bests the flow—
Of dire misgivings—
For fear the hopes of golden promise—
Might strangle in the undertow—
Of disappointment—
And now she docks—the pulsing steamer—
And herded like too timid sheep—
These stolid sons and subdued daughters—
Of hopeless lands beyond the seas—
Crowd close—each heart there palpitating—
All keen to test this land of gold—
And agents there of vast expanses—
Of virgin soil untouched by man—
Arrive to meet them and to greet them—
And point the way that they must go—
Till soon on lands all bleak and barren—
Where coyotes break the midnight calm—
There, breasting all the frontier's terrors—
These patient pilgrims take their stand—
And through the scorching heat of summer—
And in the blight of winter's grasp—
These men toil on—and these women—
And never waver—or despair—
Thus soon the desert blooms in glory—
Beneath the magic hands of men—
Whose toiling hours are never measured—
Save by the hope—
And by the promise—
That nature will repay in gold—
And health and happiness—
Till passing years will give them peace—
And there are those who sneer and sniffle—
At uncouth sons who hail our shores—
Not sensing that we owe our glory—
To plodding stern-lipped folks like these—
And when our history is written—
By man unbiased—unafraid—
The brightest chapter in that volume—
Will crown with laurel—
The emigrant.

Providing a Clean Bill of Health.

On a voyage back from France after hostilities had ended, one of the transports had aboard a negro labor battalion. Included among the returning veterans of the Brest docks was a crap-shooter of mighty powers, originally from Memphis.

Off the banks the ship ran into nasty weather, and the gamester, frightfully seasick, lay in his bunk too miserable and too weak to move, and expecting each succeeding moment to be his last, as the craft stood first on end and then wallowed deep in the trough of the sea. As a matter of fact, the peril was real. The laboring steamer had blundered off her course and was dangerously near the shores of Newfoundland. Suddenly, in the middle of the night, a siren steam whistle at a lighthouse station on the mainland blared out, the sound rising above the roar of the wind. To the sufferer in bed down below, that appalling blast could mean but one thing—the trumpet call of judgment day.

He got down on his knees and prepared to uplift his voice in prayer for salvation. Then he remembered what he carried in his trousers pockets. He reached in his pocket and, as he flung into space his educated ivories, he cried out:

"Git away, evidences! Come on, Angel Gabriel!"

The Army of a Million Crooks

August Vollmer

by Geo C Henderson

A study in scientific criminology. Facts gleaned from the records of the Berkeley School for Police and of its founder, August Vollmer, past president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and leading authority on criminology.

Chapter 97

THE ETERNAL ENIGMA

WHY is crime? Since Cain killed Abel men have been seeking an answer to this question.

For many hundred years every person who violated a law was treated like a vicious beast. It was not until after the Revolutionary War that the practice of hanging men for theft was abolished. Half a century ago the motto of American prison officers was "Boil 'em in oil."

Prisoners were thrown into dungeons, kept in solitary confinement for months at a time, forced to do the lockstep and maintain silence at all times and not infrequently were strung up by their thumbs or laced into a straitjacket.

Today the beast theory of criminality has gone into discard. Instead, we have clinics to examine psychopathic inferiors, prison hospitals to bring back the injured to normality, the parole and the indeterminate sentence and the probation system to give the accidental offender a better chance.

"Yet we seem just as far from solving the eternal enigma as ever before," declares Vollmer. "With all our scientific criminology, our modern crime detection methods, our expenditures of half a billion a year to fight the crook—there has been no apparent decrease in law violations. Crime has increased in direct proportion to the increase in population. If the population has increased 15 per cent since 1910, then the increase in crime has been 15 per cent."

Many famous men have had theories as to what crime really is. Freud declares that it is a sex disturbance. "Man is what his sex is," declares the great psycho-analyst.

Mental abnormality results from sex disturbances and either prompts the individual to steal, murder and rob or else makes him more susceptible to evil surroundings, achieving thus the same result.

Why am I not in prison? you ask yourself. Is it because of my great virtue? Is it because my psychology is just right? Am I free because of the shape of my head or the circumstance of my birth? Would I be a criminal if I were suddenly deprived of all property and means of livelihood and thrown in with lawless men?

This serious questioning of men by themselves has led to a new psychology on the part of criminologists.

Today we have psychiatrists who say that all criminals are defectives; that we have crime because we are breeding so many feeble-minded children.

Others claim that environment and education are the big factors.

The proponents of the heredity theory point to the large number of known felons whose parents have been insane, feeble minded or vicious.

Physicians there are who maintain that physical abnormalities play a tremendous part in making criminals of men and they show beyond dispute that a vast percentage of convicts are suffering from malformations of the body.

If you were to ask the average police chief, Why is Crime? he would very likely reply, "Because people are so ornery."

Employers might tell you that men turn to crime because they are too lazy to work, while the workers might say that the exploitation of the laborer has driven many of their number from honest toil to a dishonest life in jail.

But there is an answer to the question, Why is Crime?

The eternal enigma is no longer either eternal nor an enigma.

Tomorrow, "The Causes of Crime."

Winifred Black Writes about FOLKS AND THINGS

The pretty girl with the red cheeks and the clear, hazel eyes and the soft bobbed hair nodded vigorously.

"Yes," she said, "that's what I want—reality — grim, hideous, vivid, terrible.

"'Old - Fashioned Girl' and 'Under the Lilacs,' and the 'Little Curl Series'—they were all right when I was a child, and so were dolls and skipping-ropes—but I'm a woman now and I want to read real books, about real life. They don't shock me at all—they fascinate me. They thrill me with the wonder of life and the horror of it and the glory of it."

And she and her young man put up a picnic lunch and went out to the beach and sat in the sand and watched the blue waves curl in, crested creamy white like the flounce of a blue dress, and they read together out there in the clean, sweet-smelling open, a Russian book so unspeakably vile that the very sight of it tainted the air like the smell of decaying offal.

And the young man was delighted.

He was a nice young man, good as gold, honest, upright, and intelligent. He had lived all his life in a clean, well-ordered home and he wanted to know how people felt who had never been of such a home.

And he respects the girl and likes her very much. Sometime, I suppose, he and the girl will make up their minds to marry and settle down, though doubtless they do hate the thought of anything so old-fashioned and hopelessly Victorian as marriage.

There are thousands of such young people, talking about just such things together; nowadays—things that were never mentioned in decent society twenty, or even ten or in most places, five years ago.

THEY MEAN WELL.

There's no use being shocked at them—they mean well and they'll come out all right. They're just passing through a phase of development, and they do so want to be wicked and worldly and "knowing."

Isn't the Mother of the Family, just as real and just as human and a thousand times more interesting, really, with her hopes and her fears and her sacrifices and her little plans and her cruel disappointments, as some poor drab who sells herself—and then wants to tell the world about it—in a book?

Isn't the river just as "real" as the sewer?

The ocean is rather big and for the most part clean—isn't it as "real" and "vivid" as a slime-choked and fetid marsh, somewhere?

Bless the girls and boys and their determination to know "everything that is grim and terrible."

I do hope the day is far off when they'll know so much about these things that they'll be trying to pretend they never even heard of them.

Listen, World!

WHAT a Mighty Game politics would be if it were clean, or did any of the things it pretends to do! It might indeed be the greatest Religion of all. It has always seemed to me that men are hungry for a more practical, working partnership with Goodness than that offered by the orthodox creeds. Something that would not make us self-conscious about our souls, or impel us to brush our hair and act pretty because "God is looking," but something that would arouse all the creative visions within us and make us desire honesty, industry and brotherly kindness because we have proved that they are happy, helpful things to desire and practice. That, indeed, would be a religion for the common man—for all men. And if it could come no man would be common, but we all would be rich and well.

Politics might mean that—but it doesn't.

We need something that will grip down to the roots of our daily, grubby needs. We don't let religion do that. For most of us it's a matter of "good form" on Sundays—an asset in business or social life—a convenient alibi under which to nag or interfere with other people and hand ourselves crowns of glory. Such religion has little effect on our own character (save for its detriment) and none at all on the progress of the world. Generally speaking, we might as well be voodoo worshipers as Christian for all the impress our beliefs leave on the life of this country.

But the right kind of politics would leave an impress—the most terrific impress for good that the world has ever seen. We would at last remember that we are "our brother's keeper" and we would set about keeping him with honor and decency.

There is no greater tool on earth for humans than politics—and none more misused. We might turn our town into Utopia in six months, and not half try. Nor would we need to be much more intelligent. We would simply need to be more in earnest, more active, more certain about what we want and what we don't want. That's all.

But instead we sell ourselves, our thoughts and emotions, our votes and our souls to the mouthiest bidder as if we were a mess of fish bait—and then whine when we are used as worms!

FACING WEST FROM CALIFORNIA'S SHORES.

Facing west from California's shores,
Inquiring, tireless, seeking what is yet unfound,
I, a child, very old, over waves, towards the house of maternity, the land of migration, look afar,
Look off the shores of my Western sea, the circle almost circled;
For starting westward from Hindustan, from the vales of Kashmere,
From Asia, from the north, from the God, the sage and hero,
From the south, from the flowery peninsulas and the spice islands,
Long having wandered since, round the earth having wandered,
Now I face home again, very pleased and joyous,
(But where is what I started for so long ago?
And why is it yet unfound?)

WALT WHITMAN.

Walt Whitman was a practical student as well as visionary. When he spoke of "facing home" as he looked westward toward the Orient, he spoke a literal truth. The "vales of Kashmere," the beaches of those "spice islands" were the cradle of our human infancy. YOU ARE A YOUNGER BROTHER TO THE HINDOO AND THE JAP IN ACTUAL REALITY. It is infinitely important that you should remember this, not only when you consider the problem of "mixed marriage" but when you consider all the problems that are now confronting a war torn world. THE PATRIOTIEM THAT INSISTS ON RACE BIGOTRY AS A VIRTUE IS NOT GOOD PATRIOTISM. It is the ignorance, the fear and greed of the old, old tribesmen who hid in the caves of some remote valley. The men who led civilization, who made the world, knew no such tribal narrowness. They saw beyond their walled valleys and thrice walled spirits to that vast realm where all men shares the gifts of God as one. WHERE DO YOU STAND? A BRAVE ADVENTURER WHO BREASTS NEW TRIALS—OR A SKULKER IN A VALLEY GUARDING YOUR OWN PETTY SPOILS.

In a recent issue the question was raised whether Christians feared death more than peoples of other faiths, and if so why. Here comes the answer—and it's one of the best talks on Faith and the reason why we should have Faith that I have ever read. Faith has always seemed to me more than a purely "religious" attribute, in the narrow sense that most of us use religion. It is more than the accessory of any one creed or the belief in any one prophet. FAITH HAS ALWAYS SEEMED TO ME A TEST OF INTELLIGENCE. I cannot conceive of a truly intelligent person who has no wide interest in the spiritual side of human life, in those aspirations of men who raise them above purely personal considerations, in the mysterious forces that lie all about us and, as yet, defy analysis, and in the life beyond the grave. No man can speak with great certainty of these things, but surely no man of sensibility and superior mentality can be incurious about them. And in considering them, it has always seemed to me that the intelligent man must show his intelligence by deciding to have faith that there is a power greater than our human will and a life wider than our little span of years. This is the attitude of the following writer, and I wish you would ponder over the criticism of the Hindoo and see how true it is of the people you know and perchance OF YOURSELF.

DEAR GERALDINE: Yes, Christians "fear death" more than do the followers of other religions, but that is not the fault of Christianity, it is because we call ourselves Christians when we haven't any religion that is more than skin deep. We are not a religious people. We are very busy with many practical things, and our achievements in these ways, and in acquiring utilities, and harnessing up the forces of nature to get work out of them, are quite remarkable. But we don't give ourselves, heart and soul, to religion, therefore we know little about religion, and we haven't love enough, generally, to stretch over the requirements of this mundane life, much less to link us vitally to the subtler spheres of being and of feeling. We go to church, but we remain tepid, critical, skeptical.

He who founded the church was none of these. However negligent as to getting material things, His was an impassioned relationship when it came to that other side of life—the Kingdom of Heaven, and That which is Within. Are we impassioned? It does happen, but it isn't common to the rank and file of us. We've had our St. Francis, our Padre Junipero Serra, and many more. We read their books, but we fail to become enkindled with their fire. One day in a large church with hundredes of seemingly devout people, two respected men of the town "passed the plate" down my aisle. Immediately after the last solemn words, and the throbbing, beautiful music, these two men went through the doors as I did, and behold! one was saying earnestly to the other: "I'll tell you about that deal. I made fifteen per cent and it was far more than I expected to get out of it." They walked up the street discussing with the greatest interest—the deal and its profits. I suspected that most of the congregation was, likewise, pretty well engrossed in worldly affairs. In fashion, and business, and what's for dinner. Then is it strange that we don't know anything about those matters into which we have never entered very fully?

I heard a learned and eloquent Hindoo say: "Your people are different from mine. When I see a group of your young men talking, in a house or one the street, I never find that they are having a discussion about religion or philosophy. It may be a good time, or athletic sports, or business, but never is it that side of thought to which our young men often give time and attention." On a Sunday school lecture platform I heard a specially fine man and leader say: "In the future life, if there is a future life—." Even he hadn't faith! Faith in his own imperishability. It is on old story—the West questions, Have I a soul? the East KNOWS beyond all question that "I am a soul, clothed, perchance, with a body." It is a study, and a mighty important one. We haven't generally, got beyond the dogmatic method: "It is so, because we're told so. You must believe it, because I tell you to do so." Some of us do not find this convincing. It isn't a scientific method.

There are better ways of approaching this important side of life, and if we enter into the study we are pretty sure to be well repaid. Prof. William James said: "I am convinced that this material world I know through five senses is not the total environment of my mind and soul." Our own race, the Aryan, was pursuing the quest of the soul some thousands of years ago. We have the Upanishads for our enlightenment. "The soul can speak only to the soul." But we westerners get the idea that ours is a transient, brief existence, and we shrink from that thought; we "fear death." China, Lao-tze, knew better two thousand five hundred years ago: "There are those who do not belong to the realm of death; though they die they will not perish, but live forever." We are unnecessarily materialistic when we hug our doubts and say "nothing endures." A successful business man said: "I don't dare study these things, lest I unsettle my faith!" He did not realize that he hadn't any real faith. It is by taking thought that we grow, and attain, and out grow our fears.

3-minute Journeys

One of the oldest forms of amusement of which we know is participated in by the natives of Java. It is that of cricket fighting, and is the most popular holiday diversion of the Javanese. This island lies in the Indian ocean, north of New Holland.

Crickets are trained to fight by the Javanese just as game-cocks are trained by the Filipinos. But it requires much greater effort to train a cricket than to train a game-cock. The little creatures are very difficult to tame. They are wild, and battle hard for their liberty.

After the Javanese man captures the cricket he wants to train he places it in a bamboo cage. He takes care that the wood is the hardest obtainable so the cricket cannot escape by gnawing its way out. The cricket strikes the walls frantically with its horny head until it falls to the bottom of the cage exhausted.

Then the trainer takes his little prisoner from the cage and throws it into a basin of water, where it struggles until nearly drowned. Afterward he strokes the cricket with a cotton-wool-covered stick to soothe it. Then the little creature is tied with a hair and is hung on a nail until it revives.

It is no more than natural the cricket should be ready to submit to training after such a process of taming. During the course of training the trainer tickles the cricket with a little brush to annoy it. Finally in its desperation the cricket makes a pass for the brush and clings to it spiritedly, fighting with all of the strength in its small body. After this it is fed on rice sprinkled with cayenne pepper to give it "pep" until the date for the match arrives.

Another cricket is brought forth by another trainer. Both crickets are tickled with grass to make them angry, and then are turned out of their cages. The "ring" is soon a busy place as the two crickets rush at each other with "blood in their eyes." The Javanese natives gather about the battling crickets and excitedly bet large sums of money on the small creatures.

The victory is decided when one of the little combatants is thrown or acknowledges defeat by running away. Sometimes one sinks to the "mat" exhausted.

The fight is followed by a great feast in honor of the winning cricket and his trainer.

THOSE who wondered when the vivacious Monica Myers married lumbering and good-natured Conrad Dyer, wondered again at their happiness. When his wife easily ran away with the conversation and became the center of merriment at a party, Conrad sat back in his chair and smiled in content. To Monica he was a bulwark and anchor, reliable and steady. She had never known a man so modest or so kind.

To many others Conrad's modesty was cause for comment and speculation. It was known he had been graduated from college with honors. Because he was large and strong it was hinted he had been a figure in athletics, but whatever triumphs may have been his were subject only for guess. Conrad never boasted and even Monica had given up trying to sound him out. She hoped sometime to meet one of his classmates at the small middle western college and to learn something of this quiet husband who had been the hero of her imagination. To Monica's way of thinking a man with a gridiron reputation was more to be envied than a senator, a high-jumper more worthy than a poet, She was young and she knew the words of the songs of a dozen universities.

It was this love for athletics and the Sprague house party which brought the first shadow of a trouble into the girl's married life. All the men here wore letters on their jerseys and talked baseball, tennis and football. Campus gossip, serious discussion of the merits of rival teams and stories of brave victories and heroic defeats brought her school days back. She wished Conrad would join in this talk, would tell them what he had done. Maybe, after all, he did not care for the really important things in life.

"Isn't it wonderful," she said to him, encouragingly, "to be here with all these famous men!"

"Indeed it is," the husband answered. "They are enjoying themselves as they never will again. What does it matter that in a few years they will wonder how they ever took it so seriously. It is the big thing to them now and they are putting their whole hearts into it. Youth is a wonderful institution. I like to listen to them talk."

Monica studied him, puzzled. "Anyhow," she said, "I think they are wonderful." She walked away feeling her husband was not all she would have him.

The party was near its close. The group which had been so congenial had separated into pairs and quartets. In the library Conrad was busy with manuscript and Monica, feeling neglected, wandered about. A car stopped at the gate and created some interest. A man asked for Conrad and was directed to the library. Moinca lingered in the hall. She would wait until their business was over before going in to be introduced.

Curiosity led the girl to the half open door. The stranger, a man of Conrad's age, was sitting with him on the davenport.

"Remember, old man," he said, "when it looked as if the old school would lose and we entered you as a dark horse? It was great! It was all so vital to us then and when you won the championship college life offered no greater glories."

Monica, restored to happiness, waited the answer of her hero. "Stanley," he said, changing the subject, "do you recall the day you won a medal for the class poem?"

This was like Conrad, her modest Conrad, who never told of his own big deeds. Singing to herself, she walked to the porch and waited.

"Well, it was good to see you," the man was saying to Conrad. "I'll have to be going now. How many folks in this house party know that Conrad Dyer, the successful writer, was the checker champion at college?"

Conrad wondered at Monica's gaiety. "I guess you're glad," he said, "this party is nearly over."

City Dug From Ashes

TO dig Pompeii out from under the volcano ashes has taken more than a hundred and fifty years. Of course very few men have been at work most of that time; but almost every year of it.

As it is, we know more about Pompeii than any other city of ancient times. The walls of scores of its houses are still standing. We can see the remains of its something new has been done to help us know what the city was like.

Pompeii was built on a hill not far from the foot of Mt. Vesuvius. It covered only a small space, about a quarter of a square mile. If it hadn't happened to be buried by ashes from the volcano you and I probably would never have heard shops, as well as its paved streets.

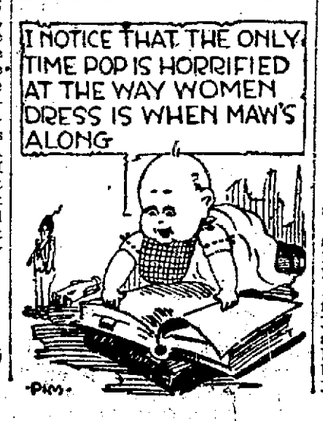
Our picture shows the ruins at one of the street corners. Notice the narrow street, and the overhanging balconies. Buildings often shaded the highways of Pompeii in a way which was very welcome to the people. Shade is always a great help when the weather is hot.

"Baby Mine"



Lucrezia Bori on BEAUTY

WHAT CAREFUL CARE MEANS IN CULTIVATING YOUR BEAUTY.

LUCREZIA BORI.

To be beautiful, every woman must have an ideal of beauty, and always strive to reach that ideal.

This doesn't sound easy, but there is nothing hard about the striving. It simply means deciding what possibilities you have, and setting about to make the most of them.

"Know thyself" is as old as the wisdom of the sixth century, B. C. It was Chilon, one of the seven wise men of Greece, who gave to us this expression which embodies all wisdom.

If this applies to the inner self, it also applies in a potent way to the outer self, and there is no denying that the outer appearance has much to do with the first judgments that others form of us!

In fixing your ideal of beauty there are several steps which you should take.

You should study your features and your figure. You should know your good points and your bad.

When you have become thoroughly acquainted with these things you must decide what is within your power to change or correct, and set about with every determination to make improvements.

Now, I am going to tell you what I consider one of the greatest helps in this campaign to know yourself thoroughly.

If it is within your power, have a dressing-table with a mirror in three sections, so that you can manage to see the sides and back of your head, as well as your face.

With the help of this mirror you can keep a close watch on your personal appearance. It will take only a glance when you are making your morning toilette to see whether your chin is keeping its firm, straight line, whether your shoulders are growing straight instead of curved, and whether lines are appearing in your face which show more readily in the light cast by a side view than from the front.

By discovering an evil early in the game you can curb it with half the effort.

a curving line beneath, which looks suspiciously as if it might develop into a dreaded double chin, a bit of massaging night and morning should work wonders. Catch this flaw before your friends notice the drooping tendency!

Perhaps you may see a fine line from your nose to the corner of your mouth that you hadn't noticed before. Five minutes spent massaging it upward with your finger-tips night and morning will keep your face younger.

You may see the faintest circles working their destructive way beneath your eyes. Buy some lanolin at your druggist's and apply it beneath your eyes two or three times a week. This will help fill out the hollows.

Know your profile and arrange your hair in the way that suits it best. If your chin is over-prominent, allow your hair to partly cover your forehead. If you have hardly enough chin, pull your hair well back to reveal as much forehead as possible. This will make your forehead and chin appear nearer on a line.

Never arrange your hair without a careful survey of the back. Use a hand mirror and see that every hair is in place. This angle, remember, is as clearly visible as the front view.

Uncle Wiggily Stories

By Howard R. Garis

The Bob Cat rushed out

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SUSIE'S CABBAGE

SUSIE LITTLETAIL, the jolly rabbit girl, hopped out of her house and started across the field stopping now and then to nibble a bit of clover.

"Oh, Susie!" called her mother, standing on the rear porch. "Oh, Susie girl!"

"Yes, Mother! What is it?" answered Susie.

"Please go to the store and get me a large head of cabbage!" requested the rabbit lady. "I want to make your father a cabbage pie for his supper. Get a large head, Susie."

"Yes'm, Mother, I will," she answered, and then she hopped on again, not eating so many clover leaves for she had had all she wanted. "I hope nothing happens to me, such as happened to Sammie and his carrot," thought Susie as she crossed the field and hopped into a grove of evergreen trees. The cabbage store was on the other side of this grove.

As Susie was hopping along all of a sudden she heard a rustling in the bushes.

"Oh, dear me!" cried Susie. "Who's that? Is it the Woozie Wolf or the Fuzzy Fox?"

"Don't be afraid, Susie!" laughed a jolly voice. "It is neither the Wolf nor the Fox!" And out hopped—Uncle Wiggily!

"Oh, I'm so glad!" laughed the little rabbit girl. "Will you please come to the store with me, Uncle Wiggily? I must get another a large head of cabbage, and I'm afraid something may happen to it, as happened to Sammie's carrot!"

"Nonsense!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "Don't cross a bridge before you come to it, Susie."

"Why, there isn't any bridge to cross at all!" exclaimed the bunny child, wonderingly. "The road to the store goes straight on—there isn't any bridge at all."

Uncle Wiggily began to laugh.

"Oh, I see what you mean," exclaimed Susie. "You mean for me not to worry and look for trouble about my cabbage before I get it!"

That's the idea!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "Your head is better for thinking than a cabbage head, Susie. Put I'll hop along with you just the same. Perhaps I may have an adventure."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped with Susie, and soon they were at the cabbage store. Susie bought the largest head of cabbage that was to be had, and the monkey doodle storekeeper gentleman put it in a bag for the little bunny child.

"Oh, it's very heavy!" murmured Susie, as she tried to lift it. "I'm afraid it's too heavy for me, Uncle Wiggily."

"If it is I'll help you," offered the bunny gentleman. "But try once more, Susie. Don't give up after the first try."

So Susie tried again, and she found she could lift the cabbage. It was not easy, but Susie wasn't going to give up, even if the cabbage should burst out of the bag.

"I'll help Susie if it gets too heavy for her," thought Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped along beside Susie, who carried the cabbage.

It was all right along the level places, where there were no hills. But when Susie started up hill with the cabbage, she began to puff and to grunt and her little pink nose twinkled so fast that Uncle Wiggily said:

"I'll help you, Susie. You are very brave, not to give up, but don't make your paws too tired. I'll help you up the hill."

Susie was glad of this, for she was tired, though she had made up her mind not to say so. Finally the top of the hill was reached. The other side went down, which is the way of all hills, you know. And as Susie looked at the long slope, down which she had coasted many times in the winter, Susie said:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! I'm afraid!"

"Afraid of what?" asked the bunny rabbit.

"Well," spoke Susie. "You know how hard it was to get the cabbage up hill. Now if it starts to roll down hill I never could stop it, and it will roll away with me and I'll roll down, too!"

"Perhaps not," said Uncle Wiggily. "Now think a bit, Susie, and perhaps you can puzzle out a way to get the cabbage down hill, without carrying it yourself. If you could do that then it wouldn't run away and pull you with it. Think, Susie!"

Susie thought and thought and thought of a way to get the cabbage down hill, without carrying it herself.

"Do you mean to let you do it?" she asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No!" chuckled the bunny uncle. "Try again!"

"Oh, know!" suddenly cried Susie. "You mean to let the cabbage roll down hill all by itself, and when it gets through rolling, at the bottom, I can pick it up and carry it again!"

"Exactly! Yes!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

Susie wrapped the cabbage well in the bag and gave it a little push. Down the hill it went as nicely as you please, faster and faster going bumpity-bump.

And half way down the hill the Bob Cat rushed out, thinking the cabbage was Uncle Wiggily rolling down hill. But it wasn't—it was the cabbage. And the cabbage hit the Bob Cat on his nose and made him cry "Wouchie! Ouchie! Wow!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Susie. Then she ran to the bottom of the hill, picked up the cabbage and carried it home. And Mrs. Littletail made cabbage pie and gave Uncle Wiggily some.

LOW CHILD LABOR FIGURES DECEIVE, ANALYSIS SHOWS

Figures Show Marked Falling Off; Close Inspection Alters Conclusion.

By KARL M. ELISH.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — The marked decrease in the number of children between 10 and 15 years old who are at work, shown by census expert of the department of lished, is more apparent than real, according to Dr. Alba M. Edwards, census expert of thedepartment of commerce. The question of child labor remains a problem, accentuated by the supreme court's recent decision, despite the optimistic figures of the census of 1920.

NOT GOOD COMPARISON.

The number of boys and girls at work in 1920, according to the statistics compiled as of January 1 of that year, was 1,060,858, a decrease of 929,367 from the 1910 figures. But — and here is what largely nullifies the encouragement of the 1920 census—the 1910 census was compiled in mid-April, when spring planting operations were at the peak, and farmers throughout the country were begging for help. In January, however, the number of farm laborers is at its lowest ebb.

"It is believed," Dr. Edwards' report states, "that when the enumeration was made in 1920 many children usually employed as farm laborers were not then at work and were not returned by the census enumerators as gainfully occupied. This appears to have been true, especially in the case of children living on the home farm. The enumerators' schedules show that a considerable proportion of such children were returned as neither attending school nor being gainfully occupied."

GAIN INCONSISTENT.

On the face of the census returns only 647,309 children of both sexes were engaged in farm work in 1920 as against 1,434,428 in 1910. But too many children were enumerated as farm laborers in 1910, according to Dr. Edwards, who pointed out that, although an increase of 34.8 per cent occurred between 1900 and 1910 in the number of children employed on farms, there was "no similar increase in the total number of persons engaged in agricultural pursuits."

The decrease in the number of child wage-earners in 1920 was widespread throughout the country. Both in cities and rural districts the figures show marked decreases. In only two classifications did their number increase—clerical occupations and "public service"—where their numbers jumped from 537 to 1,130 and 71,001 to 80,140, respectively. All the states showed decreases in the proportion of boys gainfully employed, with the District of Columbia standing alone with an increase. In the proportion of girls at work Arizona and the District of Columbia were the only units to show increases.

DECREASED IN CITIES.

Child labor decreased proportionately in most of the 68 cities of over 100,000 population, only six showing increase in the proportion of boys, with three showing increase in the proportion of girls. In the cities of 25 000 to 100,000 population the proportion of working boys in 1920 was larger than in the cities of over 100,000. A comparison of the girls at work shows a smaller proportion in favor of the smaller cities.

One of the most significant decreases in child labor was in mines and quarries, in which category are included oil, gas and salt wells. From a total of 18,090 in 1910 the total dropped to 7,191 in 1920. Curiously enough, however, the number of girls in this category rose from 71 in 1910 to 146 in 1920, the increase being largely accounted for by an increase of 70 working in coal mines.

The encouraging decreases in child labor figures Dr. Edwards attributed in part to increased legal restrictions, more stringent compulsory school attendance laws and the better enforcement of these classes of laws.

"It is probable, also," he wrote, "that the greater popular disapproval of child labor decreased the tendency of employ children."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 30 — America, so often the land of hope to the foreign-born, has spelled nothing but tragedy in capital letters to Mrs. Tony Dinello, of sunny Italy.

In a rickety shack, on the banks of the muddy Missouri River, this little dark-eyed, black-haired immigrant girl of yesteryear is grieving her heart out—torn by the knowledge that her husband, her Tony, is a self-confessed murderer and that the victims of this mad act were their own two daughters teen, and Florence, two years her junior, and "just as cute as could be." Her husband, in a fit of anger, clubbed them with a hammer and threw their bodies into the water.

And, as if this were not enough tragedy, the broken-hearted mother is more worried than ever about Julia, twenty, her oldest daughter—Julia, who disappeared mysteriously three years ago The mother, who had been living in hopes that she would some day see Julia, now fears that she, too, is dead. The police have suggested that maybe the father also killed Julia, but—"No, no, no it can't be so!" the mother cries, hoping almost against hope that what she hopes is true.

"All the time I have trouble!" the little mother said. "I wish—oh, how I wish for Italy!"

Mrs. Dinello's mother, in Italy, made her marry Tony Dinello when she was fifteen years old, she said.

"And I have had trouble ever since!" she moaned, beating her breast and her head. Aand her motions did not seem melodramatic.

Britain Is to Pay Debt to U.S. in Full, Says McKenna

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Definite postponement of any payment of the debts owed the United States by European nations, with the exception of England, until the actual amount which such nations could ultimately pay, has been determined by conferences between the creditor and the debtors, was suggested by the Right Honorable Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the British exchequer, in an address before the American Bankers' Association convention here today.

McKenna also gave as his opinion that Germany might be able to pay as reparations in the immediate future about one billion dollars derived from her foreign balances and the sale of foreign securities, such a payment only being possible if all other demands are postponed for a definite period to stabilize the mark. Future demands at the expiration of that period, he said, must be limited to the annual amount of Germany's exportable surplus at that time.

ENGLAND HAS CAPACITY.

The speaker, who is chairman of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Limited, said to be the largest bank in Great Britain, gave his views on the economic aspects of reparations and international debts, how they are payable, the general capacity of a debtor to pay and the effect of payment.

While he stated he was not in politics and did not appear in any representative character, as a British banker he argued that England has the capacity to pay her debt to the United States and, he continued, "I can unhesitatingly assert her determination to honor her bond in full."

The question to be investigated in connection with the German reparations, he said, is not Germany's capacity to produce wealth, but her capacity to pay foreign debts.

POWER OF GERMANY.

"Nobody has ever doubted Germany's immense power to produce," he continued, "but production by itself is not enough. She must find a market for her exports.*We must remember that an increase in her exports will only find funds for reparations if there is no corresponding increase in imports."

Germany has no present capacity to obtain a surplus from the export of goods, he urged. McKenna also said he failed to see how additional taxation can increase Germany's foreign trade and provide a large exportable surplus.

CHURCH TRIAL TERMINATED BY KU KLUX KLAN

FORT SCOTT, Kans., Oct. 4. While the trial of two prominent church women was being held in the First Methodist church here today, 27 hooded and masked men, alleged to have been members of the Ku Klux Klan, filed into the church and each man laid a coin on the presiding officer's table. While entering the church, the men repeated these words:

"In the name of justice."

They left the church immediately and boarded automobiles.

The two women on trial were accused of imprudent conduct and of inveighing against the minister and members of the church. The trial was indefinitely postponed after the incident.

200,000 Will Be Invited to State

Some 200 000 persons residing in the east will receive invitations to come to California, on "Invitation Day," which has been set for October 11. The day has been set by a proclamation issued by Governor Stephens, and all Californians have been requested to send a message of greeting to their friends in other states.

The Oakland Chamber of Commerce, cooperating with the plan, has ordered 10,000 maps of the state from California Association of Commercial secretaries, and these are at the office for call by persons desiring to send them to the east.

Burglar Suspect Taken As Shots Fly

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—A dozen shots and a long chase by two policemen resulted in the arrest of an alleged burglar early today after the residence of Henry Messerschmidt of 412 Bartlett street had been broken into. Messerschmidt, an official of the Federal Telephone company, heard burglars at work in his basement and summoned Patrolman James Muldoon and special officer Fred Hughes. They went to the rear of the house and surprised the two burglars leaving by way of Orange alley. The men separated and fled in opposite directions, with the officers in pursuit. Finally William Godfrey was captured and charged with burglary. The police say that they recovered one ten gallon keg of liquor and two bottles of liquor which had been stolen from the premsies.

COOKING CAUSES SUIT.

Because she could not cook "French style," her husband continually abused her, according to Carolyn Delcau, 2306 Alameda avenue, Alameda, who was granted a divorce today from Edwin J. Delcau. She also testified that she had been forced to cause her husband's arrest on charges of failure to provide for a minor child. The couple were married in July, 1920, and separated in August, 1921.

GYMNASIUM CLASS FOR OLDER WOMEN

"Mrs. Dawson, you should join our women's gymnasium class. Really we do have the most fun. We do gym work from 8 till 9 o'clock and then we swim for half an hour. I declare, it makes me ten years younger."

"Oh, I know I would like it. Mrs. Jones says she never could imagine physical work would really rest her so after a day of housework."

"Well, I couldn't, either, till I tried it. But the fun of doing it with the class seems to rest me somehow. I enjoy the gymnasium night more than anything I do. You really should join."

"Well, maybe I will later in the year. But I'll tell you frankly that I am saving everything toward a new dress. And by the time I bought a gymnasium suit, shoes and bathing suit and paid my fee it would cut quite a hole in my suit money."

"Oh, come now. It's a shame for you to miss out when all your neighbors and friends are there. And if you buy your dress at Cherry's you can have six months to pay. I have bought all my clothes there for years and you've no idea how easy it is to pay for clothes when you have a comparatively small sum to pay every month. And they have some of the very newest styles in, too.

print an ordinance forbidding any builder in the single family residence zone to construct a house which takes up more than 50 per cent of the ground space. It is the theory that this will insure houses with gardens and lawns.

POWER FOR INSPECTOR.

Colbourn also brought in a complaint that the market inspector has few powers to enforce the food ordinances around Sixth and Washington, as an old ordinance exempts this district from the usual action of the statutes. An ordinance repealing the "special privilege" section was passed to print.

The mayor caused the passage to print of an ordinance which forbids all banners hanging across a thoroughfare In the past the past the mayor has had the power to grant this privilege, and it was granted recently during the "Save the Redwoods" campaign In consequence, it is said that every candidate and backer of a political protest has asked the same privilege. The new ordinance bans them all

The council announced its intention to acquire property to extend Eighty-ninth avenue, and received from the Park Board a request that land be transferred to the street department so that an acute angle at Lake Shore and Lake Park avenues can be cut off. The matter was referred to the city planning commission

FOR CITY OF HOMES.

The bungalow court letter of Colbourn, in which he asserts that Oakland must be primarily a city of homes ,is as follows:

"No man should be permitted to so selfishly improve his property as to necessarily decrease and diminish the value of his neighbors' land and to interfere with its peaceable and legitimate enjoyment. Neither should he be allowed to erect upon his land any building which must necessarily be a nuisance, both public and private, and which increases the fire hazard to both himself and his neighbors A man, to make an unnatural profit out of a small piece of land, should not be permitted by the public authorities to use that type of development which gives him an unreasonable profit and which robs his neighbor and which also increases governmental cost.

"The city must insist that the development in the residential districts must be conducive to true home life and take into consideration the rights of children to have space for playing in a yard surrounding a home and not be forced to play in the public streets. If the city does not curb this greedy development of property it must prepare itself to combat the tenement house evil, to increase its expenditures for police and fire protection and to acquire additional recreation parks in which children shall have the right to play, which is denied them in their home, without danger to life and limb."

ALAMEDA COUNCIL GIVES PERMIT TO BUILD APARTMENT

Two-Year Battle Ends in Concession for $100.000 Structure.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 4.—After withholding its permission two years for the erection of apartment houses in one-family residence districts throughout the city, the council at its regular meeting last night went on record as favoring the construction of a $100,000 structure at the corner of Grand street and Central avenue

The action of the council followed a prolonged controversy which had waged for many months over the encroachment of the many family dwellings in the city. Residents adjacent to sites of proposed apartment houses at each council meeting protested against the permission for erection of the structure. As a result the council was forced to turn down every proposition.

At a meeting of the council, September 13, permission to erect a modern apartment house at the corner of Grand street and Central avenue was withheld upon objections of property holders in the neighborhood.

OPINION DIVIDED.

Various organizations in the city took the matter up at this point and decided refusal to permit erection of apartment houses in the city was retarding its growth and progress. A citizens' committee was formed and the matter given considerable attention Several conference were held. As result of this concentrated action the council, when the matter came before it, moved that full plans and specifications for the apartment house be presented to the council at its next meeting with the understanding that the project would be settled.

Mayor Frank Otis was the only member of the council who refused to change his former opinion. He declared he felt the encroachment of an apartment house in that exclusive neighborhood was a mistake and would do nothing to enhance values of the adjacent neighborhood.

Application was made for the erection of a Jewish synagogue at the corner of Oak street and Central avenue. The edifice, according to plans, will cost $8000. The council informed the applicants that it would be necessary to change the district from a one-family district to a church district, but it was the opinion of the council after the change had been made permission to erect the structure would be forthcoming.

PARKING BANNED.

An ordinance was adopted making it unlawful for anyone to leave an automobile or vehicle standing in a public street overnight.

W. J. Locke, city attorney, was instructed to notify the Board of Education that he would act as its council at all future times if occasion should arise regarding law suits involvng cases of children who had sustained injuries on school

First reading was given an ordinance controlling set-back lines on certain stretches of Fernside boulevard, High street and Thompson street.

In order to keep in constant touch with the water situation, C. E. Hickok, city manager, was instructed to accompany a party of San Francisco engineers to the Hetch-Hetchy project some time next week.

Perry Opposed to Water and Power Act

Attorney H. D. Perry spoke against the Water and Power Act before the Oakland Scots yesterday noon at their weekly luncheon.

"The people of the state of California," Perry declared, "will not be protected by the adoption of this act, in fact it will increase taxes to almost six times greater than they are now. It will give a commission of five men appointed by the governor, over which the people will not have any control, full power to issue bonds to the sum of $500,000,000 or more, which bonds will have to be paid for by the people, including the interest.

"We have enough commissions in existence today and it is about time to call a halt. Our present form of government is costing the people of this state enough now, and we do not desire to increase that cost by the increase of commissions."

Existence of ELECTRICAL and 'Pelican' Is Threatened: Case Heard Tonight.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4. — Whether the English Club and its two magazines, the "Occident" and "Pelican," remain an official part of the student life of the University of California will be decided tonight at a meeting of the executive committee of the Associated Students.

An ultimatum of the students' executive committee that the English Club place its activities under student control instead of working as a separate body was presented to the club last night, bearing the official approval of President David P. Barrows.

The club refused to accept the ultimatum, offering a "compromise" to the student officials. Resenting charges that "Pelican" has become "immoral" and that the "Occident," campus literary magazine, is not "properly" conducted, the English Club heads declared that they were willing to become an official part of student life provided that the question of [illegible] of the club and its magazines be left entirely in their hands and that money derived from publications and activities be placed in a "special" fund for their use.

President Earl Steel of the Associated Students and other members of the executive committee are firm in their stand that activities of students must be under student control and that the student body have jurisdiction over all campus activities. Members of the English Club, on the other hand, declare that too strict "censorship" of the "Occident" and "Pelican" would mean financial ruin for the publications and would 'deteriorate" the two papers. Unless the compromise plan as suggested by them is effected, the English Club will remove its activities from the campus, its leaders declare.

President Barrows, in sanctioning the stand of the executive committee of the student body, declares that student government cannot work successfully unless all branches of activity on the campus are under one jurisdiction. Should the students' executive committee fail to accept the compromise offered by the English Club, the sale of the "Pelican" and "Occident" will not be allowed on the campus in the future.

In the meantime, while the controversy is raging back and forth in college circles, the October issue of the "Pelican" made its appearance on the campus today under the editorship of Robert Ingram, taking its usual fling at college traditions.

LOW BABY DEATH RATE LOOKS SAFE FOR OLD ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct 4.—Only a little while ago alarmists were indulging in all sorts of dire predictions concerning the future of England because, it was alleged, not enough babies were being born. The great middle class, called the backbone of the country, was declared by some pessimists to be doomed to speedy extinction unless it produced more babies.

Now these lamentations have ceased. Some far-seeing and logical statistician points out that the future of a country is not determined so much by the number of babies born as by the number of babies which survive the first year of life and grow up. Looked at from that angle, England is not doing so badly in this all-important matter.

During the month of August the death rate of children under one year of age was only 41 per 1,000 births. In 1919 London's rate for the same period was 55. Compared with the beginning of this century, the baby-saving figures give still greater cause for rejoicing among those who reckon the future of England depends, above all things, on babies. The first four weeks of August, 1901, gave an infant mortality rate for London of 267, more than six times that of 1922, which proves, it is argued, that if babies can save England, England will be saved.

Beauty Hint for Women

For clear skin and bright eyes

Take

When food is only imperfectly digested, it gives rise to fermentation, clogs the bowels, and renders the blood impure. This results in dull eyes, muddy skin, blotches, pimples and other disfiguring marks. Beecham's Pills act immediately on the stomach, liver and bowels; regulate them and keep them in a vigorous condition. They are mild, harmless and dependable. They are compounded of remedies of vegetable origin having great medicinal value.

ANSWERED PRAYER
Sept. 8, 1922.

M. FREITAS.

My 5-year-old son, Mulvin Freitas, suffered with violent palpitation and leakage of the heart. It was difficult for him to either breathe or sleep, and he was unable to run or play. Since last October (1921) I have taken him to three different doctors, none of whom were able to help him in the least. One night my husband and both prayed earnestly to God to direct us to a good doctor. The next morning we happened to pick up an old piece of newspaper in which we read that the FONG WAN SPECIALIST had effected a remarkable cure in a case of heart trouble. It seemed to be an answer to our prayer and we lost no time in seeing him. The very first package of herbs gave promise of help. Now, after having taken five weeks of treatment, Mulvin breathes without difficulty, sleeps well, and runs and plays as the other boys do.

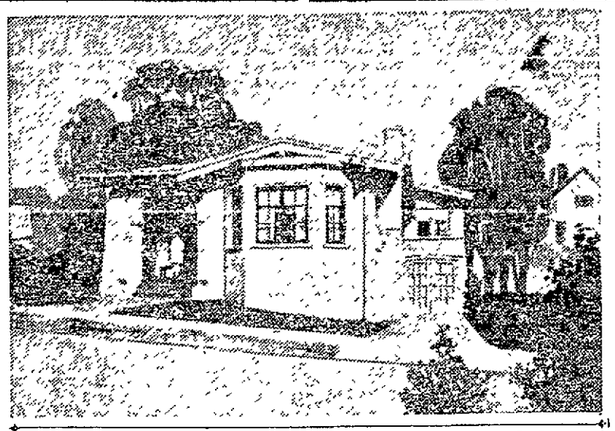
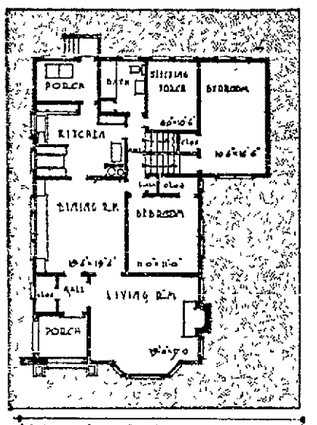
DISTINCTIVE HOMES--No. 32

The Problem of the Garage Solved for the Bungalow

Printed by courtesy of The Home Designer Magazine (of Oakland), which is prepared to furnish prints and specifications to readers of The OAKLAND TRIBUNE at a special and very reasonable figure.



The garage has been built at one side of the house, with a bedroom above, raised above the main floor.



Planned with 5 rooms, sleeping porch and breakfast room. Stairs from inside the house reach the garage.

(By the Oakland Real Estate Board)

This method of building garages is becoming very popular, and deserves consideration when you come to plan your home. On sloping land the garage can be built under the house without any great expense, the proper height being secured without raising the floor.

In an age when almost every family owns an automobile which must be housed at home, the type of bungalow here shown and similar plans, have become very popular and are proving very satisfactory. The floor plan arrangement is convenient and compact, the structure presents an attractive appearance and buildings of this character are being arranged at a comparatively small cost. Its appearance is such that it will harmonize with almost any surroundings and it is rapidly adaptable on sloping lots with which the residence areas of this community are bound. It is adaptable to building sites in inexpensive districts and a home of this type is well within the reach of the wage-earner family. Suitable lots for a home will be found and assistance given in the planning and construction of the house by any Realtor in Oakland.

JAILED GRINGOES STILL IN JUAREZ

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 4.—Three Americans held at Juarez, Mex., following an alleged attempt to smuggle a California criminal across the international boundary, were expected to be allowed to make bond today. Mobs that surrounded the jail in which the men—Chief of Detectives Claude Smith of El Paso; Sam Dreben, "soldier of fortune," and C. C. Harvey, chauffeur—were held, dispersed last night and there was no indication today that mob violence would be directed against the men, charged with attempt to kidnap "Arizona Phil" Alquin, wanted in Los Angeles for the murder of a detective sergeant.

First reports yesterday were that only two Americans were held by the Juarez officials but it became known late last night that Harvey also was under arrest.

RABBI PRASES WORK OF STRAUS

"If America had such a man as Oscar S. Straus, that great American-born Jew, who twenty-five years ago, when he was United States ambassado. to Constantinople, prevented a great conflict in Armenia single-handed, when the Mohammedans and Christians were at each others throats, at Constantinople today, preaching God's law of peace and good will, the whole world would not be trembling with fear at the thought of another world conflict," declared Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee, speaking at the special services in observance of Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, at the Temple Sinai Monday. Thus, the holiest of the Jewish holidays, was observed with special services which began on that day at 9:30 a. m. and continued until sundown.

Rabbi Coffee spoke on "Israel—God's Messenger." In his talk he pointed out that though the Jewish race was the greatest teacher of religion in the world, the race had never reached the highest pinnacle of success in any other line of endeavor since the days of the Bible

"Israel's mission," declared Rabbi Coffee, "has been to teach religion to the whole world. Our mission is to make the whole world realize that God is one and that we must obey his divine laws.

"While the Jew has succeeded in every phere of labor in which he has entered, outside of religion he has never reached the highest goal. Since the days of the Bible there has never been a Jewish general to equal Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, George Washington or Napoleon Bonaparte.

"While we have great Jewish musicians, the world's greatest musicians have not been Jews. The world's greatest poets have not been Jews. The world's richest men are not Jews. I can name twelve New York families, beginning with the Astors and Vanderbilts, with more wealth than that of all the three million Jews in the United States."

GIRLS INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM AUTO

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Muriel Clark, 20 years old, and her sister, Helen, 18, of 1282 Green street, were badly bruised when thrown from an automobile following a ride with two men early today.

The young women were invited to go motoring and left home in the early evening. They visited several places of amusement and were on their way home when they claim they were insulted by their companions. There was a quarrel and both girls were thrown from the car at Webster and Chestnut streets. Helen Clark suffered a broken nose and numerous cuts and bruises and her sister was badly cut and shaken up. Both young women were taken to the Central Emergency hospital.

RUSSIA TO AID IN OWN RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (United Press).—The government has an official time-keeper, Master Sergeant A. F. Springer, of the corps of engineers.

He is a time-keeper literally, his official duty being the care of the various and manifold clocks in the government departments here. He also watches over the clocks at the White House.

This is the sole duty of Sergeant Springer—keeping the government clocks in order—but it keeps him busy from morning until night. It fact he has already made application for an assistant.

The sergeant has been handling government clocks for 15 years. He was for six years overiord of the clocks at Leavenworth Federal Prison, where time is said to move slowly. He also watched government clocks for several years in the Philippines, and was official keeper of all the time-pices at the San Francisco Exposition. His service with the engineers extends over a period of 28 years. He has campaigned in the Philippines, in Cuba in Hawaii. He was one of the first men to volunteer to fight the yellow fever plague in Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

MELBOURNE—The Australian Federal and State Governments have appropriated $2,500,000 for work on national highway to relieve the unemployment situation.

Man Arraigned For Failure to Provide

Edward Bernedon, today was arraigned before Police Judge Mortimer Smith on a charge of failing to provide for his seven children. The preliminary examination was sett for October 9. He was arrested on the complaint of his wife, who lives at 643 Camelia street.

According to the police record, he was placed on probation for two years on a similar charge by former Superior Judge W. H. Donahue, in 1913. At that time he appeared before Judge Smith for his preliminary examination.

VAST IRRIGATION PROJECT FILED AT $30,000,000

Application for Formation of Kings River District Affects Million Acres.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—An application for the formation of the Kings river water storage district, a $30,000,000 project to irrigate more than 1,000,000 acres of land, has been filed with the state department of public works, it was announced today by T. T. C. Gregory, one of the organizers of the district.

The plans call for the construction of a dam at Pine Flat, in the Sierra Nevada mountains, to store 600,000 acre feet, and for a power plant of 90,000 kilowatts capacity to furnish energy for pumping plants throughout the district, which are expected to provide 400,000 additional acre feet of water.

The district will embrace some fifteen separate irrigation, reclamation and privately served districts which at present enjoy the normal flow of the Kings river, and which propose to create the strage district to conserve the waters now running to waste.

Among these are the following irrigation districts: Fresno, 242,000 acres; Consolidated, 150,000 acres; Alta, 130,000 acres; Laguna, 37,000 acres; Riverdale, 16,000 acres; James, 26,000 acres; Tranquility, 10,000 acres; Corcoran, 45,000 acres; Murphy's Slough, 18,000 acres; and Lake lands, 30,000 acres. Besides these there are the Lemoore Canal and irrigation Company, 52,000 acres; People's Ditch Company, 70,000 acres; Tulare lake reclamation districts, 35,000 acres; Crescent Canal Company, 14,000 acres; Stetson Canal Company, 15,000 acres.

The Kings river supplies water for much of the irrigation in Fresno, Kings and Tulare counties, and the engineers in harge of the project believe the formation of the storage district will double the irrigation efficiency of the stream.

Engineering investigations have been conducted by a board of engineers comprising J. B. Lippincott, Quentin, Code & Hill of Los Angeles, A. D. Schindler of San Francisco and George L. Swenson and W. H. Shafer of Fresno. The board has had the cooperation of Major H. A. Kleugel, chief of the division of water rights, and of W. P. Boone of the state department of public works, and of the water users on the river, represented by M. F. Tarpey, A. G. Wishon, L. A. Nares, E. E. Giffen, J. C. McIntyre, H. J. McKenzie and W. W. Sheahan.

The organization work was carried on under the direction of T. T. C. Gregory, E. T. Houghton and Max Thelen of San Francisco, Senator M. B. Harris of Fresno and others.

LIVERMORE'S TAX SCHEDULE SET AT $1.62 FOR YEAR

Unexpected Increase in Cost of New Jail Makes Old Rate Necessary.

LIVERMORE, Oct. 4.—The Livermore town trustees have set the Livermore tax rate for next year at $1.62. This rate is the same as last year. It was thought that the rate would be lowered, but, because of an unexpected increase in the cost of the new town jail, it will remain the same. The rate is divided as follows: General, .92; library, .14; 1908 bond fund, .18; 1910 bond fund, .04; 1915 bond fund, .28; 1920 bond fund, .11.

At the suggestion of the grammar school trustees the board decided to close Sixth street, between I and J, during the hours of 10 to 3, until January 1. The street is directly back of the grammar school and will be used as a playground until the debris on the school grounds, resulting from the construction of the new school building, is cleared away.

H. R. Crane, town treasurer, was allowed a sixty day leave of absence. He will leave tomorrow on a trip through New England.

A sewer main extension was ordered constructed on McCloud street between Third and Fourth streets. The work will be done under the supervision of Engineer L. E. Wright.

The board adjourned until Monday, October 23.

Navy Yard Man Told to Maintain Wife

FAIRFIELD, Oct. 4.—The court has ordered John J. King of Mare Island to pay his wife, Myrtice King of Vallejo, $40 a month for her maintenance until their matrimonial differences have been adjusted by the court.

Mrs. King, in pressing her suit for separate maintenance, told the court that several months ago she had married King in Alabama, but a few days afterwards her husband joined the navy and left for the west coast. Upon receiving a letter from him that he did not care for her and that they had made a mistake, she left for San Francisco to join her husband and to endeavor to regain his affections. Mrs. King said she wired him to meet her at the Ferry building, but that he refused.

In reply to the court as to the trouble between them King said he married the woman under her persuasion and found that they were not suitably mated.

Counsel for Mrs. King presented a letter from a young woman in Berkeley, which showed that the husband had sent money to her. King denied this.

Activity Of Women Grows Wider

The "modern girl," with her individual initiative and her economic independence, was today officially recognized by the Oakland Y. W. C. A. as the coming, if not the actually arrived, "type."

The conviction that women and girls will continue flocking into the professions and industries to the point where they will be almost as numerous there as men, has led local officers of the association to consider plans for meeting a situation that was undreamed-of at the time the organization was founded sixty-odd years ago, it was announced today.

Oakland, with its rapid industrial growth, and its near-future of metropolitan possibilities, has already become one of the hottest sectors on the firing line in the war between the old and the new ideas concerning the "place" of women, according to local association leaders. And the battle here, as elsewhere, they say, is steadily going to the "new" as against the "old."

"There are some of us who favor the new idea, and others who deplore it," said Mrs. Newton A. Koser, newly chosen acting-president of the Oakland branch, today.

"The result is that the Y. W. C. A., organized sixty-odd years ago to provide proper home influences for the occasional girl or young woman who had ventured out into the active world, now recognizes that it is faced with the responsibility of considering not the few exceptions, but the great majority of young women.

"This has meant a broadening of the scope of the institution that was never contemplated at the time of its founding, not for many years afterward."

The Y. W. C. A. now finds itself in the main current of business and world activity, as the result of its policy of following young American womanhood wherever she may go, according to Miss Alice Brookman, general secretary of the local association.

"It is now a big business institution," Miss Brookman said, "with the bulk of its activities—70 per cent of them, in fact, wholly self-supporting. It is growing bigger all the time, as the result of the rapid spread of the desire on the part of young women to be economically independent. This means that more and more of them are away from their homes part or all of the time, and consequently in need of living and recreational facilities that supply the proper homelike background for them.

"This enormous and ever-growing increase in the size of what may be called the association's 'clientele,' has resulted in the association's entering business on its own account on a large scale. With the cutting through of Fifteenth street from Franklin to Webster, we will find ourselves occupying a choice downtown corner location. We are going to take advantage of this situation by renting, for store purposes, the entire south, or Fifteenth street, side of our building, and using the income to meet the growing demands upon our services."

Among the functions of the association that are most in demand, according to Miss Brookman, are the boarding home for girls and young women at 1944 Franklin street, the hotel in the main association building on Webster street, the cafeteria for both men and women in the same building, and the meeting place provided in the inner court of the main structure for girls and young men.

'B. V. D.' Offered For Compromise Sub-station Name

DIXON, Oct. 4.—Rivalry between Dixon and Vacaville over the naming of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's sub-station near here resulted in the company changing the name from Vaca to Vaca-Dixon. Now it is suggested that Batavia also be given a place in the name, this suggestion having emanated from Secretary A. S. Dudley of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce at the opening of the plant last Saturday. Additional suggestions have since been made that if the name is again changed out of deference to Batavia it should be called B. V. D. for convenience. The plant is about four miles from Vacaville and four miles from Dixon. Batavia is a nearby station on the Southern Pacific.

SHERIFF VEALE'S FRIENDS RALLY

MARTINEZ, Oct. 4.—As the date for the general election approaches friends of Sheriff R. R. Veale in every section of Contra Costa county are rallying to his support, according to his campaign committee. Word reaching here from various parts of the county is to the effect that he will be re-elected to office by a majority of from 2000 to 3000.

Sheriff Veale on the first of next January will round out 28 years of continuous service as sheriff of Contra Costa county and his record as an able officer is known from one end of the Pacific Coast to another.

Reports have been received of stories of various kinds that are being circulated in different sections, one of which is to the effect that should Sheriff Veale be re-elected to office this year he would receive a life pension.

The story, his committee announce, is entirely unfounded and without the slightest element of truth, as is indicated in a statement issued by District Attorney A. B. Tinning, in which he says that pensions are not paid by the state or county governments and such a law would be unconstitutional.

"Junior Red Cross Members from Other Lands" is the line used to describe the exhibit of paintings now on display at the auditorium of Lakeview school to which the children of the city are invited, through Mrs. Sue L. Fratis, director of patriotic activities in the schools.

"Oakland school children played an active and earnest part in the Junior Red Cross work during the war, and in the fellowship work that has been carried on since then for the children of foreign countries," says Mrs. Fratis. This exhibition of paintings gives them a chance to see actual portraits, not only of the kinds of children they have been helping, but also of the conditions under which these children live and work and play. Knowledge of the lives and interests of each other is a great peacemaker between the children of different countries."

Anna Milo Upjohn is the artist whose portrayal of these other-land children so much interests local school children. Miss Upjohn was a member of the department of civilian relief of the American Red Cross in 1918, and was later commissioned by that organization to visit the European countries where the Junior American Red Cross is at work, to paint and draw the types of children who are the beneficiaries of this service from American children.

The paintings recently have been on exhibition at the State Fair at Sacramento and will go east at the end of this week, when the exhibit closes at Lakeview school

A few of the titles of the paintings are "Albanian Girl with Water Jar," "Serbian Boy Fruit Vendor," "Young Czech Storyteller," "Carpathian Shepherdess," "Going to School in Brittany," "Czecho-Slovakian Girls Dressing for a Festival," "Sicilian Girls and Their Flock," and "The Spanish Fisher Boy."

ANTIOCH BRIDGE PLAN APPROVED BY SUPERVISORS

The Alameda county board of supervisors, by resolution, is on record today as endorsing the projected construction of a bridge near Antioch to connect the state highways leading from the bay cities on the west and from Sacramento and Stockton on the east. The resolution follows:

Whereas, the highways of the state of California have proved an invaluable aid in the development of this state's agricultural areas by providing avenues and minimizing the difficulties of communication between various rural communities, as well as assisting in bringing the productive areas of our state closer to consuming and shipping points, and

Whereas, that section lying to the south of Sacramento, known as the Sacramento-San Joaquin river delta, is isolated and deprived of easy means of egress and ingress because of the natural barrier provided by the combined waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, and

Whereas, for the normal rapid development of the interior of Northern California, as well as that particular section known as the Sacramento-San Joaquin river delta, it is necessary that easier avenues of land travel and communication with the bay cities be provided by the construction of a bridge across the present barrier of water dividing the already completed state highways leading from the bay cities on the west and from acramento and Stockton on the east to Antioch, Contra Costa county, therefore,

Be it resolved, that the board of superivors of the county of Alameda, goes on record as favoring and strongly recommending the construction of a bridge in the vicinity of Antioch, Contra Costa county, at a place to be determined by state highway commission engineers and that this constructive piece of work be included in that named commission's 1923 building program.

The Native Sons of the Golden West are active in the Mount Diablo state park movement and many other organizations in different parts of the state have joined in the effort to obtain this mountain park as a playground for the people.

SAN JOSE SETS NEW RECORD IN STREET PAVING

SAN JOSE, Oct. 4.—The 27 miles of paved streets in San Jose on January 1, 1922, have been increased by ten miles since that date and will, within a few months, be practically doubled, according to a statement from the office of City Manager Goodwin today.

All records have been broken by the amount of street building contracted for since the first of the year. At the present time three paving companies are working full crews reconstructing San Jose thoroughfares.

These companies are the San Jose Paving Company, headed by Irving L. Ryder, former county engineer; the H. C. Crummy Company, which has contracts for 673,000 square feet, and the A. J. Raisch Improvement Company, which is now interested in improving about eight miles of road, with a contract price of $500,000.

Fourteenth, Twelfth, Seventeenth, St. James, Orchard and River streets are among the thoroughfares upon which work is being intensively done.

The thing about the situation of which Goodwin is proud is the fact that for practically all this work the initial move has been made by the property owners and not by the city council It has not been necessary to force the improvements, the people being willing and anxious to hold up their share.

JUDGE REBUKES DEFENDANT FOR DELAYING COURT

Self-Appointed Attorney in Syndicalist Trial Tries to Argue Conduct.

Clashes between Superior Judge George Samuels and James H. Dolson, one of the five defendants on trial for violation of the criminal syndicalism law, marked the opening of the court hearings today. Judge Samuels took occasion to threaten to take over the examination of the jurors in the case, which the defendants are conducting themselves, having refused to employ legal counsel.

The first outbreak came while Dolson was examining Mrs. Edith Neal, wife of a marine engineer, as to her qualifications to sit as a juror. He asked her if she or her husband was connected with the Boy Scouts, Better American Federation, National Guard or other military organization.

In sustaining an objection on the part of Deputy District Attorneys Wade Snook and Donald McClure, who are prosecuting the case, Judge Samuels said, "I am not going to permit these defendants to waste the time of this court. If this continues I will take over the examination of the jurors myself."

Dolson sprang to his feet and started to address the court. He was ordered to sit down, but demanded the right to be heard, saying, "It is proper at any time to address the judge in a case."

The court again ordered him to sit down, whereupon Dolson demanded that the remarks of the judge be included in the record. On being informed that they already were in the record Dolson sat down and continued his examination.

PIANO PURCHASE QUESTION UPSETS BERKELEY BOARD

Music Supervisor, Indignant at Hint Receiving Money, Offers to Resign.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4.—Music may have its charms, but it failed to harmonize the members of the Berkeley board of education and Miss Victorine Hartley, supervisor of music in the college city schools, yesterday afternoon.

The purchase of ten pianos for school uses formed the discordant note in the board meeting. Director Lester Hink, as chairman of a special committee acting with Miss Hartley and music teachers in the schools, recommended a certain make of piano at $275 for each instrument.

Director Carl Bartlett refused to sanction the report. He declared that Miss Hartley and her associates had gone on record for the piano recommended long before bids were asked for the purchase of the musical instruments, and he characterized the report of Hink and the teachers' committee as a "farce."

WOMEN INDIGNANT.

Miss Hartley, for 16 years music supervisor in the Berkeley schools was indignant. She demanded an investigation of charges which, she said, had been made against her honesty in selecting the piano chosen by her and said that she was willing to tender her resignation should these charges be substantiated.

"I have been accused of accepting pay for recommending this certain make of piano," she read from a long communication which she asked be made an official part of the board's records. "I am ready to resign should this be proved. I demand an investigation."

Members of the board attempted to reassure Miss Hartley and attributed the accusation to an "over-zealous" salesman for a rival make of piano.

Nevertheless I demand an investigation," insisted the music supervisor.

"We'll do our best," responded President William B. Herms, "although we have nothing tangible to work on."

Director Bartlett refused to second Hink's motion that the pianos recommended by Miss Hartley and her associates be purchased. He declared that the piano selected was $30 higher in price than its next competitor. Three makes of pianos were offered the board.

QUESTIONS PRICE.

"There's nothing to show that one piano is not as good as the other," declared Bartlett: "Why should the board go on record for the highest bidder? There was never any contest in this piano argument. Miss Hartley has refused consistently to consider any kind of piano but the one favored by her."

"I know nothing about pianos one is as good as the other for me," chimed in Director Hink. "I am willing to take the recommendation of the committee of music experts."

"That's my stand on the matter," declared President Herms. "Personally I don't know one kind of piano from another."

As there were only three members of the board present no decision was reached. Miss May Wade, teacher of music at the Edison and Garfield schools, supported Miss Hartley's statement. The committee of music teachers whose report was attacked consisted of the following in addition to Miss Hartley and Miss Wade: Misses Etta Ellerhorst, Elizabeth De Lancie, Alpha Bonney, Mabel Wilson, Ivah Smith and Zola Goe.

In the meantime, while the board, is wrestling with the problem, the school department will continue to rent pianos for the ten schools now without musical instruments.

Policeman Not Modern Adonis, Says Professor

Dr. Schneider Says Tight Coats, Stiff, Solid Shoes, Hidden Gun Wrong.

BERKELEY, Oct. 4. — It's all wrong to expect the twentieth century policeman to be a modern Adonis with creased trousers, military trimmings and everything.

The public must change its conception of what an up-to-the-minute officer of the law should look like, says Dr. Albert Schneider, dean of Berkeley's police school.

Dr. Schneider has just left for North Pacific College, where he assumes a place in the faculty, after a summer spent "educating" Berkeley's police officers into the latest methods of scientific criminology. Before he returns to the college city next summer to again conduct similar work he expects to have planned a "model" uniform and appurtenances for the modern police officer.

The present tight military coats, creased trousers and stiff-soled shoes are classified by Dr. Schneider as "all wrong." Uniforms more like those which are worn by Canadian mounted police are favored by him.

"Everybody knows that a policeman carries a gun, why be so careful about concealing it?" asks Dr. Schneider. "Instead of having a bump on an officer where his gun is 'concealed' why not carry it in plain sight? Take the military coat with its high collar and tight fit—is there any comfort and practicability in it? It takes all of an officer's spare time to keep his uniform looking trim."

Dr. Schneider says that modern footgear is not suitable for an officer of the law, the stiff leather soles as at present used hindering rather than aiding the policeman in making time in chasing criminals.

Dr. Schneider was at one time a member of the University of California faculty, and recently has been with the University of Nebraska, where his experiments as to the cause of cancer attracted wide attention.

MODESTO BOARD TO BE REFILLED

MODESTO, Oct. 4 —The entire city council must be elected October 24 instead of only four members, it was learned today. A provision of the city charter that had escaped notice states that appointed members shall hold only until the next election. The result is that L. M. Morris, appointed recently, must be replaced at the election called to choose successors to the mayor and three councilmen who were recently recalled.

Morris, however, is still in office, and stays until the election. He is in the east.

L. A. Love, the city clerk, has appointed a temporary council to fill the vacancies until October 24. He named Sol Elias, clother, mayor; J. M. Bomberger, seadman, M. G. Payne, lumber salesman, and C W. Smith, printer, councilmen. The appointments were made late yesterday.

Thus far no candidates for the offices have announced themselves.

STANFORD DEFIES CONFERENCE ON PITTSBURGH GAME

University Will Cancel Coast Schedule First, Declares Athletics Head.

Stanford University will withdraw from the Pacific Coast Conference rather than cancel the East vs. West football game between Stanford and Pittsburgh on December 30, it was declared today by Dr. W. H. Barrow, director of athletics at Stanford.

This was the answer made by Dr. Barrow to the request made by the Conference on September 30 that the game be cancelled In making the declaration Dr. Barrow branded the movement which brought about the request as a 'thing which may have had its inception, not within the Pacific Coast Conference, but in the south where dreams of a holiday season monopoly are being disturbed."

The row over the proposed west versus east game started last August when Stanford let it be known that its team would not represent the west in a game at Pasadena. At that time Stanford offered the use of its stadium for the game no matter what teams played but the Stanford directors failed to come to terms with the Tournament of Roses.

Dispatches bring the information that U. D. Duback, conference president, has called a conference meeting for Saturday at Portland to consider Stanford's refusal to cancel the game. Duback is quoted as characterizing Stanford's attitude in the matter as a "grave breach of conference rulings."

Dr. Barrow today said he did not know whether he would be able to attend the Saturday conference in the interests of Stanford.

OLD RELIABLE GIANTS LOOK LIKE REPEATERS ACCORDING TO THE DOPE OF JOHNNY McGRAW

GIANTS' GAMENESS TO SEE THEM THROUGH, McGRAW CONTENDS

National League Champions' Morale Is Perfect and the Confidence Gained in Last Series Will Be Shown This Week.

By JOHN J. McGRAW
Manager of the Giants

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—I am pleased to say that the Giants will go into the first game of the world's series in good physical condition and with splendid morale. They are supremely confident in their ability to defeat the Yankees. George Kelly and Casey Stengel have not played since we won the National League pennant owing to minor injuries but they will be on hand today and in the Giants' line-up, provided Manager Huggins does not present a left-handed pitcher. In that case Bill Cunningham will be assigned to centerfield. I see no chance, however, of the Yankees' leader using a southpaw boxman. My players have been practicing daily but I have not called on them to do much but light work. Just enough for them to warm up sufficiently to be fresh and ready to start the series in their proper form.

JOHN McGRAW.

I have had daily talks with the boys. We have laid out tentative plans of battle to face any conditions that may arise but of course they will be changed if any unexpected situations may arise that I consider necessary to make shifts. I am never bound down to any established rules of play. Circumstances alter cases in all affairs of this kind and baseball surely furnishes chances for plenty of alterations during games and especially in world's series I shall watch matters very closely and as I have usually been quick to grasp unexpected situations during my experiences as a manager, I feel confident nothing will escape me in ths strng of important games. I see that the odds n the betng n favor of the Yankees have taken quite a tumole I expected it. In fact I predicted such a shift.

Huggins and Yankees Are All Right, But—

While I as manager fully appreciate the Yankees' prowess and also Manager Huggins as a leader, I also know the strength of my own team and hteir capabilities, in fact I know them like a book I have studied my players individually and collectively. I feel there is no more plucky a punch in baseball today. They have won so many games by coming up from behind this year that their gameness has strongly appealed to me. I have commented them frequently on that most important trait. Therefore I could not grasp the idea that the betting odds should be against them. I should be pleased too if the Yankees were still 8 to 5 favorites as they were quoted to be. I think it would make my players fight all the harder in coming contests. They have made a successful fight for the National league championship this season and they also won the world chamuionship last October. That was an experience that should add to their morale in the series that is to be started today. I shall have no excuses to make if the Giants lose but have no fear of there being any necessity for that. That we shall win is my earnest belief. I do not think we will have a walk-ober. I never thought that in any game my teams have played. That it will be a splendidly played series I have no doubt. May the best team win. I shall doff my hat to and shake the hand of Manager Huggins if the Yankees do the trick. I hope he will perform the same courtesy if the Giants are victorious, and I believe he will.

Sarazen Does Not Claim Easy Victory

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—Gene Sarazen declined last night to predict the result of his 72-hole golf match with Walter Hagen, next Friday and Saturday, but he did take vigorous and violent exception to a statement that the British open champion is the best dressed American golfer.

"I'll spring something at Oakmont Friday that will knock Walter dizzy," said the local youngster, who holds the national open and professional titles.

"More Persian rug sweaters?" Gene was asked.

"Nope—somethin' else," he grinned.

Friends of Sarazen insist that he is more partial to ear-splitting sweaters than any golfer in captivity.

Sarazen who has been practicing in the district for three days, said he felt fit to participate in a golf match, a style snow, or both.

"I went stale after the big matches and when I found that I was off by game I quit for a little while. Guess I'm all right now," said King Gene.

Oaks vs. Vernon

EVERY DAY AT 3 P. M.

ALSO SUNDAY AT 10:30 A. M.

A Battle to the Death

Remarkable picture of two immense deer locked in a death grip. The bodies were discovered in the McCloud River country by Wm. H. Magee, of Oakland, and the heads brought here to be mounted by Gus Nordquist. The monarchs of the forest fell with their horns inter-locked. The combined efforts of four men failed to pull them apart.

They fought until hopelessly locked and then they lay down and died together.

There was no million-dollar "gate" on hand to witness this battle.

WHO'S WHO

ROBERT W. MEUSEL

Outfielder and one of the leading hitters of the New York Yankees. Younger brother of Emil, of the Giants, and possessor of the greatest throwing arm in baseball, comparable with those of Red Murray, Joe Birmingham and other great throwers of the last decade.

Bob has had a brief but sensational career. He played no professional ball until he broke in with Vernon, in the Pacific Coast League, in 1917, playing only four games and those as a first baseman. He appeared twice in the outfield the following season, and in 1919 batted .337 in 163 games as a combination outfielder and third baseman.

He played both positions with the Yankees in 1920, hitting .328 in 119 games and last year shifted to the outfield, hitting .318 in 149 games. Is a free swinger and a long-distance hitter.

Born, San Jose, Calif., July 19, 1898; bats and throws right handed, weight 195 pounds, height 6 feet 2¼ inches.

Robert is a bit temperamental, like some other of the Yankees, often indifferent.

JOSEPH A. DUGAN

Star third baseman of the New York Yankees and known as Jumping Joe because of his habit of turning up missing every now and then when he was with the Athletics.

Joseph was not a howling success at the outset, hitting only 194 in forty-three games in 1917 and .195 in 120 games in 1918 He seemed to be a mark for any good pitcher who could work the corners, for Joe had no eye at all for good and bad balls at that time.

He improved rapidly in 1919, hitting .271, and in 1920 he reached his high-water mark, 322 in 123 games. Until this time he had alternated at second base and shortstop, but in 1921 was shifted to third, his natural position.

Just before the start of the present campaign he was sent to Boston via Washington in a big three-cornered deal, and several months ago followed the beaten path from the Red Sox to the Yanks in a deal that was heartily condemned by all sections of the country outside of New York.

Dugan was born in Mahanoy City, Pa., May 12, 1897, bats and throws right handed, is 5 feet 11 inches in height and weighs 155 pounds.

ARTHUR N. NEHF

Left handed and not such a bad fellow at that. The best pitcher on the Giants' staff and always a winner since he first came up with the Boston Braves in 1915.

Art got his start with Negnunee of the Copper League in 1912, and for two years enjoyed a haphazard existence with Kansas City of the American Association and Sioux City of the Western Association before landing with Terre Haute, his home town, in 1914.

At the end of the following season he was up with the Braves under Stallings, winning five out of nine. In 1916 he won seven out of twelve, in 1917 seventeen out of twenty-five and in 1918 fifteen out of thirty. He was traded to the Giants in the middle of the 1919 season, a matter of $55,000 figuring in the deal, winning seven out of eight starts. He won twenty-one and lost twelve in 1920, and won twenty and lost ten last season.

Nehf is 30 years old, uses his left hand for everything but eating and signing checks, weighs 170 pounds and is 5 fect 8 inches in height.

HUGH A. McQUILLEN

Right-hand pitcher of the New York Giants secured from the Boston Braves in a trade that created some little unfavorable comment. It came at a time when the Giants were in dire need of pitchers, just before the major league time limit on trades went into effect.

He is regarded as a first-class pitcher in spite of the fact that his record to date has been far from impressive McQuillen broke into baseball with Toronto in 1916.

In 1918 he was bought by the Braves, and in 1919 won two out of five, in 1920 eleven out of twenty-six, and in 1921 thirteen out of thirty. He never allowed more than four earned runs per game in any season, however, with the exception of his first.

McQuillen, like Frisch, is a native New Yorker, having been born there September 15, 1897. He bats and throws right handed, weighs 170 pounds and is six feet in height.

Hartranft Is Candidate for Football Berth

Shot-Putter Is Convalescing After Sickness and Will Don Uniform.

By TOM IRWIN.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 4.—Glenn Hartranft, intercollegiate champion of the shot and discus, touted all summer as material for an end on the Cardinal eleven, arrived on the campus yesterday and will report to Andy Kerr for a workout this afternoon. There seems to be some foundation to the current rumor that if Hartranft returned to college this fall he would not be a gridiron candidate. He is pale, thin and much lighter than last spring. In fact, because of sickness and hard work he has dropped from over 210 pounds to less than 190. He will, of course, gain a little weight in a few days but at present he looks very little like a football man.

Owing to the fact that the Card line is stronger than it has been in years, judging by early season indications, Hartranft may not be used in that department. It has occurred to a few observers of the game, apparently for the first time, that a man of Hartranft's build and speed would make a wonderful back. The big track champion has never had any experience back of the line, but before the season is over, he should be able to pick up enough knowledge of his position to give even Joe Douglass a fight for the plunging work. A man who can heave weights as Hartranft can and at the same time run the hundred in ten flat against Eddie Sudden, ought to be able to make the majority of backfield candidates take a back seat if he can learn his position.

EIGHT END CANDIDATES.

There are eight candidates for the ends on the Card team now, but they can always make room for one more if he looks better than any of the present men Perhaps, since Jim Lawson seems due for a long time in the leg-splints, Hartranft will be added to that list of varsity tryoutees Competition for the other positions is too heavy for a man of Hartranft's disposition. Although he has always played either a guard or a tackle, both in high school and for Stanford, he has seemed to lack the necessary punch in the charge. And whether or not he can make another position on Kerr's eleven depends on the way he goes at it. He's too kind-hearted. He has even been known to say "that he didn't want to hurt anybody." If a football player wants to pick himself out a position on a first-class team, he has to forget the feelings of both his competitors and the opposing players. He may rest assured that nobody is going to put a mattress under him during scrimmages.

WHEAT TRIED AT HALF.

Gil Wheat, rival to Scotchy Campbell for the quarterback job, was tried out at half last night and looked even better than he did in last Saturday's scrimmage at quarter. He has developed a few dodging tricks that take him a long way through a broken field. He is too light for steady line plunging, but he is a rival to Rae Doughty on end runs and open field work.

Intensive signal practice will be Kerr's program for the most part for the rest of the week. He does not expect to work up any plays other than have been tried out in practice recently. He is expected to depend for the most part on straight football. Stanford rooters seem to have little faith in their eleven's ability to puncture the Olympic Club line Saturday, but they regard the eventual outcome of the game with more optimism than the real chances probably merit. The odds are without doubt heavily against the Cards, although the final score should be fairly close.

It is to Kerr's heavy line, averaging close to 200 pounds, that the Stanford rooters point when they declare that the Olympic Club will be unable to run up many points against the Stanford Red. And it is to Art Wilcox, veteran of three big games, to Murray Cuddebach's boot and to the speed of the rest of the Stanford backfield that Cardinal supporters look for tricky work that may beat the Olympics. Whatever the outcome, it is pretty well assured that neither eleven will be able to cross its opponent's goal line more than once or twice.

MERCHANTS BEAT FIGONI.

The Florio-Figoni club lost a tough game to the Shattck Avenue Merchants 3 to 2. The game was a pitcher's battle between "Chick" Hafey for the winners and Cooke for the Hardware lads. Hafey allowed six hits, while Cooke was found for seven. The fielding of Joe Vivaldi, short patcher for the Hardware lads, and the good work of Toner, McDermott and Fenton were features.

YANK PITCHERS HAVE HAD EXPERIENCE IN WORLD SERIES GAMES

Bush, Mays and Sam Jones Heaved for the Red Stockings When They Licked the Cubs in 1918; Ruth and Scott Also on That Team.

By BABE RUTH
Yankees' Home-Run Star

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Everett Scott and I were talking about the last world series in which we worked together. We opened at Chicago in 1918 against the Cubs, when Scotty and I were both playing with the Red Sox, and all we heard around the hotel lobby and in the streets was what would happen when the great National League trio, Douglas, Tyler and big Jim Vaughn uncorked their stuff against the Sox. The insinuation was that our club would be helpless against National League twirling. The outcome of that series is history now and it is interesting to note the American League not only won but the National League champions were held to a total of nine runs for the seven games, an average of one run every six innings. And here's the very important consideration in relation to the present series. The Red Sox pitchers who proved too much for the National League pennant winners that year were Joe Bush, Carl Mays, and Sam Jones. I have a very strong hunch that this same trio now wearing Yankee uniforms is going to prove too much for this year's champions.

BABE RUTH.

To that assortment add Shawkey and Hoyt, but the rest of the Yankees are not going to lay around waiting for the pitchers to win the world series by turning in shutouts every day.

Just because the club fell into a three-day hitting slump the ba

PACIFIC COAST CONFERENCE TO MEET ON EAST-WEST GAME

CALIFORNIA ELEVEN APPEARS TO BE IN EARLY SEASON SLUMP IN THEIR DAILY WORKOUTS

ANDY SMITH PUZZLED BY GOLDEN BEARS' SHOWING IN PRACTICE

California Team Appears to Be in Serious Slump; Backs Continue to Fumble While Line Is Lacking Charge.

By DOUG. MONTELL.

The Golden Bears, for two years undefeated, off to a good start this season, are in a slump. It came without apparent cause and is as mystifying as it is serious. Last night in practice the Bruins appeared to be working as though in a trance. Backfield men loafed with the ball, fumbled, made indifferent gains in scrimmage and there was no answer to the all-important question "Why?" The linemen failed to overbalance this attitude, their work of charging displaying none of the characteristic snap of last week, man after man being replaced by Andy Smith in an effort to evolve a combination which would perform with some degree of efficiency. The whole afternoon, spent on the development of a few offensive plays, was manifestly far from a success and the Bears can well be expected to be sent back to defensive football unless they display greater activity and interest at once.

Last night it was a case of stand by and grin and bear it with Andy although his patience must have been sorely tried with the exhibition of the team as a whole. Giving a team new plays calls for a certain amount of time being spent on learning these before any degree of perfection results But the misplays came on new and old plays alike. and after nearly two hours' practice the Bruins were released..

Veterans Must Get Down to Business.

While the condition present in the Blue and Gold squad last night is not to be worried over at present with the crucial game of the year. the U. S. C. contest three weeks distant. it will nevertheless require some sort of a jolt to make the Bears snap out of it and play ball. They are not the team they were last year, as yet, although admittedly the squad appears to have the prospects of making as strong an eleven as the 1921 Bruins if the men get down to business.

The veterans, at least some of them, are giving Andy a little trouble by going about their work with a feeling of perfect security in holding down their jobs A solemn warning was sounded at the start of the week by Coach Smith that no man would be allowed to hold down his job in the face of keen competition on his record of last season or the season before. Results this year are what is being demanded, and it is up to one or two wearers of the "C" to deliver promptly.

Marines Should Not Worry Bears.

The U. S. Marines present the next problem on the slate of the Bears. Coach Sommer's has an aggregation that should not worry Andy Smith's men to any extent and their showing of 13-0 against the Olympic Club was not particularly due to their own wonderful play but rather to several lapses from good football on the part of the Olympians. The Club team appeared to have no well formulated offensive plans while the Bears, if they use the same amount of offensive football they showed against Santa Clara, have enough in the shape of power plays on the line and passes, to cross up the Marines defense to such an extent that it should be no trick to wander through for good yardage

To make matters worse the Marines failed to show anything that resembled a punter. When the Olympic Club met the Marines there was a high wind blowing and with that behind them the Marine low punts would roll for a considerable distance but Nisbet and Morrison will far outshadow the Sea Soldiers in this department.

Don Nichols continues to turn out in a suit regularly, but his ankle, still weak from a twist sustained in last Saturday's game, will stand a little rest yet. Spalding and Burgess will be the likely halfback combination to start Saturday.

"Brick" Muller's shoulder is showing constant improvement according to Charley Volz but with six other ends in good shape there is no reason to believe that Andy Smith will start the big end this week, or even the following Saturday.

Woman, 86, Ardent Football Follower

DAVENPORT, Ia., Oct. 4.—Mrs. D. N. Richardson, 86 years old, and the widow of the founder of the Davenport Democrat, is believed the most enthusiastic football fan in the world for one of her years. She announced yesterday she has chartered a special car and will take a party of 26 relatives as her guests to the Yale-Iowa game at New Haven on October 14.

Pitt.-Stanford Game Is Cause Of New Tangle

Pacific Coast Conference to Meet Saturday; Stanford to Stick by Guns.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 4.—Representatives of eight universities comprising the Pacific coast intercollegiate conference will meet in Portland Saturday to discuss whether Stanford university is guilty of a grave breach of conference rules and ethics in having scheduled a post-season football game against the University of Pittsburgh in the Stanford stadium for December 30.

The meeting was called today by Dr. U. G. Duback of Oregon Agricultural College, president of the Pacific coast conference. The call followed interchange of telegrams between Dr Duback and the representatives of the various conference schools.

It was said that one of the first efforts of the conference would be to try to persuade Stanford athletic authorities to cancel the Pittsburgh game.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 4.—Stanford will not cancel their game with Pittsburgh on December 30th. This was the final word given out late last night by Dr. W. H. Barrows, when it was announced that a meeting of the Coast Conference had been called to discuss the game. At the last meeting of the conference nothing had been done to schedule a game definitely at Pasadena on New Year's and inasmuch as Stanford announced at that time that they did not desire to be considered a candidate to play in such a game, we reserved the right to schedule a game in the Stanford stadium.

It is believed that objection to the Stanford-Pitt game comes from Pasadena and that several colleges are taking up the fight for Pasadena.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Oct 4.—Graduate Manager L. A. Nichols this morning stated that there was nothing to be said regarding the meeting of the conference until after the meeting Saturday.

Regarding the scheduling of the Stanford-Pitt game, Nichols said that now that the game is arranged for he did not see that anything could be gained by calling it off, but that some sort of disciplinary action would be in order to prevent other institutions acting in a similar manner in the future.

The booking of the game on December 30 has practically eliminated the Stanford stadium as a site for the East West conference game New Year's Day, in the opinion of Nichols, but Pasadena is still to be considered and the conference will undoubtedly take definite action toward arranging for such a game.

SEATTLE, Wash, Oct. 4.—A tangle over the East-West football game is understood to be the principal business to come before the meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference called at Portland Saturday. The question was left suspended in mid air by the eight members at their last meeting. Since then Stanford has scheduled a game with Pittsburgh on Dec. 30. It is feared that this game will cut into the receipts of a game at Pasadena in which the chosen team of the conference is to play. This team need not be the champion according to the understanding.

New York Giants, National League Champions of 1922

JAWN McGRAW and the boys being very superstitious before winning the pennant would not pose for photographers and not until after the Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals and won the championship would they face the lens.

JOHN RAWLINGS

They call him Lucky Johnny because he happens to have discovered the trick of doing the right thing at the right time. The name is not only unfair but inappropriate. Plucky Johnny would be more like it.

He was the one big star among stars during the 1921 games. Rawlings is a great man in a pinch, which is the only way to be great.

He broke into baseball with the Victoria Club of the Northwest League in 1912, and after a short session with the Cincinnati Reds in 1914 cast his lot with the outlaw Reds, playing for two seasons with Kansas City.

In the wild scramble for stars that ensued upon the declaration of peace in baseball Rawlings was studiously avoided and he drifted out to Toledo, of the American Association. He was back again with the Boston Braves in 1917 and was traded to the Phillies in 1920. The following season saw him transferred to New York. Johnny wasn't altogether infuriated with this latter deal.

GEORGE HERMAN RUTH

Introduction unnecessary. As well known as the President of the United States. Greatest slugger in the history of baseball. The German Herman an unnecessary appendage. Known everywhere as Babe.

Career meteoric. Was an inmate of a Baltimore orphanage in 1914, but was picked up by Jack Dunn for his Baltimore Orioles as a left-handed pitcher.

Many Veterans Take Part in the Series

NEW YORK Oct. 4.—Veterans of other world series are plentiful in both New York lineups as announced for todays opening game of the big fall classic.

Ruth, Pipp, Bob Meusel, Schang and Ward of the Yanks played in last years games, as did Bancroft, Frisch, Irish Meusel, Young, Kelly, Snyder and Neht of the Giants.

In addition, Ruth appeared in several series with the Red Sox. Schang played with both the Red Sox and Athletics when they were champions and so did Joe Bush. Eberett Scott is another ex-Boston. Witt and Dugan are the only Yankees who are without their baptism of fire in a big series.

The Giants have no serious novices, Heinie Groh having played with the Reds in 1919 and Casey Stengel with the Dodgers in 1916.

Dartmouth to Introduce New Coaching Plan

Cannell, Three Assistants and Advisory Staff of Three in Charge.

HANOVER, N. H, Oct. 4.—For over two weeks a squad of almost 100 men have been preparing twice daily for the long and arduous football season, which begins Saturday with the Norwich game. With some 20 letter men as a foundation for the squad, a new coaching system, and the necessity of straightening out a debt of honor with Cornell, the student body and the squad in particular look forward to the season realizing its difficulties, but hoping and working for success.

Particularly important this year is the new coaching system. Jackson L. Cannell, '19, again heads the coaching staff, assisted by J. J. Ryan, former end and captain of the Green; J. B. McAuliffe, former tackle and captain, and J. E. Robertson, versatile back and captain of the 1920 and 1921 teams. The work of theseactive coaches is to be reinforced by the work and advice of the advisory council of coaches, consisting of L. H. Bankhart, who played end on the team of 1909; C. W. Tobin, lineman and captain of the same year, and J. B. Hawley, back and former assistant coach. Each of these coaches will be in Hanover at various times during the season for short stays, besides coming up for the weekly preliminary games.

STRONG LINE.

The most outstanding possibility of the squad this year is a line much stronger and heavier than that of last year. The return of Aschenback to eligibility fills a gap proved to be a constant worry all during last season, and he, along with Neidlinger, Don Moore, Goldstein and Hatch, seconded by Taylor, Swenson, Hurd, Sweetser, Rowe and others are likely to be the foundation of a much more powerful line than has represented the Green in several years. Comparatively, however, in weight, the team will not be as heavy as some of Dartmouth's more important opponents.

At present the coaches are using Moore at center, with Aschenback and Neidlinger at the tackles and Sweetser, Swenson, Hurd and several others alternating at the guard positions.

Among the more than a score of candidates for end berths the two outstanding wingmen are Lynch and Gordon, both of whom are veterans of two years' experience.

CLIFF KRAMER AND JACK REEVES BOX MAIN EVENT TONIGHT

VERNON TIGERS GAIN HALF GAME ON SEALS BY REMAINING IDLE; ANGELS BEAT SEALS

HEAVYWEIGHTS WILL TRADE PUNCHES; TWO GOOD RETURN BOUTS

Pelkey and Frankie Murphy in Special Event; Billy Wallace Meets McCann and Eddie Landon Tackles Al Grunan.

By BOB SHAND.

Looks like the winner of tonight's heavyweight fuss at the Auditorium will have to pull an Alexander and rustle around for new worlds to conquer. Kramer and Reeves are so far ahead of the rest of the field that there is really no comparison and no promoter would think of matching either of them against any of the many challengers. The Pelkeys and Hoags and Lamsons and Sullivans and that sort are all right battling among themselves, but they do not figure in the same class with Reeves and Kramer. Reeves has already made arrangements to depart for Portland immediately after tonight's fight. He will box Jimmy Darcy ten rounds next Tuesday and has been promised a bout with Harry Greb if he licks Darcy. Frank Dunleavy, manager of Kramer, has been inquiring about the prospects of his heavyweight getting some employment in the east and the chances are that the pair will make an eastern trip if Cliff is returned the victor tonight.

Reeves boxed three rounds each with Jimmy Duffy and Ray Pelkey yesterday and the blonde heavyweight is well satisfied with his condition. Last time he met Kramer Jack was bothered with a clogged nose and admitted after the fight that he had done no boxing in preparation for the battle. He has been boxing plenty this trip and has had Jimmy Duffy to speed him up. Speed was about all that Jack needed in his other bouts, as he has about everything else.

Kramer Will Have No Alibi If Defeated.

Kramer wound up his training at the Alameda club yesterday and is taking things easily today. He says he will have no alibi to offer should Reeves defeat him, but Cliff is not looking for such a result.

Frank Dunleavy is greatly exercised over the Reeves body punches and he wants Jack warned about hitting low. Reeves accidentally fouled his man in their last meeting, but Kramer stated that the punch did not hurt and did not want the decision on a foul. Reeves is a wicked body fighter and a bit careless about where he puts his wallops, but he is not a foul fighter. Kramer is not worried over the contingency of a foul, as he thinks he has another punch handy similar to the one that laid Harlan Bunker low recently.

Pelkey starts here again after a long absence, during which the former soldier scrapped in Los Angeles. His draw with Racehorse Roberts was not impressive, but Bert M. Cloud, who is again handling the big fellow, declares that Pelkey was not properly seconded [illegible] Pelkey boxes Frankie Murphy tonight and the Dundee fighter should extend Ray to the limit. Dundee has been working out with his protege, while Kid Goldie has been swinging a mean towel.

McCann and Wallace Ready to Step Again.

Frankie McCann and Billy Wallace need no introduction. Neither do Eddie Landon or Al Grunan. These are return matches that promise to develop more excitement than even the main event.

Sailor Ackerman, a rough scrapper from San Diego, will make his debut against Alex Tasloff. Jumping Jack Russo battles Fred Bonillas and Johnny Dempsey will open the show with Harry Baker.

Eddie 'Hats' Parker has a new fighter who is guaranteed to be sound and without ailment. His name is Walter Jackrabbit, or Grayjack, or something like that. The boy is highly recommended by Kid Williams, Gingham Rooney and others and Parker would like to send him in against Kewpie Callender, Eddie Macey or any of them.

Jack Rooney, a light-heavyweight from Arizona, is here looking for matches. He is being handled by Phil Jones of Redwood City. Rooney fights at 175 and bars nobody.

Heat Doesn't Stop Iowa Scrimmage

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 4.—Indian summer heat which forced the fans to appear in shirt sleeves, failed to stop the scheduled scrimmage yesterday afternoon between the first and second teams of Iowa's football squad. The varsity looked fine against the seconds, scoring three touchdowns on passes. Captain Loche made several great gains on plunges. Parkin, first string quarter, remained on the sidelines, Rich showing considerable ability at the pilot's job.

KRAMER WINS FIGHT.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—Danny Kramer, Los Angeles featherweight, won a decision over Mike Depinta, of Portland, Ore., in the main event at Vernon [illegible] night. "Fighting" Larry Murphy and Young Farrall, Los Angeles bantam weights, fought a draw in the semi-finals. Each knocked the other down once.

No Reserved Seats Remain For Big Games

Yankees Are 6 to 5 Favorites to Win the World's Championship.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(International News Service Sports Editor.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Broadway and its network of feeding arteries, otherwise known as the "Roaring Forties," has begun to run something of a temperature with the first game of New York's private little big series for the world's championship on today. Thousands of visitors from points west, south and north are parading the famous thoroughfare, standing in hotel lobbies and other convenient places. The annual convention of the American Bankers' association has cast 10,000 members on the lifestream of the town. When not engaged in the problems of finance, they stand around and discuss the respective chances of the Giants and Yanks. Oldtimers of the ball field are here, which is nothing new. They always rally round a world series.

A determination to miss nothing helps swell the throng.

A warm, almost midsummer, sun shines down on all. It is supposed according to the weather bureau, to spread its stuff again tomorrow and probably Friday with the possibility that showers and cooler weather may come later in the week.

NO RESERVED SEATS.

The rest of the details have been swept up in a neat, tidy pile. No reserved tickets are on hand in either office and only the 22,000 unreserved seats for each day remain. These will be disposed of the day of each game and purchasers will be required to enter the park immediately, an honest attempt to break up speculating.

It is a virtual certainty that McGraw will start Art Nehf, his curve ball lefthander, against Joe Bush, the Yank fast ball ace, in tomorrow's inaugural. Nehf created a world's series record in holding the Yanks to 13 hits in three games last year. The chances are against him repeating, particularly since he has had an indifferent season. Bush has enjoyed his most prosperous campaign since coming to the big leagues in 1913.

YANKS ON "HILDY."

There is little evidence of partisanship among the fans. Manhattan promises to go out and look at the thing but apparently wishes to notify one and all concerned that it is compelled to become neither agitated nor enthusiastic. The players of both teams are hardly inimical, either. They are more than friendly; all little pals together, in fact.

However, the future is a shy, evasive animal. According to official edict, Bill Klem and Harry McCormick of the National League staff, and "Brick" Owens and George Hildebrand of the American League will umpire the series. The Yanks and Hildebrand are on terms of perfect understanding. It is one of those beautiful friendships that seeks expression by saying it with heel prints. Let Hildy pull an adverse decision or so and the Yanks will want to lick him and the Giants as well.

YANKS ARE FAVORITES.

The betting as anticipated has dropped to 6 to 5 on the Yanks and in some cases to even money. Most of the boys, however, manage to keep their hands in their pockets and their tongues between their teeth.

Loafing Was Not Easy for Vernon Boys

Essick Not Looking for His Team to Have an Easy Time With Oaks.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Rain interfered with the plans of Manager Bill Essick of the Vernon Tigers to open their seven-game series here yesterday afternoon against our Oaks, so the Tiger leader spent the afternoon indoors with his team, awaiting the result of the San Francisco-Los Angeles game in the south. The Seals went south with a one game lead over the Bengals and Essick and his hired help were more than pleased to hear the Angels had trimmed the Seals in the opening game of the series that promises to make or break the transbay club in so far as the pennant is concerned.

Essick viewed the Los Angeles victory yesterday as being more important than merely bringing the Seals half a game closer in the race for the hunting. "The defeat of the Seals in the opener was a moral defeat for Jack Miller's men," said Essick when the result was made known to him. "It doesn't take much at this stage of a pennant race to break the morale of a team and I firmly believe that with that first game lost the Seals will be an easier team to beat.

Bill Essick is one of the most popular managers in the league. He is not only popular with his own players, but with the fans all over the circuit on account of his efforts to inject fight into the team and because he has kept Vernon a pennant contender throughout the season in spite of reverses and setbacks.

He is not only popular with his players, but with the fans all over the circuit. The leader of the Tigers says that his players have worked willingly for him and never protested when a shift was made in the lineup.

Essick has nought but praise for his men, saying that although it has been necessary at times to make shifts in the line-up, the reasons for which were not obvious, his decisions have never been questioned nor have any of the men who have been benched sulked as a result of his decisions. This is given as one of the reasons that the Tigers are up at the top today.

A defeat such as the Seals suffered yesterday comes at a time when the team is likely to crack from it. Such defeats in mid-season do not go so bad, because the players do not consider them so costly.

That Bill Essick is not taking the Oaks to be an easy outfit to beat is proven by his decision to use Jakie May, his little southpaw, in the opening game of the series this afternoon. Essick will use May at least twice this week, for he figures the Oaks will be tough pickings with their regular lineup in the field, and R. J. Kremer, Harry Krause and "Buz" Arlett slated to pitch two games each. May has credit for winning thirty-two games for the Beavers this season, and Essick looks for him to equal thirty-four before the series with the Oaks comes to a close. Cack Henley, former Seal is the holder of the record. May's record in a way is a better one at the present time than was that made by Henley. May has won his thirty-two games in twenty-six weeks of play, while Henley won his thirty-four games in a season which ran thirty weeks. And May was out of the Vernon lineup in mid-season for four or five weeks. At the rate he has been going, May should win three more games in the next two weeks and beat Henley's record.

Essick thinks that the Coast League never saw a better chucker than May. The little southpaw is always willing to step in and help out, no matter if there is a chance for him to take a beating, or win a game for the other fellow. Some fans may point out that May built up his record by relieving other pitchers and twirling one or two innings, but for the season the relief jobs work out evenly, as May has relieved some pitchers and stopped rallies, and the first pitcher got credit for the wins. The Yanks or Giants would have made a run away race of the pennant in their league if they had May, Essick believes. Another claim that Essick makes is that the New York Yankees will win the world series and his Tigers will win the 1922 pennant after a hard fight to the finish.

seat occupants that plenty of seats can be purchased at the Polo Grounds each day.

All you have to do is to park yourself early and avoid your neighbor's pockets.

The "I Knew Him When" club is gathering delegates every hour. Members already on hand and taking a leading part in the meetings are Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates and a great outfielder; Wilbert Robinson, fat, funny and fifty, torn between his friendship for John McGraw and "Cap" Huston; George Washington Grant, president of the Braves; Pat Moran and Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati; Jack Dunn, who thinks McGraw likes Jack Bentley better than he does $100,000; Hans Lobert, ex-Giant, ex-Phil, ex-Red; Fred Kacklitch, so energetic he used to warm up pitchers in a rocking chair out in the bull pen; Dan Brouthers, champion hitter of a past generation, and many others.

Tulsa-Mobile in A 12-Inning Tie

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 4.—The Tulsa Oilers and Mobile Bears staged a thrilling 12-inning game here yesterday, darkness causing a suspension of hostilities with the score four all. As a result Tulsa retains its advantage of two games to one over Mobile in the Inter-league series between the teams.

U. S. C. Has Indian to Replace Boyle

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—"Indian" Newman, former Sherman Institute star, probably will play right tackle on the University of Southern California football team, in place of John Boyle, who is expected to be out of the game for the remainder of the season with a compound fracture of the knee. Newman weighs 165 pounds. Captain Leo ("Babe") Calland was to have taken Boyle's place, but Coach Elmer C. (Gloomy Gus) Henderson decided that would weaken the center of the line, already light, so Calland will remain as guard.

Phil Cummings and John Hawkins will try for positions on the line.

Henderson says he is having trouble with the backfield, which does not co-ordinate, and he plans considerable shifting before the game next Saturday with Pomona college at Claremont.

Boxer Quits the Ring to Enter University

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—Jimmy Brenton, Los Angeles bantamweight, known to boxing fans of many Pacific Coast cities, has decided to quit the ring and has entered the University of Southern California as a student of pharmacy. He will have charge of the University's boxing team. Brenton, while a member of the Los Angeles Athletic club, won the international featherweight championship at San Francisco in 1917.

FOOTBALL FACTS worth knowing by SOL METZGER

Q. What is a safety?

A. A safety is made when the ball in possession of a player guarding his own goal is declared dead by the referee, any part of it being on, above, or behind the goal line, provided the impetus which caused it to pass from outside the goal line to or behind the goal line was given by the side defending the goal. Rule 6, Section 16.

Q. Do the men carrying the side line sticks have any authority over the game?

A. Decidedly no. They are nothing more than assistants to the head lineman. Rule 27.

Q. How far must a kick off travel before it can be recovered by the side kicking off?

A. Ten yards, unless it strikes an opponent before that distance is traveled. Rule 20, Section 1.

Q. Is time taken out between plays?

GOLF

The Claremont Country Club start play for the President's and Directors' cups Saturday, October 21. No less than 128 players will qualify in the first round match play in one flight at handicap. The tournament committee recognizing that all players should be included in a club championship has solved the problem and made the contest interesting from the first round. There will be a qualifying round but with 128 places to make, very few players will fail to qualify.

This is arranged principally to find the winner of low net and low gross for which trophies will be given. The match play will, as usual be drawn according to the positions in which the competitors finish. In the first round there will be 64 matches, second round 32, third 16, fourth 8, fifth 4. Then semi-finals and finals. Two rounds will be played on Sundays and one on Saturdays until the new club champion is discovered. A dinner will be given on the opening day of the tournament to which all members are invited.

TELLS FUTURE OUTLOOK AS TO LIBERTY BONDS

Eastern Financier and Commercial Leader Discusses Government Securities.

By CLARKSON POTTER,
Vice-President William R. Compton Company, New York.

In view of the fact that hardly more than a few months have elapsed since the different issues of Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes as a whole have been selling higher than their original issue price and further, because of the tremendous change represented by their advance from their lowest prices to their present values and by the advance in the general bond market during the last eighteen months, it may be interesting to owners of government securities to consider what the future may bring in the way of increases or decreases in the value of such issues.

It seems hardly necessary to consider government securities issued prior to the war, as the pre-war debt, very nominal in amount, is held largely by banking institutions to secure circulation and therefore has a constant and altogether [illegible] with the war-time indebtedness issued later on, and which affords no such special privileges.

According to the statement of the United States Treasury as of August 31, 1922, the peak of the War Debt of the Government was in round figures on August 31, 1919, approximately $26,596,000,000. On August 31 1921 (one year ago), the amount of the war debt had been reduced to approximately $23,992,000,000, a decrease of nearly $3,000,000,000. On August 31, 1922, a further reduction of nearly $1,000,000,000 was made and as of that date the total amount of War Debt including Liberty bonds, Victory notes, War Savings certificates, Treasury certificates, Loan and Tax certificates, Pitman Act and special certificates aggregated $23,042,755,934, a reduction from the peak of more than $3,500,000,000 within a period of three years' time. This very substantial reduction in the indebtedness of our country has been brought about by several different causes, several of which may disappear entirely in the future and many of which cannot be expected to continue at so great a rate as in the past. For instance, salvage from the sale of supplies owned by the Army and Navy and other departments of the government has been very considerable. Excess receipts of different forms of taxes have also contributed substantially to this reduction. The annual sinking fund has also been a large factor, but it may be noted that the sinking fund continues throughout the life of the different loans and is therefore constant.

TO DIMINISH DEBT.

It can hardly be expected that any great excess of revenues in the future, but on the other hand, it is entirely probable that payment of interest and principal of the foreign obligations owned by the United States will, to the extent that such payments are made, contribute towards a further diminishing of our indebtedness. However, while it is possible to predict that an orderly and constant reduction will take place every year, it is hardly to be imagined that the entire war debt of the country can be retired within the life of the different issues which comprise such indebtedness without the necessity of refunding at least a part

During the years 1920 and 1921 there was widespread agitation on the part of certain government officials, members of Congress, representatives of various organizations and many individuals to bring about a comprehensive refunding of the entire war debt of this country. Many suggestions were put forth, most of them extremely radical in their terms and few, if any, containing real merit. For instance, it was suggested by some that a new issue of long term bonds covering the entire debt be put on the market, affording the privilege of circulation or usable as legal tender. It is entirely too obvious what such a procedure would have resulted in, by way of inflation and higher cost of living. Others suggested a refunding issue of large size at much higher rates of interest, some as high as 6 per cent. Others proposed a refunding issue with variable rates of interest to be determined from time to time by the Treasury Department of Federal Reserve Board in accordance with changes in financial conditions. The suggestions made evidenced a very real interest on the part of many people in the problem which confronted the Treasury Department, i. e., the early maturity of the Victory Loan and of the short dated Treasury certificates. Despite the fact that most of the suggestions offered little, if any, help, the Treasury Department has made very decided progress along what seems to be sane and sound economic lines in refunding a very considerable portion of the short term indebtedness above referred to. It has accomplished this by the issuance of relatively short term Treasury notes maturing from three to five years and issued roughly over ninety days, the proceeds of which have been largely used to retire the Victory Loan. As a result of this policy, the amount of the Victory Loan maturing next May has been very largely reduced, the problem of meeting this maturity seems now to be a simple matter and interest rates on Treasury notes have been constantly reduced.

On or about the middle of May, 1920, the market values of the different issues of Liberty bonds and Victory notes were on the average at the lowest point ever reached. Since that time there has been constant and steady increase in value culminating in the peak reached about a month or so ago, and as a result every single issue is now selling at a premium The causes for this marked change are two-fold:

First—The world-wide decline in cost of capital evidenced by lower money rates, and Second—Shifting of ownership of government securities from those unable or unwilling to keep them as permanent investments, into the hands of real investors, such as banking institutions, insurance companies, savings banks etc, most of which have brought for permanent investment. Therefore as compared with approximately twenty-five or thirty million original subscribers to the different government war loans, it would seem safe to say that the ownership of the present war indebtedness is now concentrated in the hands of a very much smaller number

FUTURE OUTLOOK.

It is both unwise and foolhardy to predict what the future of any security will be except perhaps for the immediate future. Precedents are always helpful and therefore if it will be remembered that the prices of government loans of almost every country advanced steadily after every great war in the past, it would seem safe to presume that the present situation will be no exception, and that sooner or later and certainly long before the maturity of the longer dated loans, prices for such issues will be materially higher than they are today.

For the immediate future, it would seem that the continued decline in the cost of capital, uninterrupted even now at a time of year when demands for money are usually great, will result in higher prices for our Liberty Bonds within the coming year or two, and this notwithstanding the near approach of the termination of the tax exempt privileges which the different loans have afforded

Another factor which should contribute to an advance in value of Liberty Bonds is the decreasing amount outstanding of the longer term loans, diminished constantly and regularly by the issuance of refunding short term Treasury notes, proceeds of which are used to retire the longer term issues.

As this refunding process proceeds and the amount of long term bonds decreases, and provided no new long term issues are sold by the government, the supply of Liberty Bonds of long maturity will be constantly decreasing and increasingly hard to obtain. Therefore, from the standpoint of supply alone, the tendency in value should be upwards.

At this particular moment, it is quite apparent that values of high grade fixed interest bearing securities are still advancing and it would therefore not only seem absurd to believe that the value of the premier security of the world should lag behind, but also that its advance in value should not be relatively greater than for other high grade investments.

LODI GROWERS ESTABLISH NEW GRAPE RECORD

Best Price Brought by Alicantes; Zinfandels Bring in Good Figure.

A record has been set at Lodi for Alicante grapes, a carload lot having been sold to John Montgomery for $182.50 a ton. A second car was sold for $180 a ton and a third was disposed of in New York for the surprising price of $5,076. Zinfandels are bringing $140 f. o. b. Lodi in refrigerator cars and $110 to $112 in box cars. These prices are all records and growers rejoicing accordingly.

The unusually heavy storm in the St. Helena section of the State, has plunged the grape and prune growers into a sea of uncertainty. The precipitation from 6 A. M. Monday morning, until 6 A. M. Tuesday morning, totaled just one inch, as compared with one tenth of an inch to that date last year. The air currents hung tenaciously to the south east, giving little encouragement for a clear sky. About one-half of the grape crop of the valley, has gone to market, and about the same percentage of the prune crop is in the shed.

The car shortage worked material harm to the grape growers, while a shortage of orchard help has worked a hardship on the prune growers. In order to relieve the tension, the schools closed for two weeks, and the kiddies not only picked up a few prunes, but they also snuggled in a few pennies. A number of graduating nurses from the Sanitarium, doffed their snow-white aprons, and rustled prune trays, just for the fun of it; Growers who were fortunate enough to have only "Sugars" and "Imperials," have the harvest safely under cover, and are as happy as the proverbial "Clam" but the man who is growing the French prune, labors under a different state of mind. His fruit clings to the limb like the ivy on the wall, and a good stiff jolt with a club is the only argument that is at all effective.

FIRE IN GARAGE DESTROYS THREE MOTOR STAGES

Loss of $15,000 Results From Blaze That Threatens Neighborhood.

Three large automobiles and a garage were destroyed, and the rear portion of a home at 3479 Thirty-ninth avenue was burned today, by a fire which threatened to spread through a thickly-settled residential district. The value of the automobiles and the garage was placed at $15,000. The origin of the fire was undetermined.

The premises are occupied by Louis Loyke, part owner in a company operating passenger-carrying automobiles throughout the state. According to Loyka, the fire started in the garage, which was at the rear of his home. It gained headway rapidly and was marked by the exploding of several cans containing gasoline. When it became apparent that it might spread to adjacent buildings, a general fire alarm was sounded.

It was necessary for the firefighters under assistant fire chief, William McGrath, to relay hose lines four blocks in order to combat the flames.

BOY GIVES LIFE IN VAIN TRY TO RESCUE BROTHER

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Under the black waters of a deep quarry at Dolton today was the body of little John Kozinie, 6 years old. In the village morgue lay the body of his 9-year-old brother Joe. The boys at Dolton regarded the quarry pit as "bottomless," but Young John was a fearless swimmer. Against the admonition of Joe and his other pals John grinned and dived. Only a few bubbles came up.

"Gee, I'm scared to go in there," said Joe. His lips tight, he hesitated but an instant as he balanced on the edge of the steep quarry wall and plunged in after his brother.

Rescuers found Joe's body an hour later.

Wise Women

A famous medical man of ancient times states regarding his writings that they were but a collection of knowledge obtained from the "Wise Women."

Do you realize that in those times the women, and not the men, knew about the medicinal properties of medicinal plants, roots and herbs? From the earliest times, women had a knowledge of the treatment of disease and of the healing merit of roots and herbs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was originated by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, and is now known and praised by women of all ages. It is prepared from roots and herbs having medicinal action of great value in the treatment of troubles women so often have.—Advertisement.

Oldest U. C. Freshman at 71 Enters to Become Linguist

ROBERT J. JESSUP, 71, and oldest freshman to enter University of California, practices Oxford stroke learned at Yale in 1876.

Graduate of Yale in 1876 Studies With His Three Daughters in College.

Scene—University of California campus.

Typical sophomore "co-ed" ignores a freshman wearing the blue and gold be-ribboned cap of his lowly station.

This is nothing unusual, you say.

But it is startlingly unusual in this case because the freshman happens to be the father of the sophomore "co-ed" and the oldest student at the university.

The freshman is Robert J. Jessup, 71 years of age, a resident of Pasadena, who entered the University of California this year to study French, German and Spanish while recuperating his health. He has three daughters who also are attending the university.

Though a freshman, Jessup can boast of graduating from Yale in 1876, and previous to that attended Rochester University in 1873. This is the first time Jessup has attended college since he graduated from Yale.

While at Yale Jessup was second substitute on the boat crew, and with his resumption of college studies he has resumed his physical training as well. Most any day Jessup can be seen practicing the Oxford stroke on the rowing machine at the university.

Following his graduation from Yale, Jessup entered the newspaper field as a member of the Springfield Republican staff until 1880. There followed a general newspaper experience of 42 years all over the United States. In 1893 he reported the Chicago World's Fair for the Philadelphia Press.

The only known rival Jessup has as a college student is Colonel Geo. Lyons of Nebraska, who at the age of 72, is the oldest student at Harvard.

San Joaquin Retains School Apparatus

STOCKTON, Oct. 4. — County Superintendent of Schools Effie S. Anderson will not order playground apparatus removed from schoolyards of this county, although Superintendent Elwood of Stanislaus has notified boards of trustees to remove all apparatus which might cause injury and thus incur damage suits. Oakdale and Hughson have removed all bars, slides, teeters, etc. The Oakdale board of trustees is now facing a heavy damage suit brought by the parents of a school girl who was injured in a fall while using playground apparatus.

The San Joaquin superintendent of schools does not view the letter of Attorney-General Webb in the same light taken in Stanislaus. Says the letter in part:

"Briefly, trustees can be held liable only in case of negligence or incompetency. It is their duty to provide safe equipment, competent and careful employees, such as janitors and drivers of auto buses, and when their duty in this regard has been properly discharged, no liability exists."

OFFAL KING'S BRIDAL.

CONSTANTINOPLE—More than $200,000,000 was spent on the wedding of Ali Mahomud, who accumulated a tremendous fortune by monopolizing the sale of offal to the poor.

She Took One Look Then Said "O. K."

Speaking of her experience at

she said, "It did not take me long to realize that a big 40-foot lot with street work, sewer, water, gas, electricity, cement sidewalk, curbs, gutter, etc., all in and paid for by the owner for only $450 was a genuine bargain. And when the salesman told me that they would give me my home building material FREE I bought two lots, one to live in and the other we are going to rent!"

Schenectady Park

offers a real opportunity to any man or woman to get their own home for less than they are now paying out in rent. With the building of big industries in this district a substantial increase in values may be had in the next 12 months.

REAL PARISIAN QUARTER TO BE LEGION CREATION

'Yankee Paree' Fun Festival to Be Staged at Auditorium to Aid Fund.

Promising an actual reproduction of certain parts of the city of Paris and a duplication of the Casino at Monte Carlo, the American Legion announces a fun festival to be known as "Yankee Paree," to be given at the Auditorium starting November 4 and continuing until November 11. Nothing of the sort has ever been attempted on the Pacific Coast and the proceeds of the event are to go toward a building fund for the Oakland post.

Explanation of the affair, its scope and its purpose is contained in an announcemnet issued yesterday by Stuart B. Bowes, Al Chase and Assemblyman Richard Lyman of the executive committee in charge.

"Believing that the day of the drive has been done to death and that the public will respond to a 100 per cent effort to provide 150 per cent entertainment for every fifty cents asked, the American Legion has decided to stage 'Yankee Paree' or 'Seven Nights in Monte Carlo' for the benefit of its building fund during Armistice Week. The effort will be the most pretentious that the American Legion has ever attempted and the event will be the most novel ever attempted on the Pacific Coast.

"The Auditorium is to be transformed into a section of Paris. There will be exact replicas of the famous Parisian resorts and cafes. There will be the "Red Mill," "The Dead Rat," the Latin Quarter and the various features of Paris faithfully reproduced. There will be streets bearing French names and a person who is familiar with Paris will find that the resorts and cafes are on their exact street locations. One of the features of the event will be a replica of the Casino at Monte Carlo.

"There will be free shows, cabarets, games, and a thousand and one attractions. Every person entering the Auditorium will be given fifty French francs. The money idea will be carried throughout. American money will not be good. Admission to the various cafes and purchases will only be made through the medium of French money.

"We are planning to present a vaudeville program equal to the best in any of the vaudeville houses absolutely free. There will be free dancing and, of course, door prizes. A queen contest will be one of the features of the event.

"Arrangements are now under way to bring out some real French attractions. There will be Apache dancers galore, there will be real French cabaret entertainers and there will be some real big circus acts.

"All in all, the event will be featured by its picturesque novelty and its wonderful entertainment possibilities."

Half of Police Force to Watch Traffic, Outlook

Constant Appeals for Further Protection Brings Prediction by Sergeant.

A prophecy that half the Oakland police force ultimately will be traffic policemen was made today by Sergeant Charles Hemphill, in referring to the Chief of Police an application from a downtown church for police traffic protection during the services.

The church asserts that its worshippers can find no parking spaces, and says that its congregation, after services, find it hard to cross the streets.

"This is only one application of several," says Hemphill. "Churches and schools are demanding better protection every day. It is now all a matter of men.

"We have traffic policemen out Broadway, in new stations. We have men outside the Grant school, the Lakeview school, the Piedmont avenue school, and many others. Daily the requests are coming in for more protection. We have to do something, and yet our numbers are limited.

"Sooner or later we must have a greatly enlarged traffic squad. The scope of its work is expanding every day.

"We have tried to keep little details to hold down speeding, but their resources are limited. We are fast coming to the conclusion that the fast motorcycle policeman is badly needed in Oakland, and I am going to recommend that we have a motorcycle squad. Certainly something has to be done.

"We cannot control speeders and furnish an army of crossing-patrolmen without having a larger traffic squad. In fact, every evidence intimates that half the policemen on any city's force will soon be in the traffic squad. The problem of traffic grows bigger daily. If we cannot enforce the laws, the laws will surely be violated."

SOUTH SEA FIRE SURVIVORS HERE

Rescued from the schooner John A. Campbell when it caught fire and burned to the water's edge while anchored in the tropic sea off Tarawa, Gilbert Islands, the three little children of Captain W. J. Ferem, skipper of the vessel, have arrived in San Francisco with their parents.

Captain Ferem and his wife were ashore when the vessel caught fire on August 1, and unable to get to the vessel, were compelled to watch in agony until their children were rescued by William Miller, second mate, aided by members of the crew. The children, William, 6; Robert, 2 years, and Alice, 16 months, were finally brought to shore in a small boat.

The burned ship was owned by Burns and Philp Company, and was carrying a cargo of copra.

PARK ON HADDON HILL IS FAVORED BY CITY BOARD

Proposed Site at Top of Cascade Stairway With View of Lake.

The board of park directors yesterday adopted a resolution favoring the acquisition of a small square tract on Haddon hill for a park site.

The hill is between Capital street and Merritt avenue, and offers about the best available view of Lake Merritt. It stands at the top of the city's new $10,000 cascade stairway, the latter offering passage from the contemplated park to the driveway below.

The Chamber of Commerce already has favored this site for a park, and has sent out post-card questionaires, asking the opinions of property owners in the Haddon district. The replies are expected to be favorable, according to the park directors, and then the matter will be brought before the city council for its approval and purchase.

City Attorney Leon E. Gray advised the park board that it has the power to acquire park sites on its own responsibility, but he pointed out that as it has no funds for that purpose, the power does little good.

The park, if acquired, will be bought on the district assessment plan.

The park directors also went on record as favoring the cutting of a right-angle turn at Lake Shore and Mandana boulevards, near the mouth of Excelsior avenue, and also discussed the advisability of clipping some corners from Excelsior avenue where it empties its triffic into Lake Shore.

AUSTRALIANS MOVE TO BLOCK BIRD EXPORTS

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 4.—Official action to prohibit the exportation of Australian wild birds is likely on the request of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals which declared that 50 per cent of a recent shipment of birds to England died en route while the remainder suffered acutely.

The commonwealth has not control at present over the export of any but birds of paradise and cannot stipulate under what conditions exported birds should be treated. The states, however, and it has been suggested that the states might take action under their laws against any persons possessing birds which are protected, which would include an exporter.

At the council meeting of the Royal Australian Ornithologists' union a letter was read alleging that a recent shipment of birds was carried under conditions involving extreme cruelty and that the animals did not have sufficient room in which to move. A heavy percentage of deaths occurred during the trip, the letter said.

Much Smoke, No Fire in Home of Commissioner

Colbourn House Emulates Mt. Lassen When Pipes of Furnace Break.

The home of Commissioner Frank Colbourn, at 364 Hudson street, did not burn down last night, neither was it damaged.

This assertion is made this morning in response to the questions of solicitous friends and neighbors, who heard that the Colbourn home furnished one of the most spectacular fires in years, last night. The house emulated Mount Lassen and poured thick smoke from every window, chimney, door and crack; but the smoke was soon put under control.

It started when the cellar furnace pipes parted. The smoke of the furnace, having nowhere else to go, started meandering around the house, and in a short time the Colbourn family moved out. In time the furnace blow-outs were repaired, and today the house resumed its quiet career.

C. OF C. STARTS BRIDGE INQUIRY OVER CARQUINEZ

Vehicle Passage Over Straits Will Mean Much to the Northern Counties.

Feeling that the bridging of the Carquinez Straits is a matter of importance to Oakland, the Chamber of Commerce has instructed its highway committee to make an investigation of the several proposed projects.

This investigation will be made with the idea of determining which project is the most feasible. At the conclusion of the investigation, the Oakland Chamber of Commerce probably will get actively behind the project endorsed by its committee.

It has been pointed out to the chamber by those most closely in touch with this development that a bridge over the straits will open up a large section of the state which now is to a large extent walled off. A bridge also would result in increased travel into the northern counties on the part of residents of the Eastbay district and in turn would mean a large movement into Oakland from the counties north of the bay.

Amnesty Offered All Irish Rebels

DUBLIN, Oct. 4.—(By International News Service.)—The Irish provisional government today issued a proclamation granting amnesty to all rebels who lay down their arms by October 15. It is believed that this offer will make serious inroads in Eamonn de Valera's irregular forces, but it is unlikely that the leaders will surrender.

By a vote of 50 to 7, the Dail Eireann defeated the constitutional amendment evading oath of allegiance to King George by Irishmen.
